After January 1 the railroads will not accept as baggage anything but luggage containing personal effects which accompany the owner. The express companies have been making a kick over the indiscriminate checking of articles as baggage which under no stretch of the imagination could be considered as such.

The Post is publishing on the inside pages of this issue, the tombstone inscriptions of Row's church cemetery at Salem. Row's church was the first established west of the Susquehanna, north of Harrisburg. You will find the records quite ancient. They were collected for the Post by C. H. Woodruff, a progressive and intelligent gentleman of Salem.

A boy came to brighten the home of Geo. W. Walter and wife. Congratulations.

This Post printing office last week sent out 25,000 large labels for a manufacturing plant in Central Pennsylvania, 1000 tags and a large consignment of stationery for Swarthmore College. If our work was not done right, orders would not come from all parts of the state.

The Post last week published an obituary of Nelson Freed, and later we received a beautiful memorial written by his pastor. We publish it this week and also a notice of George J. Haines. We desire to ask every reader of the Post to read these obituaries and decide for themselves whether they prefer such a memorial to the worn-out stereotyped "resolutions of respect." The Post has been criticised for not publishing resolutions without pay. Which would you rather have, dear reader, a memorial like Rev. Gramley wrote for Nelson Freed or those cold resolutions of respect?

Bucknell vs. Gettysburg.

On Saturday, Nov. 2nd, Bucknell will play a game of football with Gettysburg, which will be the great game of the season on the home grounds (Lewistown). The games with Cornell, the Indians and University of Pennsylvania have brought great credit to Bucknell. Gettysburg also has a good record, so that the coming game on November 2nd promises to be a fine exhibition of football. The greatest interest is centered on this game by the friends of both colleges and a large crowd is expected. The game will be called at 2:00 P. M. Admission 35c.

Sixth Annual Convention of the Snyder County C. E. Union.

The sixth annual convention of the Snyder County C. E. Union assembled at Troxelville, Pa., Oct. 19, 1901.

The hospitality of the people of Troxelville and vicinity did much to make the convention a source of pleasure and profit. Many interesting and helpful subjects were discussed, which we trust will be carried into effect in the various societies represented. Dr. Focht of Selinsgrove and Rev. Kohler of New Berlin presented subjects every endeavor should be in harmony with. Following are the resolutions adopted by the convention.

RESOLUTIONS. WHEREAS, the societies of the C. E. Union of Snyder County assembled in its annual convention in the Lutheran church of Troxelville, Pa., Oct. 18, 19, 1901, have enjoyed unusual profitable lessons and have received many rich blessings from the favor and presence of Almighty God.

RESOLVED, That we express our high appreciation of the excellent program prepared by our efficient board of officers and our hearty thanks to our worthy president for the able manner in which he has conducted the convention which has proven so helpful and inspiring to many.

RESOLVED, That we owe our profound thanks to the speakers for their excellent productions and the helpful thoughts suggested by their addresses.

RESOLVED, That we commend the various societies who, by their reports, show an earnest striving toward better things, while we deplore the fact that some have dropped out of existence. We would urge upon these latter a very speed re-organization.

RESOLVED, That the notes of warning sounded by Prof. Bowersox were timely and claim a prayerful attention of every society.

RESOLVED, That we urge upon every society in the county greater and more earnest efforts along the line of missions, that we study the subject more thoroughly, that we may pray for it more intelligently and give to it more liberally, believing that every live C. E. society must be active in this branch of Christian service.

RESOLVED, That we endorse the sentiments expressed by Dr. Focht in his address on the "Yielded Life," and urge a deeper consecration on the part of every Christian Endeavor.

RESOLVED, That we convey to the C. E. Society and good people of Troxelville and vicinity our sincere thanks and appreciation for their kind hospitality and good cheer not less than the excellent means of transportation they provided for our arrival into their midst and feel that we have profited by our stay and hope that this convention may prove a blessing to them as well.

THE JUDGESHIP.

The Journal's Mud Will Not Change Them. From the Selinsgrove Tribune.

Quite a number of Lewisburg Journals are circulated through our office here. Don't think that they will do very much good. Our people have about made up their mind how they are going to vote, and it will take something more than printer's ink to turn them.

Union Party People Scare.

From the Beaver Springs Herald, Oct. 17.

