Those Sure Things

I have repeatedly advised my readers, says a writer in the North American Review, that any concern that will guarantee more than the legal rate of interest may be set down as a fraud. Millions of idle capital are seeking investment in New York, at the legal rate of interest, and will pay a bonus to obtain this rate. Much of this capital is invested at only two or three per cent interest. It is therefore unnecessary for those who have "sure things" in the investment line to hunt up subscribers. The police of New York have just broken up a gang which has been operating as bankers and brokers, in how enormous profits could be made in before. wheat and stocks, because of the firm's alleged close connection with Armour, Leiter and other famous operators. A real estate speculative branch was connected with this stock-brokerage firm. and it was doing a swimming business when the police stepped in and arrested the entire outfit. So many warnings have been given in reference to the operations of similar schemes that it would seem as if the intelligent public would be thoroughly informed regarding such matters, but it has been well said that "the crop of fools is eternal."

A declaration by Lorenzo Snow, the ew president of the Church of Jesus must of Latter-Day Saints, is a better recognition of the legal conditions dominating Utah than the formal deiverance of the late President Woodruff. While reaffirming his belief that the Spints would be doing no moral nor religious wrong in practicing plural marriage under Divine sanction, President Snow does not hold it to be right that the members of the Mormon durch should break the laws of the and spainst that practice. The declares hat polygamy does not exist in Utah. ither accretly or openly, and pledges his word that the Saints "will sustain the constitution and laws and institutions of the United States, and be the champions of liberty and of this constitution when its integrity shall be threatened."

A Union Sentry's Providential Preservation from a Confederate Bullet.

We were discussing war and interesting poincidents, when Col. Swain, of handsome offices near Wall street, and Chigago, who saw service all through which has scattered alluring circulars the civil war, repeated a story which throughout the country, explaining Gen. Black had told him only the week

> Some time ago Gen. Black and his wife were taking a trip on the upper Mississippi. After being out a few days it was noticed that the same group of people were constantly finding themselves together; and in seeking the reason for their unusual congeniality n transpired that the men of the party were all old army men. Whereupon the swapping of stories became the order of the day. One evening an old veteran started a discussion as to whether there was such a thing as special Providence. "This is not the first time I have raised this question," said he, after the controversy was in full swing. "The last time was in '64, when we boys were bivouacked before Atlanta. It was toy night for sentinel duty, and right in the midst of the debate I was obliged to leave and go to my post.

"It was a frightfully dark night, the enemy was near, the country full of pitfalls, and I knew that my life was in momentary peril. Of course I had faced just as great risks many times before, but somehow on this particular night I began to dwell upon the terrors which surrounded me, until I was in a state of nervous collapse. Then my mind went back to our discussion upon special Providence, and to calm my fears I began singing 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul,' very much upon the principle of a boy who whistles in going through the woods.

"I sang the hymn through to the end, and by the time I had finished I was perfectly calm and fearless. I somehow felt that a special protection was round and about me, and in looking back to that which t I always have exactly the same fooling."

MARKETING WHEAT.

Iown Alliance Advises Western Farmers to Hold Their Crops for an Advance in Price.

The Farmers' alliance of Wapello county, Ia., has issued the following ad vice to farmers of the state as to holding wheat for higher prices: Within a short time a steady advance up to the .75-cent mark at northwestern shipping points is certain as death; and the farmhave the game in their own hands if they play with a little caution. The reason upon which we base our faith in the better price for wheat is that when the crop of 1898 was harvested the world's supply from former years was practically exhausted, and the breadeating world is now drawing its supplies from the crop of the present year. In other years, and for many years, the old stocks amounted to hundreds of millions of bushels when the crop of any given year was harvested, and in reckoning on the world's supply the gamblers counted the old wheat as well as the new. This year there is no old wheat on which they can reekon. The low price of wheat during ten years preceding 1897 was due not to a surplus in any given year, but to the accumulations of preceding years. The chief cause has now temporarily disappeared. Again, the acute distress which for three or four years afflicted many farmers in the northwest is no longer in sight. Farmers generally are in better shape to protect themselves against the vulgar wiles of bulls and bears; and those animals are perfectly aware of the situation.

ALFRED SPEER,

the Pioneer wine grower of New Jersey whose Port Grape wine and Burgandy rivals the world, imported the Port Grape vines many years ago, and planted vineyards in the Passaic Valley N. J. The soil in Passaic county, New Jersey, is identical to that of de'Menetiz. Speer's New Jersey Vineyards are situated in the Passaic valley below the mountain range and the grapes are carted to the winery in the town of Passaic where they are mashed between rollers made of rubber, which do not break the seeds, and made into wine.

