ENLISTED FOR THE WAR

A Remarkable Meeting of the Republican State Committee.

ALL FACTIONS AND NO FACTION

The Republican Party Is Lined Up Shoulder to Shoulder With An Enthusiasm Unknown For Years-Unusual Interest of National Leaders at Washington in Colonel Stone's Majority.

(Special Correspondence.)

Philadelphia, July 26 .- It is the cusnom to speak of political gatherings as 'harmonious," unless there is something like an open disturbance, but the nneeting of the Republican state committee here was much more than this.

It was a visible and unmistakable notice to all observing persons that whatever has been in the past or may be in store for the future of rivalries within the party, there is room for only one kind of Republicans in Pennsylvania this year. The primary occasion of the meeting was to name a Republican candidate for judge of the superior court, to succeed the late Judge Wickham. The position was conceded to western Pennsylvania, as Judge Wickham was from Beaver county, and the superior court bench is otherwise heavily tilted toward the east, he having been the only member who could see the sun set behind the Allegheny mountains.

The selection of Common Pleas Judge William David Porter, of Allegheny county, by Governor Hastings, for the temporary appointment, had clearly indicated him as the likely nominee, and so there was no room for thrilling excitement in connection with the distinet business for which the state committee was called together.

Yet, instead of the perfunctory gathering of a mere quorum, it was the best and most representative meeting of the committee that has been held for years. Chairman Elkin, in his unusually happy opening remarks, fairly rang the keynote of the meeting when he congratulated those present on the comprebensive character of the assemblage and said that in selecting the executive committee for the conduct of the campaign, he had endeavored to include men of "all factions and of no faction."

Of the recent chairmen of the state committee, Quay was the only absentee. Cooper, "the golden haired angel of reconcilation," looking older since he has shifted his ambitions toward congressional politics, exchanged congratulations with Andrews, who succeeded him in the chairmanship. Gilkeson, who was the central figure ex-officio of the civil war of '95, sat within ten feet of ex-Congressman Robinson, who took a most conspicuous part against him in the final acts of that dramatic strug-gle, while General Frank Reeder, another ex-state chairman and never more popular in the fighting line of the party than since he followed the flag of party loyalty out of public office, sat side by side with George M. Van Bonnhorst, who is next friend to Chris

Then there was Magee himself, nominating Judge Porter, who had been chairman of the Republican county minittee which faithfully supported Delamater in 1830, and Porter's nomitation was made unanimous on the motion of Judge Henderson, of Craw ford county, who was defeated for nomination to the supreme bench by Judge Dean, and chiefly through Magee's efforts in the state convention.

nitte were announced from the platform every syllable was cheered. It was recfuctional fights as Congressman Conof the most trusted leadership of the party: Senator Magee, who has the heart of the party with him in Pitts-burg: Lieutenant Governor Lyon and x-Postmaster James S. McKean, of the same county, who have never be-fore been on the same side of the party and Charles F. Kindred, of Philadelphia, side by side with David H. bane, who, although a loyal friend of David Martin, has been untiring in fals efforts to promote the harmonious union of all sorts of Republicans which was demonstrated at this meeting; Horatio B. Hackett, who is as close to Martin as an undershirt; and W. J. Scott, who was for Wanamaker so long as there was room in the Republican party for a Republican to be for Wanamaker-when such men as these were named as the men who were to be trusted with the advisory conduct of the campaign in co-operation with the state chairman it was notice to whom it may concern that Pennsylvania Republicans are enlisted for the war, and that there is once more a common party front.

Judge William David Porter, the nominee for supreme court judge, by the way, is deserving of more than a passing mention. His brother, George McC. Porter, took a prominent part in the creation of the war state of West Virginia, and was speaker of its first mouse of delegates. Although a western Pennsylvanian, he is a graduate of the law department of the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, maving been a student under the lamented Sharswood. After two terms in the office of district attorney, although he had been chairman of the Republican county committee which carried Allegheny county against Pattison, the sentiment of the bar was so vigorously for him that Governor Pattison appointed him to a seat on the commor pleas bench, and he was nominated for re-election by both the Republican and Democratic parties on the expiration of

He has shown himself a strong man on the bench, and his elevation to the superior court has been generally com-

To those who have not closely followed Colonel Stone's career in congress, it may be a surprise to know the warm interest which his fellow members take in his gubernatorial candidacy. Here, for instance, are extracts from two letters which State Chairman Elkin has received from well known Republican leaders, who recognize the national importance of this election in Republican states like Pennsylvania. This is from Speaker Reed:

or the liberty to say anything in commendation of Colonel Stone. He has been in congress. He is able, compe tent and has attended to his business here in a manner which reflects credit upon his constituency."

