

Boils and Pimples Give Warning.

AN UNFAILING SIGN THAT NATURE IS APPEALING FOR HELP.

When Nature is overtaxed, she has her own way of giving notice that assistance is needed. She does not ask for help until it is impossible to get along without it. Boils and pimples are an indication that the system is accumulating impurities which must be gotten rid of; they are an urgent appeal for assistance—a warning that can not safely be ignored. To neglect to purify the blood at this time means more than the annoyance of painful boils and unsightly pimples. If these impurities are allowed to remain, the system succumbs to any ordinary illness, and is unable to withstand the many ailments which are so prevalent during spring and summer.

Mrs. L. Gentile, 2004 Second Avenue, Seattle, Wash., says: "I was afflicted for a long time with pimples, which were very annoying, as they disfigured my face fearfully. After using many other remedies in vain, S. S. S. promptly and thoroughly cleansed my blood, and now I rejoice in a good complexion, which I never had before."

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD

is the best blood remedy, because it is purely vegetable and is the only one that is absolutely free from potash and mercury. It promptly purifies the blood and thoroughly cleanses the system, builds up the general health and strength. It cures Scrofula, Eczema, Cancer, Rheumatism, Tetter, Boils, Sores, etc., by going direct to the cause of the trouble and forcing out all impure blood. MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

The Colonel Collapsed.
At Devonport a soldier was brought before the commanding officer for selling part of his kit, when the following dialogue took place:
Colonel—Now, Private Murphy, why did you sell your boots?
Private Murphy—I'd worn em for two years, sorr, and thought they were my own property.
Colonel—Nothing of the sort, sir. These boots belong to the queen.
Private Murphy—I'm sure I'm sorry, sorr, but I didn't know the lady took twelves.—(Collapse of colonel).—Tit-Bits.

Sauces.
Hawker—Good morning, mum; any pins, tapes, needles, cottons or buttons I can show you?
Miss Eldersere—Not to-day, my man. Go away.
Hawker—Any pipe cleaners, boot-laces or collar studs for your husband, mum?
Miss Eldersere—Go away, I tell you; I haven't got a husband.
Hawker (cheerfully, as he departs)—Ain't yer miss? Well, don't take it too much to 'eart; while there's life there's 'ope.—Ally Sloper.

His Parting Shot.
"Marry you?" scornfully exclaimed the young woman. "No—not if you were the last man on earth! I'll never marry a 300-pounder with a No. 14 foot and a hand like a split ham!"
"I perceive, Miss Flyppe," rejoined the overgrown young man, his entire frame trembling with indignation, "that you are not only wasp-waisted, but you can sting!"
And he went away, not wholly crushed.—Chicago Tribune.

His Idea.
Little Willy—Pa, what is a bigamist?
Papa—A bigamist, my son, is a man who has more wives than the law provides.
Little Willy—Why, pa, I didn't know that the law provided a man with any wives at all; I thought he had to go out and hustle one for himself if he wanted her?—Puck.

Sure of Himself.
She laid her head against his breast and looked fondly up into his eyes.
"Alfred," she sighed, "are you sure that you will always love me as you do now?"
"Yes," he replied, "I am sure. Your father has promised to endow no colleges and he hasn't an expensive hobby of any kind."—Chicago Daily News.

The Woman Question.
Perry Patette—Wonder why women always is so much better lookin' than men?
Wayworn Watson—Look at the trouble they take. Most any woman washes her face every day, jist fer looks.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

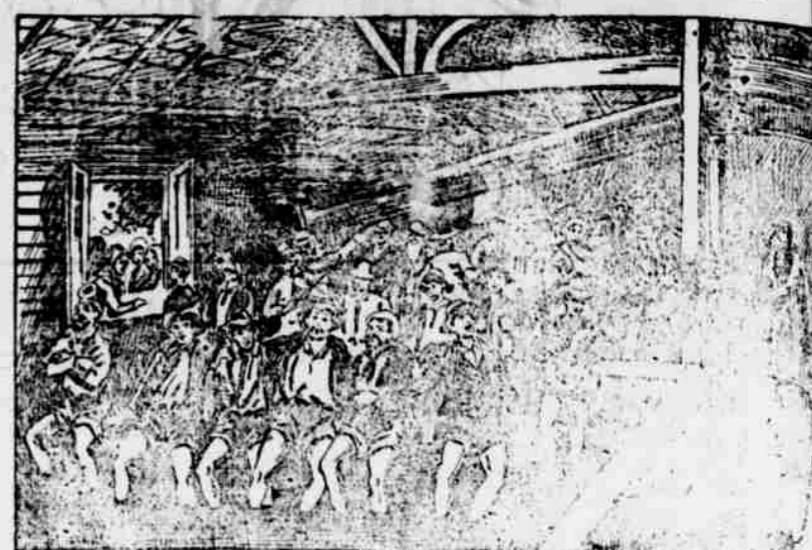

His Reason.
Customer—Tell me, waiter, why do you only recommend stewed tripe today. Is it so excellent?
Waiter (confidentially)—No, it isn't even fresh, but if there's anything left we have to eat it.—N. Y. World.