Hon. H. M. McClure was a visitor in town one day last week. The Judge will get a very good vote in this section, many Democrats having signified their intention to support him in November. Independent Republicans and Wannamaker Union Party People are a very scarce article in this neck-o'-woods.

The Firm Friend of the Taxpayer.

From the Freeburg Courier.

We need not rehearse the facts that are patent to all, that Judge McClure's administration of his high office has been on the highest plane of justice and integrity; that his rigid impartiality has given all an equal chance before the law; that justice in his hands has been tempered with mercy; that he has stood the firm friend of the taxpayer, all these are household words. None but the vicious and criminal die-hard of McClure visited P. E. Kinney in Franklin over Sunday.

McClure a Popular Candidate.

From the Lewisburg Chronicle.

Hon. H. M. McClure, present incumbent and candidate for re-election as President Judge of the seventeenth judicial district, was nominated, not as a machine man, but as the "man of the people," namely a popular candidate. The magnificent majorities accorded him at the primaries, both in Union and Snyder counties, are splendid testimonials of the endorsement of the people and their approval of his course both on and off the bench. The "Chronicle" boldly issues the challenge to any person or persons to prove that Judge McClure has in any manner or form exhibited partisanship since his election to the judiciary. Of course his honor is a Republican, but at no time has he made his politics obnoxious before the people. His course as judge has been one that admits of approval. He has been clear-headed, clear-minded and always enforced the law with justice, fairness and equality. His record during the past decade will win for him a second term, and that he will be re-elected the "Chronicle" predicts with the same confidence that it knows that the sun shines in the day time.

Obituary of Nelson F. Freed.

In the sweet peace of an unfeigned trust in Jesus, Nelson F. Freed, son of Edward and Eliza Freed, departed this life quietly at Beavertown, Pa., Sunday evening, Oct. 20th, 1901, bringing his age to 19 years, 11 months and 11 days. His death-bed was like the deep calm repose of summer-evening's sky, when all nature is hushed to rest; and his departing soul like the setting sun, peacefully and triumphantly disappeared only to shine in another and brighter hemisphere.

Six years ago, under the pastorage of Rev. L. Dice, he was happily converted to God. His conversion was very bright and none could doubt it. His character and conduct proved to all that he had sipped the cup "sorrow for sin," touched the low note of penitential pain that he might afterward reach and sweetly sing the high note of the Redeemer's praise. He wove many Scripture passages into his life that hung like a beautiful vine upon the trellis of God's promises.

In his death, the United Evangelical church lost one of her choicest spirits, the S. S. of which he was the supt., a devoted worker and efficient teacher, the K. L. C. E. of which he was the esteemed president, a consecrated leader and an active member. He was an honorary member of the "W. M. S." in which he always took a deep interest, and a member of the Ladies' Aid Society. He was recently elected Secretary of the Snyder Co. S. S., K. L. C. E. and W. M. S. Union of the U. Ev. church.

Whenever possible, he attended the various conventions for personal profit and well do I remember how on our trip to the Bible Conference at Sunbury, he quoted entire chapters from the Bible; and both of us found it profitable exercise in committing the 53d chapter of Isa. Bro. Freed was looking forward to the time when he would with delight take his place in the ranks of the Gospel ministry. His name had found its way to Dr. A. E. Goble's list of prospective students for the C. P. C. As a public school teacher he was well qualified and held a large place in the hearts of his pupils. His ways, manners, disposition, and pleasantness together with his Christian life combined in him the qualities of making one of the best primary teachers of the county. On the day of his funeral the public schools of the township were closed and the schools of Beavertown attended the services in a body. Four of his fellow teachers, Prof. E. E. Wetzel, principal of the high school, Jno. W. Hanger, Jno. A. Wetzel and J. Wm. Engle served as pall-bearers. The obsequies were largely attended, and in the hearts of the many school children, love and pathos mingled touchingly as they marched by the casket in divided ranks, and looked for the last time upon the form of the beloved teacher.

After the body was lowered into the grave the pupils, supplied with flowers, marched by the open grave strewing the casket with a fragrant shower of bouquets.

"Earth's dearest ties must be broken, Time's sweetest roses decay; Words of farewell must be spoken, Evening will follow the day."

Beautifully arranged floral decorations were presented by the "C. E. S. S., W. M. S., L. A. Society, High School, and a little girl, who was one of his pupils, brought a bunch of Carnations and Roses with "MY TEACHER" attached.

