See Idea of It.
"I don't see how anyone can lose money in speculation," she remarked thoughtfully.
"Do you consider it so simple?" he asked.
"Why, certainly. As I understand it, all you have to do is to buy when things are going up and sell when they are coming down."
"Put how are you going to know which way they are going?" he inquired.
"Why—why, I never thought of that," she answered. "It does make a difference, doesn't it?"—Chicago Post.
Took Tea Much.
Mrs. Gadd—Did you ever? I heard Deacon De Goode come home last night howling drunk.
Mrs. Gabb—Oh, you're mistaken. The deacon was out with some temperance men, and took too many temperance drinks, that's all.
"Put he howled like a dervisher."
"That wasn't drunk; that was colic."—N. Y. Weekly.
What Possessed Her.
Mrs. Crimmonbeak—There's one thing about my husband I never could understand.
Mrs. Yeast—And what's that?
"Why, when he comes home late he can't find the keyhole, but when he gets inside, from the noise he makes, he seems to find everything in the room."—Yonkers Statesman.
How We Differ.
"In China," remarked the first, "a man who commits a crime often gets another to take his punishment and gives him money for it."
"In this country," replied the second, "a man who commits a crime may swear it on to another and give him the laugh for it."—Chicago Post.
Two Excellent Reasons.
"Why did you lynch him?" we asked of the mob.
"Well, he confessed."
This seemed reasonable, but again we asked:
"Why did you lynch the other man?"
"Because he wouldn't confess, con sarn him!"—Town Topics.
Too Moderate.
Uncle Abner—Seth ain't what I call a thick-and-thin party man.
Uncle Hiram—Why, he never votes anything but the regular ticket.
Uncle Abner—Yes, but he's allur willin' to admit that the country may not be ruined if the other fellers get in.—Brooklyn Life.
Just the Right Term.
"He says he has settled down to business again," remarked the common friend.
"He's hit it exactly!" exclaimed the merchant. "He couldn't have chosen a better term. He has settled down, but he hasn't settled up."—Chicago Post.
He Knew Them.
Higgins—Was that your son I saw with you yesterday?
Wiggins—Yes; did you think he looks like me?
Higgins—I thought those made-over pants looked like the pair you used to wear.—Boston Transcript.
Somewhat Confusing.
To get our names straight I have striven. But the problem seems accursed: One's "first name" is the last he's given, While the "last name" is the first. —Chicago Post.
A MISUNDERSTANDING.
Mr. Parvenu—Waiter! Bring me a bottle of champagne.
Waiter—Yes, sir. Dry, sir?
Mr. Parvenu—It's none of your business whether I'm dry or not.—Chicago Inter Ocean.
Why He Tramped.
Housekeeper—I'd just like to know why you go tramping through the country?
Mouldy Mike—Well, mum, I've heard that these 'ere palace cars is rather stuffy, mum.—N. Y. Weekly.
Infallible Signs.
She—You haven't told me you loved me once to-day.
He—And you haven't asked me if I love you since day before yesterday.
The honeymoon, shuddering, saw its finish.—Indianapolis Press.
A Good Reason.
Householder—This bill of yours is twice as much as it should be.
Plumber—Well, my man was in your house twice as long as he ought to have been.—Brooklyn Life.

Nerves Need Fuel

To feed the vital fires or they lose the power to regulate and control the body. Unnatural stimulants won't do. Like an oil blast on dying embers they cause a sudden flash of heat—all is dead. Give the nerves plenty of fuel, and the worry and fretting, the headaches, the nervousness, loss of sleep, deranged digestion, neuralgia, rheumatism and heart troubles, that burn up the brain substance and destroy the nerve-force, will disappear forever. Don't wait till the fires are burned out. Begin now.

Dr. Miles' Nervine
creates a good appetite, stimulates digestion, quiets nervous irritation, gives refreshing sleep and sends plenty of fresh blood to the furnaces of the brain and nerves.
Sold by druggists on guarantee. DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.