The brilliant senior senator from the president's state, Joseph B. Foraker,

"The Republicans of Pennsylvania are to be congratulated on their good fortune in having such a splendid candidate for governor. William A. Stone is a typical representative of the best type of Republicanism. In congress he is universally esteemed for his many good qualities as a man and as an American. He is a most worthy leader at this particular time. His abilities meet the requirements of the period, and I predict for him and the Republicans of your state a triumphant victory in November."

And these are only samples of scores of similar letters from national leaders. GEORGE H. WELSHONS.

SELLING PRIZES OF WAR.

Recent Disposal of the Par -Sales Made During the Civil War.

The late sale of the prize ship Panama for the benefit of the officers and crew of the Mangrove and Indiana was the first transaction of the kind since the war with Cuba began. The ship was captured on April 25 by the lighthouse tender Mangrove, in command of Lieut. W. H. Everett, and the battleship Indiana. She came from New York, whence she sailed on the day before the Havana blockade was ordered, with a number of passengers and a large quantity of miscellaneous supplies for the Spanish army, with which she made a fruitless effort to run the blockade.

She was built in Glasgow in 1975, and is described as an iron steamer of 1,347 toms, 331 feet long. 24 feet 2 inches beam and 24 feet 9 inches beam. The vessel was bought by the government for $41,000.

The sale brought to the minds of the older men in the shipping business around the water front of New York the days of the civil war, when sales of blockade runners and other prize ships were not unusual happenings. Many of the sales were made by Burmized upon the instant that when dett. Jones & Co., whose office is decosuch men of prominence in the old inter- rated with pictures of the prizes. A member of the present firm said that nell, of Scranton, who is a representation the prizes were unloaded and the cargoes turned into the United States warehouses and the ships sold at publie auction. The sales were made by order of the navy department, under the direction of the United States marshal. In some instances the cargo street with Magee: Senator Durham was also sold, and one advertisement cut from the Tribune gives notice that "Daniel H. Burdett, of Burdett, Jones & Co., will sell the cargo of the prize schooner Elenheim, consisting of blankets, army cloths, sal soda, soda ash, beef, pork, groceries and dry goods, at 23 North River, on March 16, 1805. By order of R. Murray, United States marshal."

The same firm sold on one day for the United States government at the navy yards, Brooklyn, 15 ships of various dimensions, all prizes. One timeworn catalogue gives a list of 20 vessels which were sold by order of the government. Among these were gunboats, steamers, tugs and yachts. The terms were "20 per cent. on the day of sale, the balance within six days, when the vessels must be removed from the

As to the prices realized, the records show that they were good, and that the government received full value for the prizes which were sent to New York for sale. Ships were searce and buyers plenty. The market had been depleted, shipbuilders were delivering their product to the United States government, and vessels for transporting merchandise were at a premium. The price which was realised for the process of the product of the process of the proces

Lean Pork for Export. Secretary Wilson, of the agricultural department, has been trying to learn why more of our American bacon cannot be sold in the English market. Denmark and Canada send large quantities of becon to England, which brings from 11 to 14 cents per pound, while American bacon is rated from six and a half to eight cents. The trouble is that American bacon is too fat. The English want more lean meat, and the Dones and Canadians have learned this fact. In order to get more money from the foreign bacon trade, the American farmer must feed and breed for lean

They Were Terrible to Hear, But They Brought a Tiresome Ha rangue to a Close.

One of Detroit's lawyers who does not allow any embarrassment of facts to interfere with a good story, tells this one:

"It occurred in a little town down in Ohio. A strange judge was presiding at the courthouse in the center of a square where the so-called park did duty chiefly as a pasture lot. One of the local lawyers, with plenty of lungs and physical strength, was making an argument that was literally and impressively powerful. Just in the midst of one of his greatest flights a donkey in the park began to fill the air with the indescribable sounds for which his species is famous.

"'A moment, please,' said the court, with every appearance of solicitude and sincerity. 'Couldn't the brother shift his position just a trifle? It would change the angles at which his voice pierces the walls. The echoes in this structure are something horrible."

"As the voice of the donkey died away in a grating squeak, the lawyer dropped into his sent as though he had been shot, the dignity of the courtroom went out in a roar of laughter and the judge showed himself an actor Bowersox of Penn's Creek. by looking as though he wondered what it all meant."-Detroit Free

Reptiles and Music.

Tarantulas do not dance to the sound of the violin, but let the people they bite do the dancing; scorpions, however, enjoy fiddling, and lizards go crazy for music of any kind. As for serpents, the boa constrictor and python are senseless to melody, but the cobra is fascinated by the flute and still more by the fiddle. Polar bears enjoy the violin; so do ostriches; wolves will stop in the chase to listen to a cornet: elephants are fond of the flute, especially the upper notes; tigers, while appreciating violin and flute, cannot stand the harmonium, while the musical seal shows no emotion on hearing any instrument, not even the bass .-Quarterly Review