During his illness he trusted in his Savior, whom he so gladly served and sincerely loved in health. Frequently his voice was raised in prayer and in the repetition of familiar verses from his marked Bible. Once, he said: "Jesus will give me a robe of righteousness." "His glory is flooding my soul." He also spoke of "Purity." A little before he passed over, he was heard singing: "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms." And one of the last verses quoted by his now silent lips was: "I heard a voice from Heaven say."

This is the second visit the angel of Death has made to this sorely bereaved home within a month, typhoid fever being the cause. Father, mother, three sisters, two brothers, one of whom is ill with the same disease, and a host of friends mourn the departed.

The following lines were found on his desk by his sisters:—"Both mine arms are clasped around you And my head is on your breast For my weary soul has found you Such a perfect present rest. Blessed Saviour! now, I know

That I am blest."

NELSON FREED. Also:—"I promise by God's grace to say nothing discouraging about His workers," signed, Nelson Freed. "When the last sentence hath its end, In mercy, Maker, Father, Friend Write for the sake of thy dear Son, Servant of Jesus Christ, 'Well done.'"

The funeral services were conducted by his pastor assisted by the Rev. I. P. Zimmerman of the Lutheran church. The deceased was buried by the side of his sister, Sallie, where he sweetly sleeps in resurrection hope, and where many friends will strew the grave with the "for-get-me-nots" of a loving remembrance.

Nelson now has joined the number Of the loved ones "gone before," Who compose the dear home circle On the ever-faded shore. A. D. GRAMLEY, Pastor.

Funeral of George J. Haines.

George Jacob Haines, son of Paul and Emeline Haines, was born March 31, 1882, and passed away in the triumph of a living faith, Oct. 17, 1901, aged 19 years, 6 months and 16 days. For the first time in the history of the family has the "Pale Horse" with its grim rider entered their pleasant home and snatched from their circle the youngest member. George was of a somewhat retiring disposition, quiet and reserved until well acquainted. He was very patient in his sufferings; no murmur or complaint passed his lips. Consumption, the "Destruction that wasteth at noonday," laid its claim upon him. He had a protracted combat of about two years against this disease.

Some time before he was bed-fast he was led by the prayers and solicitations graciously and "the Pearl of great Price." He wished to celebrate with his parents and sisters present the Lord's Supper and partook of the emblems with a joyful heart, while peace, sweet peace, the gift of God's love filled his soul and his sick-chamber became the presence-chamber of God. He united with us in church fellowship.

He rejoiced in his Saviour. His last words to those standing about his bedside were:—"Jesus, take me home, Jesus, take me home." Praising God to the end when he said, "Good bye, take good care of yourselves. I hope to meet you all again."

He is survived by a kind father, loving mother, three brothers and three saddened sisters. The Lord comfort the bereaved. Funeral services were conducted by the pastor assisted by the Rev. W. H. Hilbish of the Lutheran church. The services were largely attended. A. D. GRAMLEY, Pastor.

Letter to H. S. Renninger.

MIDDLEBURGH, PA. Dear Sir: As a painter you probably use lead and oil, and would naturally object to Devoe lead and zinc. Let us have a few words on the subject.

Painters say a good lead and oil job will last three years, and they say a house ought to be painted once in three years.

We take them to mean that their work is good for three years, no more and no less, or not much more and not much less.

Do you want your work to last longer? What do you say to six years. You'd have to have twice as much work; you know; or you'd be losing money.

Consider the case of your doctor. You call him in. Is it better for him to get your child out of bed to-morrow, or keep him sick for a month?

You prefer a quick doctor. So does everyone else in your town, and county, and state. We are all alike; we all want our doctors quick. A doctor, that gets his patients up quick, is the doctor that gets the patients—gets rich too, if he isn't run to death.

It's about the same with a painter, isn't it? Suppose you paint Devoe, and your competitor objects to Devoe; your work lasts six years and his work three. You cost your customer half; he costs double. Who'll get the business; and who'll go to Texas?

Devoe lasts six years—not exactly—we know of its lasting seventeen—and it never wears out in less than three, so far as we know. On a windy sand-seaside house, it lasts three years. Lead and oil lasts one year there.

Devoe lasts two or three times as long as lead and oil; and it's going to paint your town. Do you want to be in it? Yours truly, F. W. DEVOE & Co.
