The Harrisburg Telegraph has passed into new hands since April 1. Mr. E. J. Stackpole, the new manager, is an experienced editor, and has already improved the contents considerable. The political policy of its former editor will be continued. We congratulate its readers on having so able a man at its helm.
One of the surprises in railroad circles last week was the resignation of President Harris of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad. George F. Baer, of Reading was chosen as his successor on Wednesday. Mr. Harris was a splendid officer, and the road was put in a splendid condition under his administration. The past few years they have been greatly hampered, but now their vast resources are being utilized. They have always been very liberal in taking care of their patrons, and in turn they have the confidence of the people in general.

Last week's Lewisburg Chronicle says: "The corner stone of the old Lutheran church was opened last week and the contents of the box were removed from the stone. The stone was laid nearly fifty years ago and the contents were in good condition. The stone was laid in June 1852, during the session of the Lutheran conference at Lewisburg. In the box were the following articles: A copy of the Augsburg Confession, Lutheran hymn book, copy of the Lutheran "Oliver" copy of the Lewisburg "Chronicle and the West Branch Farmer" and a bottle enclosing a written account of the laying of the corner stone, and the minutes present, with the officers of the church."

Levi Kawell.
Monday, April 1st, in Swineford at the home of his son-in-law, Daniel Huber, Levi Kawell died at the age of 72 years and was buried at Fremont Thursday, April 4th. He was a pleasant old gentleman and was deeply interested in seeing the U. B. church of Fremont get the Post prize organ, and personally paid for several subscriptions in order to help the good cause along.

Testimonial from Old England.
"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mr. William Savory, of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over 30 years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well."

Reappointed.
When the report was made at the Chambersburg Conference for the re-appointment of Dr. S. C. Swallow as manager of the Harrisburg book room, Bishop Foss asked under what rule of Discipline, the appointment could be made. After some discussion a resolution was passed making the Book Room a benevolent institution and the appointment was made.

Died of Hydrophobia.
Bitten nine weeks ago by a mad dog, George Hoover, a ten-year-old son of Chas. Hoover, of Shamokin, was seized with hydrophobia last Friday and died in great agony Saturday night. He frothed at the mouth, barked like a dog, showed his teeth and tried to bite anything that came in his reach.
The dog belonged to George's father and had bit him on the nose. It also bit three other children besides, one of which was a sister to George, two years younger.
The suffering of the boy, a few hours before he died, was heartrending. His face was contorted and his lips bleeding from the places he had sunk in his teeth. When the attack came on it took four men to hold him down.

A Sudden Death.
New Berlin Reporter.
Our entire community was shocked on Tuesday at about 11:45 o'clock when the sad news passed from ear to ear that Geo. Leyby fell off his wagon and was dead. Mr. Leyby was hauling manure for A. Hubler that day and had just started with a load when he suddenly cried whoa, to his horses, and about the same time fell from the wagon. Mr. Hubler who was on the opposite side of the wagon saw that he was unconscious and at once called for help to take him home. "Squire Gross who was near by was one of the first upon the scene, and after examining him he found the pulse absent and life appeared to be extinct. They at once carried him to 'Squire Gross' office and in the mean time called Dr. Wilson, but nothing could be done to revive him. Death was do to heart failure.
Mr. Leyby had always been an active hard-working man and was a good citizen. His untimely death is deeply lamented. His sorrowing widow and children have the sympathy of the whole community in the loss of a husband and father under such peculiar and sad circumstances. He was 44 years old.
The deceased is survived by a wife and two children, also by two sisters, Mrs. Noah Herman and Mrs. John Steese, and two brothers David and Jacob, who live in North Dakota.
The funeral service was held Saturday, at 10 a. m., in the Reformed church.

MURDERER GULICK CAPTURED AT LAST

Returned to the Scene of the Double Crime at Kline's Grove.
Sunbury, Pa., April 7.
Locked up in cell No. 5, of the Northumberland county prison, John Gulick, who murdered his mother and brother at Kline's Grove near here last Tuesday morning, spent Easter Day in silent contemplation of his awful crime. The prisoner was found in an old workshop near his home, by Butler Surgeon, his father's farm hand.

Gulick was drying his clothes near a little stove in which he had built a fire, when Surgeon entered the shop. Trembling with fear Gulick arose and advanced toward Surgeon, holding a pistol in his hand. He inquired, "Home-er?" Surgeon replied, "He's well, I'll call him."

"No, no, I don't want to see him. The torture I have endured the past few days has made me mad."

UNMOVED AT SEEING FATHER.
Noticing through the window the approach of a little party of country men on the way to church, Gulick became alarmed and fled to the wood-house. The party was called and after relieving the prisoner of his loaded revolver, the weapon with which he had slain his mother and brother, they took him to his father's house and allowed him to eat breakfast and change his clothes.

