HIS A BROTHER'S KEEPER.

N the news enlumns of the Post, the annouce lar story, "His Brother's Keeper" will shortly be gin in the columns of the Post. The stories of Rev. Sheldon are no longer an unknown quantity to the readers of the Post. His writings need no introduction to the many friends of this periodical. The publication of "In His Steps," "Malcom Kirk," "Robert Hardy's Seven Days," and "The Crucifixion of Philip Strong" in the columns of the Post has familiarized the readers of the Post with every good quality of Rev. Sheldon's writings. He never writes a story or delivers a sermon except it bears upon some important phase of human life or weaknesses of mankind and prepares his readers to be better, and become better qualified to battle with the temptations and vices of life.

No writer living to-day enjoys the distinction of having his works so widely read as does Dr. Sheldon. The coming story will teach many a useful lesson, will impart seeds of wisdom and forethougt that will go a great way in directing that son of yours or shaping the life and character of your daughter. The right kind of impulses and loftiest qualities of the head and heart are instilled into every breast and in a silent moment, the whole future of a life may be changed from worse to better by just such literature as the Post has been giving you from the renowned pen of Dr. Sheldon.

"His Brother's Keeper" teems with just those higher ideals of life and character that are commendable in mankind and which tend to elevate man from a mere machine to the full realization of that innate sensibility by which we are brought to understand the ulterior purpose of our existence. Do not miss this popular story.

LITERARY NOTES.

LADIES HOME JOURNAL.

But one American girl has ever married a King, and she, a New England woman, now a widow, is living in a royal palace in the country of her adoption, almost lost sight of by her Amerian sisters and friends. The romance of this fasinating, gifted American girl, who won the hand and heart of a King-one of the prettiest of love tories-will be one of the features of the Jarch Ladies' Home Journal,

WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION.

From the standpoint of an artist the February number of the Woman's Home Companion is un usually rich. There is a full-page reproduction of Meissonier's great picture of Napoleon -"1807"—and a reproduction of a painting by that poetic French artist Jules Breton. Photographs of beautiful Southern women make an atractive feature, and "A Pageful of Children" annot fail to win the hearts of all mothers. In literary way the story by the Queen of Rounania (Carmen Sylva) is noteworthy. There is an article on Japanese life, a spicy travel sketch w Lilian Bell, and the usual amount of highclass fiction. Many suggestive articles of especial value to women complete this uncommonly strong number. Published by The Crowell Kirkpatrick Co., Springfield, Ohio; one dollar a year; ten cents a copy; sample copy free.

20th Anniversary.

Twenty-nine years ago, in 1870, Mr. S. Weis became a citizen of our town, and first opened the New York Fancy Store. From his first advent in our community, his business began to prosper. By strict attention to business, square honest dealings and polite and courteous attention to one and all, he has built up a lucrative trade and his Mercantile Emporium is proverbial for the good honest value of its stock and the upright dealing of its gentlemanly proprietor throughout our entire county. Mr. Weis' store is not only a great convenience to our citizens, but is alike an honor and a credit to our town and county. We take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the large advertiscment covering the first page of this issue, an- terling, of Freeburg, to Mary A.
