PRESERVE YOUR HORSE.

Careless Inattention Kills Many Valuable Animals Years and Years Before Their Time.

Many farm horses are killed each year by thoughtless owners. They would not take their lives as butchers would, nor would they purposely take their lives by intentional cruelty. By careless inattention the work is done, and many men are guilty of the charge of killing off good horses if the matter could be definitely traced. Poor treatment when disease attacks the vital parts of a horse is a source of much fatality among horses. Lack of judgment under circumstances relating to the care of horses when they are out of condition is another. The lack of proper knowledge of the effect of different foods for horses under peculiar conditions may be added to the list. A great many causes might be given, but it is unnecessary to repeat them here. The horse owner who will give the subject any thought can figure out more ways than one in which the lives of those faithful animals may be shortened or lengthened. There are very few horses worn out. The most of them die from some cause or other, and these causes are what horsemen want to look after if they want their horse to live to a green old age. It is easier to preserve horses than to procure them. Barring accidents, a sound horse should be as good at 20 as at any other age, yet we find but few that are old that are able to do a full day's work without great fatigue. You must study the care of your horses if you would preserve them.—Druggists' Journal.

WEIGHT OF FLEECE.

Sheep Kept on the Western Ranges Carry More Wool Than Those Raised in the East.

On the western ranges sheep are grown more cheaply than in any other part of the country, and doubtless as cheaply as in any country in the world, but the sheep there carry heavier fleeces than elsewhere in this country, says Farm, Stock and Home. In the New England states fleeces average from five to six pounds each; in New York and Pennsylvania, less than six pounds; while Ohio, Michigan and Indiana average a little over 6 1/2 pounds, but the western states and territories quickly bring up the average. Iowa's fleece weighs 6.9; Minnesota's 6.7; Kansas, 7.1; Montana, 7.3; Wyoming and Washington, 7.9 each; Idaho, 7.8, and Oregon, 7.5. It looks as though those western regions were well adapted to the sheep industry in more ways than one. The bureau of animal industry reports that sheep scab has become much reduced during the past year. The bureau has inspectors stationed throughout all the sheep raising regions and at railroad points in order to discover diseased sheep and prevent their gaining access to the large stock yards. Sheep owners have been encouraged to dip their sheep, and the bureau thinks that a few more years of active work will result in the practical eradication of the parasite causing scab.

FEEDING PEN GATE.

Where Any Great Number of Pigs Are Kept a Device Like This One is Almost Indispensable.

When there are any great number of pigs fed in the same pen it is invariably the rule that the larger pigs get the greater share of the feed, and in consequence they grow better and the smaller, less active pigs get less feed and are jostled about and fall farther and farther behind. By using a gate, made as portrayed, in the feeding pen, the large, strong pigs will be hindered in no way from getting their share, and the smaller ones will be given an equal chance, or better. The gate (c) is fastened to the lifting lever (b), which is held at the desired height, admitting the desired sized pig by a pin (a), through the posts and through the lever. The lower hole admits the smaller pigs, but the larger sized cannot squeeze under. When the little pigs have satisfied themselves, lift the gate another hole and admit the next grade, and so on. In this way the smaller pigs will not become stunted by being crowded away from the feeding trough or floor.—J. L. Irwin, in Farm and Home.

HELPFUL SHEEP NOTES.

Breeding ewes are in strong demand all over the country. The effects of good breeding are wholly neutralized unless they are supported by good feeding. Never in the history of the industry has there been so great a demand for small sheep ranches as at present. The shepherd who procures a purebred ram simply possesses a possibility which he is to avail himself of in the best manner. It is not wise to leave salt to be eaten to excess by sheep. It is sure to be taken too freely, unless it is in the form of rock salt, which is licked and so swallowed slowly and safely. Too freely eaten it becomes a purgative and causes excessive thirst, which leads the sheep to drink too much water.—Rural World.

Divorce Notice.

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF SNYDER COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.
Eva M. Kantz, October Term, 1898, No. 12.
versus Al Sub, No. 3. Feb. Term, 1899. In Divorce.
Asa H. Kantz.
To ASAH H. KANTZ, Respondent in the above proceedings.
Sir: You are hereby notified that your wife, Eva M. Kantz, has instituted proceedings against you, asking a divorce from the bonds of matrimony, upon the grounds that you have offered such indignities and violence to her person as to render her condition intolerable and life burdensome, and thereby compelled her to withdraw from your home and family. By reason of your default in not entering an appearance in not filing an answer, the case has been referred to me as Master, I have fixed SAT. URBAY, the FOURTEENTH day of SEPTEMBER, 1901, at nine o'clock, A. M., as the time, and the office of Charles Hower, Esq., in the borough of Selinsgrove, Snyder Co., Pa., as the place for taking testimony in the case, when and where you may attend.
H. HARRIS BOWER, Master.
Middleburg, Pa., July 26th, 1901.

Deeply Interested.
"Father," said the fair girl, "Harold has left me, never to return!"
"I am sorry to hear that," exclaimed the old gentleman, in softened tones.
"I am so grateful for your sympathy!"
"Are you sure he left, never to return?"
"Yes."
"Well, that's too bad; too bad. Day before yesterday he borrowed the best silk umbrella in the house."

