HODGSON'S TESTIMONY.

Tells Story of Brooklyn's Part in Santiago Fight.

TESTIMONY IN FAVOR OF SCHLEY

Letter's Conduct Was All That a Commander-in-Chief Should Have Been, Says Hodgson—Bombardment of Colon Developed Batteries' Strength

Washington, Oct. 8.—Lieutenant Commander Hodgson yesterday again occupied the greater part of the time of the Schley court of inquiry as a witness. Hodgson repeated and extended his story of the battle of July 3, giving the opinion that Commander Schley's conduct on that occasion was such as that of a commander-in-chief should have been. He also explained at some length his correspondence with Admiral Schley concerning the alleged colloquy between them while the Santiago engagement was in progress. He said he had had no controversy with the commodore, but he repeated that the commodore had said "Dama the Texas," when told that that vessel was in danger.

Captain Folger said that the bombardments of the Cristobal Colon on May 31 had been eminently successful in developing the strength of the Spanish shore batteries, and had shown them to be very weak. He also said that if the Spanish vessels had attempted to escape at night they could not have been seen by the blockading fleet in bad weather.

Commander Hodgson, at Mr. Rayner's request continued his description of the Santiago battle from the point where he had dropped it last Friday. He said:

"The Brooklyn did all she could. She got into action just as quick as steam could carry her there. We commenced firing as soon as the first gun on the port bow would bear, and we kept the port battery firing until she turned with port helm through the arc, using the aft guns until we got all the starboard guns to bear. We got around as quickly as we could with port helm until we almost paralleled the course of the leading Spanish vessel, when the helm was eased and the ship steered a course parallel with the Viscaya, which was then the leading vessel, although the Maria Teresa probably was further to the westward than the Viscaya. She was standing at an angle into the shore. When we got around the smoke was so very dense nothing could be seen of anything in the rear of us. The three Spanish vessels were then engaged with were the Viscaya, the Colon and the Oquendo. The Viscaya was about 2,500 yards on our starboard bow; the Colon probably a little forward of the starboard beam. The Oquendo was abaft the starboard beam. We continued in that direction, when I remarked to Captain Cook that it seemed rather lonely for us out there. He was in the conning tower. He asked "Why?" I said that we were all alone with the three Spanish vessels, and it seemed that it depended upon us to knock them out. At that time the smoke was so dense I could not see anything, and I supposed that the New York being away, the Brooklyn was steaming ahead of the slower vessels. He stepped out of the conning tower and exclaimed to me: "What's that off our starboard quarter?" I looked in that direction and saw the heavy bow of a ship, and said, "That must be the Massachusetts." He said, "No, it could not be the Massachusetts; she has gone to Guantanamo." I said, "It must be the Oregon," and he remarked, "God bless the Oregon!" I said, "Well, I am very glad to see her." The Oregon was at that time, I should say, four or five hundred yards off our starboard quarter at full speed. We continued in that position until the Brooklyn's speed began to increase as we got up steam, and probably drew a little farther ahead from the Oregon. She never was that close to us again as I remember. The Oquendo very shortly fell out and went ashore. The Colon gradually drew ahead and also went in shore.

Chasing the Colon.
"I remember very well the time that the Viscaya blanketed her from our fire. This chase was continued in that direction until, when off Aceroaderas, the Viscaya ported her helm and ran in shore. The Colon at this time had gained speed and was in shore I suppose some seven miles. After passing the Viscaya we steamed ahead and ceased firing. The men were allowed to come out of the turrets one at a time to get a breathing spell, although, of course, all guns were manned and everything ready, but the gaining upon the Colon was very slow, in fact, she gained apparently on us. This was about 11.15, when the Viscaya stood in for Aceroaderas. The chase was continued then after the Colon. I know it must be six or seven miles away until we gradually began to gain. I remember keeping the stadimeter at work on her, although the 12,000 yards would not register on the stadimeter. I remember at one time telling Commodore Schley that it was within about 13,000 yards, and my recollection is he told some one to signal the Oregon to try one of her 13-inch shells, which fell short. Then we tried with 8-inch shells, and they fell short. The Oregon was signalling to us the fall of our shot and we signalled to her the fall of her shot.

"We continued occasionally to fire, the Oregon her 13 and 8-inch guns and we our 8-inch guns. I remember seeing one of the 13-inch shells of the Oregon fall well ahead of the Colon, and one of our 8-inch shells apparently fell in short of the Colon. At that time the Colon ported helm hard a port. Previously to this she had ported her helm once or twice, apparently seeking a soft spot on shore. She fired her lee gun and hauled down her flag. I pulled out my watch. It was exactly 1.15. We then ceased firing and slowed down, and orders were given to get out a boat. The captain was ordered to go on board to make terms with or tell the terms to the commanding officer of the Colon. On account of steam having been cut off and there being some trouble with the boat we were some little time in getting the boat out. In the meantime we had slowed and as rapidly as could be accomplished one of the cutters was finally gotten out and a crew put in. Captain Cook went in the boat and boarded the Colon. I think he probably had a mile and a half to pull. At any rate, we had our guns trained on the Colon all this time in case of treachery or any act of that kind on her part, although I saw her throwing breech locks overboard. I did not suspect anything of that kind."

"It has been stated here," said Mr. Rayner, "that the Brooklyn ran 2,000 yards away from the enemy's ships in making her loop."

The witness replied: "Any witness who made that statement, although he may have stated what he thought had occurred, was absolutely mistaken."

"How far did she go from the enemy's vessels?"
"She must have gone about 600 yards to the southward, as that is about the tactical diameter of the Brooklyn at that speed."

"Did this turn interfere with the Brooklyn's ability to keep up her fire?"
"It did not," she continued to fire from her aft turrets."

LIPTON WOULD RACE AGAIN
Shamrock's Owner Thinks He Has Yet a Fighting Chance.
New York, Oct. 8.—Sir Thomas Lipton is far from satisfied that the recent yacht races have conclusively demonstrated the Columbia to be the better boat, and it is now more than evident that he would be glad to arrange for another race.

In conversation yesterday Sir Thomas said: "Notwithstanding we are whipped, I still believe the Shamrock the better boat. Remember, I am not disparaging the other boat or the New York Yacht Club in the least, but the fact is that the other boat, in the last two races, got the best of the wind, while we did not."

"Do you think that in the last race, for instance, where the two boats were so widely separated on the beat home, that if the Shamrock had held over in similar positions to that of the Columbia, that she could have beaten her?"
"No, I do not criticize my crew in the least. The other boat simply profited by getting puffs of wind that we did not happen to have."

"Then you would like to have another race?"
"Yes; I think it would be well to arrange another race."
"This year?"
"Oh, no. Nothing would be done now before another year."

It Happened in a Drug Store.
"One day winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. R. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial, she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy."
