Chronic Constipation Cured.
The most important discovery of recent years is the positive remedy for constipation. Cascarets Candy Cathartic. Cure guaranteed. Genuine tablets stamped C. C. C. Never sold in bulk. Druggists, etc.

THE DAIRY
ECONOMY BAG HOLDER.
Adjustable to A. any Size of Sack and Can Be Used Readily by One or Two Persons.

This bag holder was designed by me and it has been of great utility at our farm as it can be used alone or two persons can use it, one filling the sacks and the other tying them up. To make it take a 2x4 board and saw it in two pieces 24 inches long; then take a piece 2x6 and saw it 26 inches long.
After this take a piece eight inches

HANDY BAG HOLDER. wide and six feet long and saw it in three pieces each two feet long. Now nail these three boards on these other pieces which were 2x4x24 and nail the 2x6x26 between the other pieces. Take another 2x4 board and saw it two feet long and set this studding with one end on the part of the 2x6x26 that sticks out from under the 2x2 foot platform, and nail it securely. Then put on a brace, which is made from three-eighth-inch round iron, and fasten this about ten inches up on the 2x4, which is simply nailed and fastened to the other end of the brace on the platform. Then take another 2x4 and two feet long and to one end of this piece nail a 2x1x8 in the form of an L and in this piece make a long hole, and also a like hole in the piece that was fastened to the little platform. Take two bolts about 4 1/2 inches long and have the blacksmith make a nut which will be turned easily by the fingers. Now make the funnel of ten-inch boards and fasten this funnel to the L-shaped studding and then secure two braces made of three-quarter-inch flat iron and fasten it firmly. Get four good hooks made of heavy galvanized wire. This bag holder is made adjustable to any size sack as the nuts can be loosened and the funnel or hopper may be raised or lowered according to the length of the sack.—Carl Thieme, in Agricultural Epitomist.

TEMPERING THE CREAM.
It's a Puzzling Task and Requires the Exercise of Considerable Care and Judgment.

In tempering the cream for churning we must be governed largely by the condition of the cream to be churned, and this knowledge must be gained by the one who is making the butter. The rules laid down for tempering cream will not hold good in all cases. The buttermilk should be tested so as to learn the per cent. of fat remaining, and if it is found that there is a loss of butter in this way, the temperature of the cream should be changed until the degree is found that leaves the least butter fat in the buttermilk. This knowledge is best gained when the work is done, as the cream from different creameries and dairies may vary considerably and churn best at different temperatures.

Mistakes are often made in getting the desired temperature of cream, both in warming up and cooling down, from the fact that the thin or watery part is affected by heat and cold very quickly, while on the contrary, the globules or fat in the cream are not so sensitive to the different degrees of temperature. It is not infrequent that the temperature is changed from five to eight degrees while the butter globules are absorbing the heat or cold. Cream may be cooled very rapidly to the required temperature, yet the butter will come soft, which clearly demonstrates that the globules were not thoroughly cooled before the churning commenced. So to be on the safe side it is well to make some allowance when we temper the cream.—V. M. Couch, in Ohio Farmer.

Tubercle Bacillus in Butter.
Unsalted butter, all made by Fri-burg peasants, produced in part from sweet and in part from ripened cream, was in 20 instances examined for the bacillus of tuberculosis.
Guinea pigs were fed with three of the samples, with which they were inoculated, and all died from peritonitis, while of the remaining 17, virulent tubercle bacilli were found in four samples. This case, which is reported by Korn, should set at rest any doubt as to the possibility of danger arising from butter which is sold in our shops and stores without the slightest knowledge where it was made and under what conditions.

The Selection of Melons.
Seedsmen who recommend melons call attention to the shipping qualities of the varieties. For home use there is no melon that can compare with the Kleckley, while the Emerald Gem is the best of the cantelopes, though neither variety will ship to market satisfactorily. One of the best to follow the Emerald Gem for a later kind is the old Hackensack, both being planted at the same time.
These varieties cannot be excelled for quality.—Troy (N. Y.) Times.

Substances. It cures Worms and allays Feverishness.
