This extensive planting of the locust probably explains why it is so often hit by lightning. The tree has many good qualities, aside from its fancied one as a lightning arrester, and it has become so frequent in Ohio and western Pennsylvania that the lightning cannot well help striking it. A Mr. Fletcher, of New Orleans, who lately returned from Europe, thinks have married titled feroeigners Gen. Fred Grant's daughter seems to have been the most fortunate. Prince Cantacuzene has an unquestioned social position in all the continental European capitals that his wife shares with him as do very few wives of American birth.
