MONEY IN THE SOUTH

Opportunities for Making It Almost Unlimited.

improved Industrial Conditions of the Last Twenty Years-The Cry Is Now "Go South, Young Man."

More money has been made in the southern states in the last 20 years than will be made in the next 50 years in Cuba, Porto Rico or the Philippines, and the chances for money-making in the south have only commenced. The price of iron for the world is now made at Birmingham, Ala., and that city will shortly make the world's price of steel. The south's industrial evolution, which began with the development of its iron interests, rapidly spread to all of the collateral iron industries, including machine shops and foundries, stove factories, steel plants and hardware factories. The 3,000 new industries which have sprung up during the past year include fertilizer and phosphate works, woodworking factories, furniture, vehicle, agricultural and miscellaneous works; textile, flour and cotton seed oil mills; gas and waterworks, telephone systems, electric light and power and ice and cold storage plants; canneries and hundreds of miscellancous plants. Nearly every southern state has increased its railroad mileage during the past year and every southern harbor has largely increased its export trade.

Alabama has shipped 1,000 tons of iron a day, month after month, and the ports of New Orleans, Norfolk, Baltimore, Pensacola, Brunswick and Mobile are shipping American products direct and by the shortest route to many foreign countries. The development of the iron industry in the south is in its infancy and in the manufacture of textiles that section of the country has not begun to take the place it will fill, although last year over 330,-100 spindles were added to the equipment of southern mills, in which $5,-000,000 sought new investment. Nearly $1,000,000 went into the cottonseed mills-for American cotton oil finds a market in every civilized country-and $5,000,000 is being put in the iron and steel industries of Alabama and millions into those of Tennessee and Virginia. Rich in natural resources, with splendid water powers still undeveloped and almost unknown, welcoming capital and hospitably welcoming the investor from the north, the south is having a wonderful awakening, and it requires no cunning eye to perceive that it is on the road to unmeasured and immeasurable wealth. Gen. Wilson, the secretary of agriculture, has just called attention to the fact that the agricultural wealth of the south would be vastly increased if its products were diversified; that, favored as it is by conditions of olimate and soil, it can find an enormous market in the north for its early vogetables, spring lamb, young chickens and other commodities which, in this luxurious day, find a ready sale in every city. The canning industry can find no better location than in many of the southern states, where fruits are raised in the greatest abundance and at the lowest cost. Fruit culture and the culture of nute find their best opportunities in the uthern states. There is everything, in fact, in the south to sustain a large population in comfort and with less hardship than must be encountered in almost any other section of the world. If you seek new fields of opportunity go south, young man!-Leslie's Weekly.

The Story of & Kiss.'

A fascinating actress, whose name need not be mentioned, being anxious to assist a certain charity in the provinces, offered a kiss to be put up at auction. The bidding was brisk and had advanced in three leaps from two guiness to thirty, when without further parley the round sum of £ 800 was offered. There being no higher bid, the kiss was knocked down by the auctioneer to a colonel in one of the line regiments, who came forward to meet the blushing young lady. But to the surprise of all present, the colonel introduced a dear little fair-haired boy, explained that it was his grandson's fifth birthday, and that he had acquired the kiss as a birthday gift for him. Whereupon Miss ---- took the child in her arms and discharged her debt with interest. The charity, a local one, in which the colonel took a keen interest, was the richer by £ 800 for the granddad's generous whim. But a little bird whispered afterward that at the blonel's dinner party that night he had one also "on the strict Q. T."-Lonon Mail.

New Fad in Scaling Letters.

My lady has a new fad about her apeterie which this time has nothing do with the size or shape of the enope or the tint of the paper. When seals her letters now the up-tote girl no longer puts the seal in the x of the triangle made by the flap the envelope, but carefully sets it out two inches to the left as the enope lies addressed side down on her iting table. Just what the reason this is or what the origin of it is ae of the fair ones who are following fad seems to be exactly sure. "It's novel, though," one of them exined, "and the seal really looks much re artistic off to one side than plantight in the center."-Chicago Times-

III. The Restoration .- Vs. 7, 8, 12 13. V. 7. "As I prophesied, there was a noise:" "Thundering," or the rustling or rattling of the bones as they came together. "A shaking," R. V., an earthquake, as at the resurrection of Christ. "Bones came together," i. c., those which belonged to one body; while "bone to his bone" specializes a ten do single bone in relation to another .-Lange. V. 12. "I will open your graves:" The figure is slightly varied here. This marks the marvelousness of the return from Babylon, V. 8. "The sinews and the flesh came up upon them:" This corresponds to the words in V. 12, "and bring you into the land of Israel:" When the exiles should return to their own land, rebuild Jerusa lem, restore the temple and its worship, and set up a government, then they would be like scattered bones coming together, clothed in flesh, and having the form of a man. It would be a res urrection from the dead. "But there was no breath in them:" As yet it was only a form. There was need of a new spirit, a new life, before the rea toration would be perfect. IV. The New Life .-- Vs. 9, 10, 14. V.9 "Prophesy unto the wind:" The same word is used for wind, and breath, and spirit, as in the New Testament "Come from the four winds:" "A symbol of the universal life-giving Spirit of God."-Cambridge Bible. "They lived . . . an exceeding great army:" The nation, on its return, was inspired with new life. Ezra's time was one of great religious and literary activity. The Bible then became a new book. And though the nation declined. yet in Christ there was a new graft in the old stock, so that now the kingdom of God, which the returned exiles represented, has indeed already become "an exceeding great army," the greatest kingdom now on the earth.

PRACTICAL Only God's Spirit, imparting new life, can save the sinner from death. Every conversion is a miracle of creation, a miracle of resurrection from the dead. What is true of the individual is true of the church. A dead church needs a prophet like Ezekiel, or Paul, or Luther, or Wesley, to prophesy to the Dealer. dry bones that they may live through the Spirit of God.
