The Selingsgrove Times can curse Quay with one breath and in the next lick the hand of one of his supporters.

The battle between Profs. Bowersox and Walborn for the county superintendency is now on in full force. Speeches at public meetings are quite a prominent feature of the canvass.

A vote made with a lie by a politician after office is considered a cheaper vote than the one purchased with a five-dollar bill. The only difference is, the politician pays for the latter while some one else pays for the other.

The Selingsgrove Times charges us with being one of the men who insisted that Senator Hummel should be a candidate for Congress against Mahon. We have also learned quite recently that Senator Hummel in his last campaign had concocted that story and used it to gain votes. He told it wherever he thought it would help him. It did him no good and it served him right as it was a falsehood of the first water. Senator Hummel needed no encouragement to be a candidate for Congress. At the opening of the last campaign Senator Hummel called at the Post printing office two or three times a week trying to get us to consent to support him, which we refused to do as Senator Hummel well knows. It is now time for Editor Leshar to be sure before he makes a charge of that character.

The Election of Quay's Successor.

The election which most interests the politicians of this State at present is as to the manner in which a successor to Senator Quay is to be chosen if the Legislature adjourns without effecting an election. One view of it that is frequently taken is that Governor Stone will appoint the man to fill the vacancy that has existed since March 4th, but this is combatted by some able constitutional lawyers and apparently with sound reasoning.

The Constitution of the United States provides that "if vacancies [in the Senate] happen by resignation or otherwise during the recess of the Legislature of any State, the Executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies."

The Constitution of this State provides that "in case of a vacancy in the office of United States Senator from this Commonwealth in a recess between sessions, the Governor shall convene the two houses by proclamation, on notice not exceeding sixty days, to fill the same."

It will be observed that both the Constitution of the United States and that of this Commonwealth are silent as to the manner of selecting a Senator to fill the vacancy occurring during a session of the Legislature, as in the case in the present instance, and this has led to the difference of opinion on the subject. There seems, however, to be no power delegated to the Governor to appoint a successor to Senator Quay. The Constitution of the United States does not provide that he shall have such prerogative under circumstances such as exist here, nor does the State Constitution. In addition, there is precedent for declaring that his appointment would be valueless. The United States Senate has decided in a number of cases that a claimant who came to it with credentials signed by the Governor of his State as his appointee could not have seat in that body. So that it is hardly likely that Governor Stone will appoint a Senator or that his selection could gain admission to the Senate.

There is no express command of the Constitution that there shall be an extra session of the Legislature to choose some one to fill the vacancy in this State's representation in the Senate, but there is an implied direction to the Governor to call such session, and it may be that Governor Stone will observe it. The views of eminent constitutional lawyers support this solution of the matter and the United States Senate will in all probability refuse to accept a member unless thus chosen, and no other way seems open to our Chief Executive than to let the Legislature make an effort if it fails to reach an election before the adjournment of this session.—Chambersburg Opinion.
