NOTES OF THE FASHIONS.

Pretty Designs and Notions That Make Attractive the Season's Contumes.

Both empire and princesse effects will be conspicuous among evening gowns formed of delicate or diaphanous fabrics.

Hip yokes, formed of the skirt fabric, laid in tucks, or of insertion and puffed bands, arabesque braiding, or applique patterns laid over the entire yoke, will be a feature of aummer dress skirts of silk, light wool, and all transparent or semi-transparent materials, says the New York Evening Post.

At a fashionable designing house is shown a Claude Duval collar, characterized by three circular capes that can be made with square or rounding corners, with either a military or turndown collar. These circular capes are to be added either to the smart automobile cloaks, the long, fitted Newmarkets, redingotes, or the shorter, fly-fronted jackets, with cut-away basques.

Beautiful robe dresses, combining lace and net, soft crepes de Chine, silks. and satins, and sheer dainty nun's veiling, albatross, French cashmere, and other delicate wools, are already set forth for the making of warm-weather gowns. The skirts are usually in circular shape, and material and decoration are supplied for the bodice, which can be used in countless pretty and becoming ways.

Very fashionable stock collars are made of white satin ribbon, with tiny lines of gold braid put on at intervals, or those of black bebe velvet ribbon standing vertically, and ending on a little loop, held with a small gold or jewel button.

In front of these pretty stocks are set a jabot of rich lace, a drapery of Greek tulle, and a single pink rose; soft loops of satin ribbon, and a frill of embroidered chiffon, or coquilles of ethereal gold-wrought guipure, reaching from throat to waist, and meeting a ceinture matching the stock, and fastened with a buckle ornamented with "the emperor's golden bees."

Panned Mushrooms.

Stew the mushrooms, peel, rubbing them carefully with a flannel cloth to cleanse them, being careful not to break them. Place in the chafing dish two butter balls and a pound of the prepared mushrooms, and salt and pepper to taste. Cover the dish and allow the mushrooms to steam about eight minutes. Next spring, the secretary of agriculture will distribute throughout Trees from the the country young trees as well as Government. garden seeds. Authority for this new departure was secured at a recent session of congress, and an appropriation was made in the budget for the coming year. The garden seed distribution has been the subject of no end of ridicule, and there is no doubt that a great deal of money is wasted in that way, but it is nevertheless one of the most popular features of our paternal government, and members of congress recognize its political importance to such an extent that no argument can induce them to abolish or abridge it. The distribution of trees, however, is Sccretary Wilson's own idea. The people of this country have been cutting down the natural forests with so much recklessness that it has become necessary to start artificial ones. The division of forestry of the agricultural department has made a survey of the country and has ascertained the particular trees which thrive best and are most useful in each locality. According to the programme for the distribution of trees, next year a given number of seedlings will be allotted to each member of the house of representatives, who will be asked to furnish a list of constituents to whom he would like to have them sent. The agricultural department will do the rest. The seedlings will be grown in the propagating houses and forwarded to their destination with specific instructions as to how they should be planted and cared for. In this way Mr. Wilson expects to start several million new trees growing throughout this country every year.

Few Immigrants to America Capable of Doing the Work.

Some Interesting Facts Regarding the Distribution and Employment of the Incoming Thousands.

Between the years 1830 and 1890 10,000,000 of the 13,000.000 immigrants who came into the United States were natives of Great Britain or of Germany, and the number of Scandinavians was nearly 1,000,000. The great mapority of these newcomers, especially those from Germany, Norway and Sweden, were farmers whose destination was the west. The term the west, as understood by immigrants, meant at one time the western countries of New York and Pennsylvania, later the states of what is now called the middle west, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois; then the trans-Mississippi states of Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas and, finally, the northwestern states, to which, prior to 1895, most of the new immigrants went.

In the last few years, notwithstanding the prosperous condition of American manufactures, the large harvests and liberal prices for cereals and live stocks, there has been a marked falling of in the immigration of farmers to the United States and a decided Increase in the number of immigrants seeking homes in the large cities and manufacturing towns. The official figures of the calendar year of 1900 have not yet made their appearance. but the total number of immigrants will not be far from 475,000, and of this number more than 100,000 were from Austria-Hungary, another 100,-000 from Italy and another 100,600 from Russia and the Polish provinces of Germany, while Great Britain furnished less than 50,000, of which number 40,000 were from Ireland. These new immigrants seek homes and employment in the large cities, says the New York Sun.

The fertility and productiveness of American farms are as great as and in some cases greater than they were many years ago. The means of transportation have been vastly improved and the market of demand is decidedly larger than it ever was before. But the conditions for the purchase of land are no longer so favorable. The most eligible government lands for free homesteads have been disposed of. The railroad grants which included alternate parcels along the line of the roads have been sold and in most cases occupied. No state, except in the southwest, where the climatic conditions are not generally such as to attract European farmers, is under the necessity of offering inducements to immigrants, and the latter, no longer recruited from the farming class on the European continent and in Ireland, come chiefly from large European cities in which the population has become congested or in which the rate of pay to mechanics has been forced down by competition or the use of new mechanical applinnees.