Shocking.
"Mamma, what bad manners Mrs. Busyboddy must have!"
"Why?"
"Why, I heard Aunt Jane say she wants to have her finger in everybody's pie."—Brooklyn Life.

Gar National Birds.
The eagle may lead us in battle
And soar where the victory starts;
But, unto his sorrow, the turkey
Gets very much closer our hearts.

AN OPTIMIST.

SCENE IN A PORTUGAL WINERY.

Speer, of New Jersey, Uses Rollers Instead of Feet.
It is from this district the vines were imported over forty years ago that now fill the vineyards of the Speer Wine Co., at Passaic.
At Passaic the same kind of grapes are crushed between large rollers of rubber, revolved by steam. This is the only place in this country where the real genuine Port Wine is made from the Oporto grape—and they are grown right in SPEER'S VINEYARDS.
These vineyards extend over 1/2 of a mile along one of the Main avenues of Passaic, and comprise fifty six acres. The soil being rich in iron makes the wine most valuable for Medical use.

SPEER'S WINES
Are well known to be of the highest character, the oldest and most refined Wines in America, equal if not superior to any wines in the world. They consist of Port, Sherry, Burgundy, Claret, Sauternes Wines, and ★★ Climax Brandy. Mr. Speer has some Wine in his cellars that he made over thirty eight years ago. All of Speer's Wines and Brandy are very old, rich, well rounded, soft and delicate. Every family should have a bottle or two of each variety of Speer's Wines and Brandy always in the home, for sickness or family use.

BUY COPPER SHARES FOR LARGE PROFITS.

Three months ago, copper was 15 cents a pound; now, 18 cents. Demand for the metal greater than the supply. Profits never so low. Nothing in history like the profits made in copper since two years ago. The opportunities for large profits in the near future are now as good as they have ever been before.

The following table shows the steady and rapid rise in value of shares of copper mines during the past two years:

Recent Reminders of a Robbery in Washington Twenty Years Ago.

The Keck smuggling case, lately decided in favor of the defendant by the supreme court of the United States, presents a phase that recalls a celebrated robbery of the treasury in Washington nearly 20 years ago. In the Keck case the diamonds are in the possession of the government. As Keck has been acquitted of the offense of smuggling by the highest federal court, some good lawyers who heard the decision hold he can recover possession of the jewelry. The case in one phase resembling this was the theft by a treasury employe in Washington of a package of currency containing $300,000 in $500 bills. The package was abstracted at the noon hour, when the clerks are allowed a time to leave the building for luncheon. The thief carried it to a nearby saloon and hid it, the keeper of the place being supposed to stand in with him. The loss, of course, was soon discovered and everybody who could have taken the package shadowed. Suspicion quickly settled on a certain employe, who was known to frequent the saloon in question.

The large size of the bills gave the conspirators trouble. Finally they sent one of their number to Saratoga to play the races with a part of the money. The rest—$12,000—they deposited in a bank in Alexandria, Va., eight miles down the river. The man who went to Saratoga was of the "tin-horn" gambling class. He lost his head and played the races so badly, putting up a $500 bill every time, that the detectives soon took him in. Arrests were made, indictments found, but nobody was convicted, for the simple reason that the government could not prove that the money found on the "tin horn" was a part of the identical money that was stolen from the treasury. So, like Keck, they went free. The money in the Alexandria bank remained there several years until finally the late George Bliss, of New York, came to Washington in 1882 as one of the government counsel in the star route cases. He was employed to recover this money. His contention was simple. The government could not prove its title to the money. It did not belong to the bank; it must belong to somebody; therefore, it belonged to the person who had deposited it. How much that person got of it is not known, but Bliss was a high-priced lawyer.—Chicago Post.

A Patriotic Luncheon.

This dainty concert for a luncheon following an evening at the theater, private musicale, card party, or any other style of an amusement on Washington's birthday, or given in honor of some military personage, is decidedly original, odd and very effective. In the center of each small table is a bed of palm leaves sprinkled with small blue flowers, and rising from it is that part of our nineteenth-century battleship known as the conning-tower, tipped with Old Glory, while the gun compartments are filled with different sorts of fruits. Around this are arranged the ancient style ship-hulls of cardboard bearing sandwiches and fancy cakes. In front of every cover there is a stack of chocolate bayonets tied firmly together with cherry-hued ribbon, and extending from these to the top of the flagstaff are ropes of cherries intermingled with tiny hatchets. Ices molded to imitate Liberty Bell are served on American shields, while bon-bon boxes fashioned like war legions are presented to all.—Nellie G. Coleman, in Woman's Home Companion.

For Chills.
Procure a beef bone that contains a good deal of marrow, remove this and melt in a jar set in boiling water. When melted, strain and allow to cool. Then mix in the following proportions: Two ounces of white wax, four ounces of beef marrow and four ounces of Venice turpentine. Cut up the fat, set them with the turpentine in a jar in boiling water and melt over the fire. When liquid, stir in four ounces of sweet oil and pour into small jars or molds in which the salve can be stored for future use.—Chicago Chronicle.
