ABOUT SOILING CROPS.

A Subject That Is Being Studied Closely Just Now by All Progressive Dairymen.

An old adage bath it that closing the barn door afer the theft of the horse is not the best method of preventing burglary. Yet it is held to be worth while as a discourager of further pilfering. The dairyman who this past summer has seen his cows shrinking, feels inclined to shut the them."-N. Y. Tribune. barn door. How may he do this best? If he has planted soiling crops like peas and oats, Hungarian millet, and the like, and has been supplementing the dying pastures with green feed in the barn or yard, he has closed the door before rather at the clock, which indicated 11:30, than after the theft. Moreover, the necessity for the summer feeding of good deal of sound sense." grain is greatly lessened. If he has no recourse to soiling crops, nothing but buying grain can lessen the shrinkage. The Vermont experiment station has for many years experimented with soiling crops, and recommends to dairymen the large use of summer ensilage and of oats and peas sown at weekly intervals, and fed during July and August. Ensilage is probably the cheaper food; oats and peas somewhat the better. If the former is contemplated as a steady summer diet for years, it would be well to consider the erection of a spesial summer silo, preferably round, with a small diameter and a relatively greater depth. Ensilage spread over a large surface in summer spoils rapidly and loses largely in feeding value. If oats and peas be chosen they should be sown in successive lots at weekly intervals, the two sown separately, the peas first rather deeply and harrowed in; the oats two or three days later and bushed in. A better catch is likely to be secured in this way than if sown together. The crop may be either fed green, hayed or put in the silo. Let those whose July and August milk yields prove disappointing try ensilage or oats and peas next year .- Country Gentleman.

WATERING MADE EASY.

A Device Which, Although Effective, Is So Eastly Made That Everybody Can Introduce It.

In cold, windy weather watering the live stock is often hard, disagreeable work. Where the pump is within a reasonable distance of the barn a platform may be built over the well and the pump carried upon it. An open wood trough or metal pipe may be used, as illustrated, for conveying water from well to animals. Water will thus run downhill much easier than it can be carried during winter. If a trough runs lengthwise of the feed shed, whether for cattle, horses, sheep or swine, the water may be pumped over the troughs directly into the drinking tank or trough. Pack the outside of pump to prevent freezing .-Farm and Home.

Stay by Your Specialty.

A creamery patron, who milks cows when butter fat is high and beef low, but turns his attention to beef when butter fat is low, says: "Profits scarcely visible to the naked eye. What shall we do to be saved?" Breeding for milk one year and beef the next is a suicidal policy that no enterprising breeder would dare practice. By this haphazard method, the above patron realized for butter fat $19.63 per cow per annum. The Kansas Agricultural college scrub herd, pushed along dairy lines, brought an average of $37.75 per cow per annum. This difference of $18.12 per cow is what would have been visible to the nabed eye, had his cows been handled as the college cows were handled. "What shall we do to be saved?" Settle upon some definite line of work, study the business in all the details. find out what others are doing in the same lines, make your business a hobby, and, above all, stick to it!-D. H. Otis, in Country Gentleman.

Value of Good Pastures.

The editor of the Journal of Agriculture, Montreal, makes an estimate of the value of good pastures. He claims to be well acquainted with some of the finest pastures in England, from which the well-known "Gloster" cheese is made. They have been in grass from time immemorial, and the tenants pay at least ten dollars an acre as annual rent for them. It takes three acres to pasture a cow a year, and the cows average 448 pounds of cheese, worth $42, a calf worth $15, and the whey is worth about $15 to feed the pigs. This, then, gives as the income from three acres, and the labor and use of the cow, about

The storage room should be kept very near freezing point, ranging preferably from 33 to 38 degrees Fahrenheit. Even a degree or two below freezing will ordinarily do no damage.
