Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out. Fill a bottle or common glass with your ater and let it stand twenty-four hours; a tling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also envincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extra-ordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its won-derful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Home of Swamp-Rook. ion reading this generous offer in this paper.

TWO VESSELS WRECKED

And Five Sailors Lost Their Lives on the Rocks.

CHASTLY STORY OF CANNIBALISM

Driven Insane by Hunger and Thirst, Suffering Sailors Kill and Ent Their Companions-Two Survivors of the Morror Landed at Singapore.

Gloucester, Mass., April 8. — The southeast storm, just before the Easter dawn, threw upon the jagged rocks of Eastern Point the old Calais masted schooner Hyena, and within an hour the waves had torn her to pieces and swept off her crew of four men. Two of them, Elmer and Bennett Stanley, managed to reach shore and dragged their bruised bodies up the rocks, but her skipper, Capt. R. B. Dix, of West Tremont, Me., and Steward Fuller failed to gain the shore and were probably drowned or killed by being dashed on the rocks.

Elmer Stanley thinks it was about 3 a. m. when he sighted surf off the starboard bow, but Capt. Dix, believing that he murdered his employer at the that there was sufficient water, kept instigation of Lawyer Patrick. right on, until suddenly the waves were sighted breaking right ahead and almost immediately a great wave threw the vessel onto the rocks. The schooner began to pound and strain and the crew cleared away the only boat in the hope of sighting shore. Bennett Stanley jumped into the boat and the next wave swept the boat far out of reach of the other men. He was in the boat scarcely a minute when it capsized, leaving him to battle with the waves among the rocks.

The half drowned man was afternately thrown up on the beach and dragged back into the breakers. Pinally he managed to gain a forthold and pulled himself up beyond the sea.

When the boat Stanley was in was washed away Capt. Dix, with the o are two men, sought refuge on the law sprit, in the hope that the acho is might hold to ether until m when the life savers would see he But within a short time one a sur an other of the masts were carried twey until finelly the schooner was incrain smashed to pieces.

A furious gale swept along the coas during the day, and according to the story of the mate the captain thought he was off Matinicus, Me., when the fog suddenly lifted and he found that he was near the rocks of Cape Elizabeth. It was then too late to change the course and the schooner was carried high up in Board cove, about a mile from the Cape Elizabeth life sav ing station. Seeing that a wreck was unavoidable the men decided to take the yawl, and had proceeded but short distance when the craft was swamped by a heavy sea. As they were heavily dressed all excention the mate went to their doom. The mate after an awful struggle in the surf nearly reached the shore, but sank back exhausted and unconscious short distance away. He was rescued by two fishermen, who seized him before he could be washed back into deep water.

Blood Troubles:

s the blood contains all the elements necessary to sustain life, it is important that it be kept free of all impurities, or it becomes a source of disease, poisoning instead of neurishing the body, and loss of health is sure to follow. Some poisons enter the blood from without, through the skin by absorption, or inoculation; others from within, as when waste products accumulate in the system and ferment, allowing disease germs to develop and be taken into the circulation. While all blood troubles have one common origin, each has some peculiarity to distinguish it from the other. Contagious Blood Poison, Scrofula, Cancer, Rheumatism, Eczema and other blood diseases can be distinguished by a certain sore, ulcer, eruption or inflammation appearing on the skin. Every blood disease shows according to the property of the blood disease above according to the period the blood disease above.

Chronic Ulcers. disease shows sooner or later on the outside and on the weakest part of the body, or where it finds the least resistance.

Many mistake the sore or outward sign for the real disease, and attempt a cure by the use of salves, huments and other external applications. Valuable time is lost and no permanent benefit derived from such treatment.

Blood Poison,

BLOOD TROUBLES REQUIRE BLOOD REMEDIES; the poison must be completely and permanently eradicated—the blood reinforced, purified and cleansed, or the disease goes deeper and saps the very life. Mercury, potash and arsenic, the treatment usually prescribed in this class of diseases, are violent poisons, even when taken in small doces—never cure, but do much harm by adding another poison to the already overburdened, diseased blood.

A late cable dispatch from Landon says that medical men of that Antiquity of city have been the Salt Cure, boax which; according to numerous cables, appare ently has been played upon the American public by some tumorist who. possessing ancient volumes of the Lancet, has been making extracts about the saft cure and selling the same as up-to-date copy. There is nothing new in this cure. Medical records show that Sir C. Wren practiced it successfully as early as 1656; that Sir Spencer Wells and Sir Walter Richardson used it extensively for cholera in London in 1848 and 1849, while the experiments on dogs reported from Chicago are identical with Richardson's experiments of 20 years ago in London. The injection of a salt solution is certainly a wonderful remedy and has been used regularly in the London hospitals for many years, but the salt in the solution has neither nourishing nor stimulating effect. What happens is this: When a person loses beyond a certain proportion of blood the veins collapse and little or no blood passes to the heart, which stops beating. The veins simply need more fluid. Two thousand years ago it was discovered that the blood of animals was sometimes efficacious, but often dangerous. Pure water was tried, but it was found that this injured the blood remaining in the veine, paralyzing the muscles. As it was known that the blood centains considerable sodium chloride, or common salt, Libavius ex-phate of sodium, 3 grains; carbonate for the plaintiff, water, I pint. This is warmed to blood heat and upward of half a pint ciseo was called upon to decide whether is injected into a vein at the elbow. In a few seconds the heart becomes refilled and again beats. In from four to five minutes consciousness is recovered. In cholera the blood thickens and ceases to flow. A pint or five of saline solution refluidizes it, though it does not always save the life. Richardson, in 1848, in the case of a woman apparently dead, restored her six passed without assessment. times, but she finally died. The lifer. of enting sait believe the small quantity necessary to have good effects to secuted as about . The result to more likely to be burniful.

For a woman to smal a ride is a novelty in railroading. It is reported that the crew of a first freight train on the Lehigh Vailey railroad found a young woman on top of a box ear, clining to the footboard, and half blinded with the cinders that flew from the stack of the locomotive, The story she told was that she was in New York when her money gave out, and longing to get to her home in Pennsylvania she decided to steal a ride on a freight train, as she had often read of men and boys doing. Walking to Newark, she waited untilnight, and then climbed to the top of a box car. She just had time to tie her hat fast to the short sacque she wore when the train began tmove, and she declared that between being chilled and frightened, she hadn't moved two inches during her long ride. She was given a bath and a ticket for home. The caution to not try it again was hardly needed.