As the prisoner entered the house, Samuel Gulick, his father, advanced to meet him. Tears streamed down the parent's face as he shook hands, but the matricide was not moved.

Gulick was brought here in a covered wagon and put in jail. To a newspaper man Gulick said this afternoon:

"I struck to the hills after the shooting and remained there until night, when I went to Eckman's barn. Before daylight Wednesday I returned to the hills and hid under a pile of underbrush. Wednesday night I slept at the same place, but Thursday and Friday nights Van Kirk's barn sheltered me. I had very little to eat, and Friday night I went to Northumberland, as I was nearly starved. While I was in the hotel there, the proprietor recognized me, and I started for Danville where I stayed all morning Saturday.

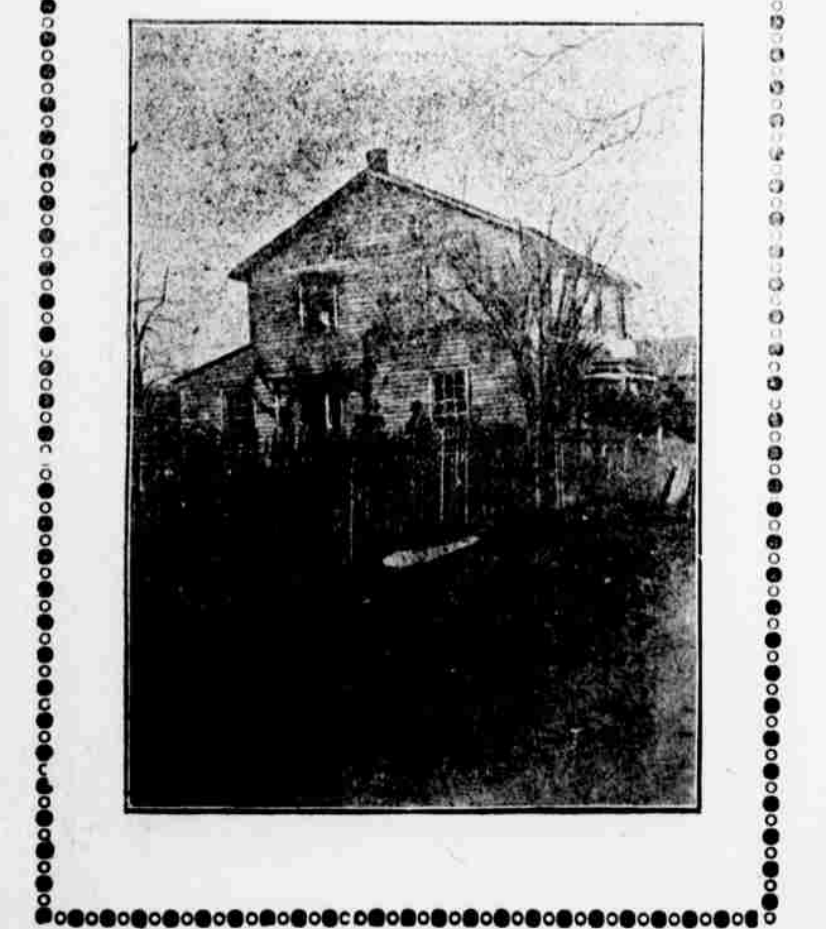

WATCHED THE FUNERAL.
"Friday I watched the funeral of my mother and brother from the hills near home. I never saw a newspaper and I didn't know any one was after me."

"I am very sorry, but things were getting too warm for me. It was about 3 o'clock when I went in the workshop. It rained hard last night, and my clothes were soaked. I intended coming to the jail to-morrow morning, and giving myself up to the warden."

"During the day I was in constant fear of some one finding me, and at night the scene of the shooting was always before my eyes."

The prisoner was pale and careworn, but seemed to breathe easier after being placed behind the prison bars. On the way to the jail, he heard some one along the country road shout, "Get a rope!" That remark made him crouch behind the outstable and cover his eyes with his hands.

Old Mr. Gulick is all unmoved, more so in fact than any time since the commission of the deed. He says that he will let the law take its course.

Charles Sauer.
Chas. Sauer, one of the industrious farmers of Middlebrook township passed to his eternal rest April 1, 1901, aged 88 years. He was a member of the St. Paul Lutheran church and Erdley's Union Sunday School who passed resolutions of respect in honor and esteem of the deceased. He is survived by a widow, a daughter of Samuel Bilger, and three children.

We regret that the Sunday School did not see fit to write a nice obituary notice recounting some important events in his life, which would make interesting reading. If his friends had sent us the details of his life, we would gladly have published it. As it is, we do not have it, hence we can not publish it.