These grand wines of Speer's that have mellowed in flavor in the course of years of ripening, are the choicest wines in this country and can only be obtained by paying a price that is higher than new wines from western vineyards. Mr. Speer deems it necessary for a healthy wine that it be allowed years to mature in wood to get rid of its coarse parts; with this object he keeps his wines several years in fumigated cellars and frequently racks before bottling or offering for sale. The reputation of Speer's wines as a valuable medicinal and family wine extends around the world.

An exchange says that in the primitive wilds of western North Carolina is a woman who has never had a vestige ot hair, cycbrows or hashes. The intetior of her head is also lacking in some of its requisites, but wherever vanity is kept, she has that all right. she usually wore a sun-bonnet, but at a "big meeting" in the neighborhood church she recently appeared in a new hat which crowned a wig of corn-tilk.

A practical modern scientist declares that if men would go barefooted and bareheaded they would never have cheumatism or become baldheaded: and in proof of the value of his theory he cites the condition of the Indians and other savage races of the world, who never cover their heads and who either leave the feet entirely free or encase them only in thin leather moccasins.

A Kansas man wants a wife, and, being a firm believer in printers' ink. makes known his desires in the following notice, which appears in his weekly paper: "A good girl wanted for a wife i am 25 yers old lite hare and blue eyes i am worth in realestate about 2000 dolers enybody excepting this offer will plese derect to H. They have abolished hazing at Princeton, too, the only proviso to the agreement being that the freshmen shall not wear golf or tennis trousers, shall not smoke pipes or cigars on the streets, and shall go to bed at nine o'clock. The funny thing about this compact is that the proviso has been solemnly accepted.

It is stated that the merchandise carried by rail in the United States is double the amount of land carriage of all the other nations of the earth combined. This means that the 70,000,000 people of the United States transport twice as much merchandise as the remaining 1.400.000,000 of mankind.

recital. At the end heasked: "Did you say that happened before Atlanta?"

"Yes." "In the fall of '64?" "Yes."

"Well, my friend, I was in the confederate army stationed at Atlanta. I was reconnoitering one evening when I chanced to pass near a sentinel of the northern army at his post. I thought that the best thing I could do for my country was to pop him over, and raised my gun to my shoulder, took careful aim, when just at that moment he broke forth singing 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul.' I dropped my gun instantly, saying to myself: 'No! I can't kill that man were he ten times my enemv.'"

Grant's Toilet in Camp.

In the night of the 14th Lee began to move troops to his right. Grant now directed Hancock's corps to be withdrawn and massed behind the center of our line, so that it could be moved promptly in either direction. When the general got back to camp that evening his clothes were a mass of mud from head to foot, his uniform being scarcely recognizable. He sat until bedtime without making any change in his dress; he never seemed particularly incommoded by the travel-stained condition of his outer garments, but was scrupulously careful, even in the most active campaigns, about the cleanliness of his linen and his person. The only chance for a bath was in having a barrel sawed in two and using the half of it as a sort of sitz bath. During most of this campaign the general, like the staff officers, used this method of bathing. cr, as our English friends would say. "tubbing." Afterwards he supplied himself with a portable rubber bathtub. While campaign life is not a good school for the cultivation of squeamishness, and while the general was always ready to rough it in camp, yet he was particularly modest in performing his toilet, and his tent fronts were always tied close, and the most perfect privacy was secured, when he was washing, or changing his clothes. While thus engaged even his servant was not allowed to enter his quarters .- Century. A Difference.

Neglect Means Great Loss.

A thoughtful farmer soon learns that there is no money in neglect or in suffering. If a cow goes hungry or gets a drubbing from the cross hired man, she records her woes in the milk pail. If the horse has sore teeth or a nail in his foot or is fed poor hay, his endurance, condition and constitution show the effects. Even a sitting hen if badly treated and illfed while breaking will show her feelings by her slowness in getting back into laying condition. There is a money value in comfort which becomes more and more apparent as we study into it. Nine out of ten farm animals will do the best they know how; they will work like machines for the skilled operator who keeps the bearings oiled with comfort. -Dakota Field and Farm.

A German Farmers' Guild. We accidentally come across the statement that one agricultural organization in Germany possesses a membership of 2.000,000 people. When the difficulty of getting American farmers together is taken into consideration, the magnitude of the work accomplished by the Germans in thus combining seems marvelous. No class of men on earth seem to be as difficult to handle in enlistment under a single banner as farmers, and yet no people would derive greater benefits from such unity of acion.-National Stockman.
