

TRAIN JUMPED TRESTLE

Thirty Passengers on Board Miraculously Escaped Death,

THOUGH TWO OF THEM MAY DIE.

Brave Baggage-master, Though Seriously Wounded, Crawled Back With a Lantern and Saved an Oncoming Freight Train From Destruction.

Hamlet, N. C., June 18.—Late Sunday night the north bound Seaboard Air Line Atlanta special turned broadside off a trestle into a pond about a mile north of Rockingham. There were on board about 25 or 30 passengers, all of whom were more or less injured, several very seriously, and two, a white man and a negro, probably fatally. There were three ladies and some children aboard, none of whom were seriously hurt.

The engine and two mail cars passed over in safety, but the combination baggage and second first class and two Pullmans turned over. On account of the rains the piers of the trestle gave way on the left side. At the first crash all lights went out and water rushed in waist deep through the windows.

Baggage-master Smith, though seriously hurt himself, at once thought of the freight following close behind. He crawled out, and seizing a lantern hobbled down the track and flagged the freight, thereby preventing a second catastrophe. When the freight stopped he was lying on the ground unable to rise, but still waving the lantern. He fell time and again before he succeeded in getting far enough back to flag the train. He had to be carried back on a stretcher.

The newsboy also did heroic work, crawling through the cars through the transom over the doors and helping the almost drowned passengers to escape.

A relief train came from Hamlet with doctors, and another from Rockingham. The hotel here is being used as a temporary hospital.

EARL RUSSELL HELD FOR BIGAMY

If Convicted the Case Will Be Taken to the House of Lords.

London, June 18.—Lord Russell was yesterday held in $10,000 bail upon the charge of bigamy preferred by the daughter of Lady Scott, from whom the earl claims he was divorced.

Detectives arrested Lord Russell at Waterloo station as he left the train. He was charged in Bow street court in the afternoon, before Magistrate Cushing, with having married Molly Cook, otherwise Mrs. Somerville, at Denbrough, Nev., on April 15, 1900, while he had a wife still living in England, and returning with his second wife to Maldenhead, England, on May 6, 1900, where they have since been living as man and wife. Counsel for the earl pointed out that the prosecution omitted mention of the divorce proceedings instituted by his lordship in America. In the event of a conviction the case will be taken to the house of lords, as Earl Russell is entitled to a trial by his peers.

Insurance Official Under Arrest.

New York, June 18.—William C. Walker, who is now special agent of the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance company, of Philadelphia, was arrested in this city yesterday afternoon charged with fraudulent conversion. Early in 1898, when Walker was assistant treasurer and secretary of the United Security Life Insurance and Trust company, he was arrested, accused of embezzling $6,369 from the company. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years in the Eastern penitentiary on June 13, 1898. He was paroled Dec. 22, 1898. The American Surety company, of this city, had to pay the $6,369.

Big Coal Deal in West Virginia.

Fairmont, W. Va., June 18.—The largest coal deal ever consummated in this state was closed yesterday. The Watson coal operators having practically secured control of the entire Fairmont region. A new company with $2,000,000 capital, has been organized and is known as the Fairmont Coal company. The Watsons have as long as they wish to retain the controlling interest. The mines absorbed in this deal comprise practically every mine in this district, a total of 27 mines. The annual output will be over 6,000,000 net tons of coal. Over 4,000 men are on the monthly payroll.

General Cailles to Surrender.

Washington, June 17.—Officials of the war department are very well pleased with the prospective surrender of Gen. Cailles, the Filipino insurgent leader. Cailles is a man of considerable influence, and with his backing of some hundreds of men has been a menace to the efforts of the military authorities to stamp out the rebellion in Luzon. His capitulation, therefore, is regarded with much satisfaction by the authorities here, who say they see in it another evidence of the general disintegration of the insurgent forces.

Ex-Governor Pingree's Illness.

London, June 18.—Ex-Governor Pingree's physicians left him at midnight last night. There is continued apprehension as to his condition. The strongest drugs have failed to check the dysentery, and the only hopeful symptom is that the patient is enabled freely to partake of nourishment. Mrs. Pingree sails for London Wednesday, and the physicians hope that Mr. Pingree may at least be able to see his wife, as he remains perfectly rational.

THE GOLD BAR ROBBERY

Interesting Sequel to the Theft on the North German Liner.

ONLY ONE ARREST THUS FAR.

The Bedroom Steward Who "Found" the Stolen Gold is Believed to Have Been Only a Tool of Shrewd American Robbers.

New York, June 18.—Since the arrival here a few days ago of Arthur Carl, chief of police of Bremen, Germany, on the steamship Lahn, some inside information concerning the mysterious gold bar robbery which occurred last April aboard the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse has leaked out.

Thus far but one arrest has been made in connection with the crime, but the prisoner, Theodore Magers, the bedroom steward, is believed to have been only a tool of shrewd men who planned to reap a large quantity of yellow bullion by the plundering of the treasure vault aboard the liner. Magers, who got the reward for finding the stolen gold, is locked up in Germany.

The North German Lloyd officials, when the robbery was reported, offered a reward of $2,000 for the missing gold bars, and three days after the vessel reached Bremen Magers claimed that while cleaning the woodwork in one of the second cabin passages he found the bullion hidden on a protruding cornice back of some steam pipes. The reward was paid to Magers.

According to the story now told Magers left the ship, saying that he was going to have a good time with his sweetheart, who lives in Bremen. He did not return to the Kaiser der Grosse before she started back for New York, but a week or so afterwards he put in an appearance at the Bremen pier in a deplorable condition. He explained that while on his way to see his sweetheart he fell in with a man who had been a second cabin passenger on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, and that the latter hypnotized and robbed him of the reward money. He wandered about for days with the stranger, whose name he professed not to know, and one day broke the hypnotic spell by jumping into the water at Amsterdam, Holland, to which city they had traveled. He was rescued, and being without funds had to work his way back to Bremen as best he could.

The detectives, suspecting that the place where Magers said he had found the gold bars was not his hiding place, again questioned the bedroom steward, and as he made conflicting statements and damaging admissions he was arrested on suspicion. Before he was arrested the French detectives got information about two strange men, he lived to be Americans, who had for a couple of days chartered a small sail boat and in the craft entered about the entrance to Cherbourg harbor. They were suspected to be in the conspiracy to steal the gold aboard the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and asked about the route of that vessel when it arrived from America to land her Cherbourg passengers, saying that they wanted to intercept the vessel and get a message from friends on board who were bound for Germany. These men vanished before the alarm about the robbery on the steamship was raised, but they since have been traced back to the United States.

Jackson's Last Dispatch to Lee.

Hagerstown, Md., June 18.—Mrs. Jacob Dellinger found among some old papers in a trunk at her home, near Williamsport, this county, a copy of the last dispatch written by Stonewall Jackson to Gen. Lee before the battle of Chancellorsville. The dispatch is dated May 2, 1863, at 3 o'clock p. m., and states that the enemy has made a stand at Chancellorsville and expresses the belief that a "kind providence will bless us with success." It is supposed that the paper was left at Mr. Dellinger's house, which was occupied as a hospital during the war, by a Confederate soldier.