Soon Parted.
Came young Skaggs from Metamora, And he wore a straw fedora
On his head.
"Cute he was, and rather witty,
And he'd come to do the city."
So he said.
Met a man who seemed to know him,
And who volunteered to show him
Something odd.
Went to see a cavod-in tunnel.
And a chap they called the Cunnel
Got his wad.

Various Sorts.
Tess—Goodness; Miss Roxie looks mad.
Jess—Yes, there's a certain puppy with a great pedigree that she wanted her father to buy for her, but he wouldn't do it.
Tess—What was it? A French count or a German baron?
—Philadelphia Press.

One Doctor's Reasoning.
"How much do I owe you, doctor?"
"Ten dollars."
"Phew! Your colleague, Dr. Knodler, charges only five dollars for a mild case like this."
"That may be; but you must remember that he has a much larger practice."
—N. Y. Times.

DOWN BY THE SAD SEA WAVES.
"Now we are engaged, Gussie, I feel I must tell you an awful family secret—my grandfather was sentenced to a year's imprisonment."
"Oh, that's nothing, dearest girl, I've done five in my time."
—Ally Sloper.

Chopping Him Off.
Seldum Fedd—Honestly, boss, I don't know where me next meal is comin' from—Citizen (gruffly)—Neither do I! It is certainly not coming from me!—Puck.

Really and Truly Hot.
"This has been a dreadful summer."
"Hassn't it? At the seashore last week I met a Boston girl who said if it got much worse she'd have to buy a fan."
—Detroit Free Press.

Victim of Circumstances.
Shykes—You are still devoted to vegetarianism, I suppose?
Glizzard—I'm still preaching it, but I'm not practicing it just now. Meat is cheaper.—Chicago Tribune.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION PROPOSED TO THE CITIZENS OF THIS COMMONWEALTH FOR THEIR APPROVAL OR REJECTION BY THE SPECIAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH IN PURSUANCE OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION.

A JOINT RESOLUTION
Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth in General Assembly met that the following is proposed as amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof.

Amendment One to Article Eight, Section One.
Add at the end of the first paragraph of said section, after the words "shall be entitled to vote at all elections," the words, "subject however to such laws requiring and regulating the registration of electors as the General Assembly may enact;" so that the said section shall read as follows:

Section 1. Qualification of Electors. Every male citizen twenty years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections, subject however to such laws requiring and regulating the registration of electors as the General Assembly may enact:

1. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month.
2. He shall have resided in the State one year (or if having previously been a qualified elector or active-born citizen of the State, he shall have resided in the State and returned within six months immediately preceding the election.)
3. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall vote at least two months immediately preceding the election.
4. If twenty-two years of age and upwards, he shall have paid within two years a State or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months and paid at least one month before the election.

Amendment Two to Article Eight, Section Seven.
Strike out from said section the words "but no elector shall be deprived of the privilege of voting by reason of his name not being registered," and add to said section the following words, "but laws regulating and requiring the registration of electors may be enacted to apply to cities only, provided that such laws be uniform, for cities of the same class." so that the said section shall read as follows:

Section 7. Uniformity of Election Laws.—All laws regulating the holding of elections by the cities or for the registration of electors shall be uniform throughout the State, but laws regulating and requiring the registration of electors may be enacted to apply to cities only, provided that such laws be uniform, for cities of the same class.
A true copy of the Joint Resolution.
W. W. GRIEST,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION PROPOSED TO THE CITIZENS OF THIS COMMONWEALTH FOR THEIR APPROVAL OR REJECTION BY THE SPECIAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH IN PURSUANCE OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION.

A JOINT RESOLUTION
Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met That the following is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in pursuance of the provisions of the Eighteenth Article thereof.

Amendment.
Strike out section four of article, eight, and insert in place thereof, as follows:

Section 4. All elections by the citizens shall be by ballot or by such other method as may be provided by law: Provided, that secrecy in voting be preserved.
A true copy of the Joint Resolution.
W. W. GRIEST,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Pensive.
"When our author speaks of the pensive girl," explained the instructor, "he means that she is thoughtful."
And the foreigner learning English, pausing long enough to make sure of his dialect, explained:
"Ah, je see! And ze thoughtless girl, ees she accordingly expensive, aber nit, pourquoi?"
Now this, of course, was indeed no dream.—Detroit Journal.

A Case of Overcrowding.
"I don't see why I keep on getting so much fatter. I only eat two meals a day."
"I know, my love, but you shouldn't insist upon crowding your breakfast and luncheon into one meal, and your dinner and a late supper into the other."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Painful Subject.
Mr. Shortness—I shall feel greatly honored if you will accompany me to the theater this evening.
Miss Beauty—With pleasure. What is the bill for tonight?
Mr. Shortness (absently)—About—ten—dollars.—N. Y. Weekly.

The Acme of Misfortune.
Hewitt—I never have any luck at whist.
Jewett—Neither do I; the other day when I was playing on a railroad train, instead of taking my ticket, the absent-minded conductor took the only trump I had.—Town Topics.

From Two Points of View.
Once more the golden glory
Of the golden rod is glimmering
O'er the meadows where the blossoms
Of the wild violets are dreaming—
O'er more the hapless victim
Of his fever's busy sneezing
At the cease the unaffiliated
Feet imagines is so pleasing.
