Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls, of Kansas, whose fame as a brilliant writer, a man of remarkable scholarship and literary attainments, is even greater than that of the distinguished senator, announces a book on the subject of the American-Spanish-Cuban War. It is published by the N. D. Thompson Publishing Co., of St. Louis, Mo., and is an exhaustive discussion of the causes of the war, and an equally exhaustive history of its incidents, and a brilliant analysis of the famous characters conducting it. It is entitled "American's War For Humanity in Picture and Story." It promises to be the one great and popular work called forth by this wonderfully interesting national episode. Whatever Senator Ingalls touches he adorns; and this book shines and sparkles in the light of his genius. The present work is worthy of his genius, and will be a monument to his fame. The subject now so engrossed the popular mind as to forecast for this book a sale that will be universal. It will be sold by subscription only, and the canvassing samples are now ready for agents. We advertise it in another column.

An energetic young teacher in a country school has made a suggestion which will doubtless be taken advantage of. She wants every child to make a history of the war by pasting into a scrapbook whatever newspaper anecdote or account of battle that is authentic and interesting. The pages are to be illuminated by pictures and portraits, and, of course, one of the many views of the fated Maine will form a frontispiece. Such a book will have untold value in the future, and may now be prepared without expense or trouble.
A miraculous escape happened to a child between 2 and 3 years of age, a son of Washington Roush, Washington township, on Monday afternoon. The covering over a well not being properly adjusted, the child fell through, dropping a distance of twenty-two feet striking the water. Its disappearance was noticed and a ladder was placed in the well, when a boy descended and found the child floating on the water on its back. When brought to the surface it was unconscious and had turned black. Proper remedies were used when the little one soon became conscious, and upon examination it was found that the child had not received even a single bruise.—Courier.
The Millinburg Telegraph of last week says:—Mr. J. J. Steininger of Hartleton was in town one day last week and left at this office a sample stalk of rye seven feet and ten and a half inches in length. The significance of all this is apparent. He is an old soldier, served in the war for the Union, is commander of John C. Schure Post, Grand Army of the Republic, and is noteworthy patriotic, whether in dealing out medicine to cure the ill and reinvigorate the age, or in cultivating products for the commissariat department of the volunteer invading army of Cuba. Evidently, from all this we infer he desires us to use that stalwart stalk of rye for a flag pole. Comrade, from the depths of a grateful heart we thank you.

Zechman's Stolen Meat.
Last week Elmer Zechman discovered that all his meat had been stolen, 2 hams, 3 shoulders and several pieces of dried beef. He got out a search warrant and after failing to locate it in a house near Globe Mills, they went to Howard Jones' residence in Washington twp. Here they found some meat which both Mr. and Mrs. Zechman have identified as their meat, through the medium of some bags in which the meat had been put. Mr. Jones was arrested, brought before justice Potter, who bound him over to court, and in default of $400 bail was lodged in jail to await trial at the next term of court. Jones is a farmer in Washington township and has a family of eight children. He has his hay to make and his harvest to cut and a new barn to build to replace the one recently destroyed by fire. Both Mr. and Mrs. Jones claim the meat is theirs. Hence it will require the court to determine the ownership of the same.
