PROFESSOR'S WOOING.

Mistaken for a Horse Thief, Chased by the Sheriff and Shot At While Driving Home,

From Greensburg, Ind., a correepondent writes to the Indianapolis Press that a drama that included a good many phases of western border life was enacted there when Sheriff Davis and a deputy, both heavily armed, went out the Michigan road to arrest a horse thief that had been reported as headed for Greensburg from Shelbyville. At the city limits the officers met a horse and buggy and commanded the driver to halt. The latter lashed the horse and started on a run through the city with the officers in pursuit. The sheriff was whipping his horse, and at every jump there was a pistol shot from the pursuers. The chase occurred about midnight, and the few men on the streets were commanded by the sheriff to join in the race.

The clatter of the running horses, the shouts of the men and the firing of pistols awoke the people in the houses along the way. When the sup-posed thief reached a livery barn he turned the horse in, jumped from the buggy and hid in a pile of straw. The sheriff and a crowd of excited followers poured into the barn and began to search for the supposed thief. Meanwhile the owner of the barn appeared and identified the supposed stolen outfit as his own, which he had hired to Forest Edwards, the young professor of a Birmingham, Ala., college.

Edwards had driven the horse to the country to call on a young woman. From his hiding place in the straw the professor overheard view. He was so frightinto ened he could hardly speak. He thought robbers were chasing him through the streets. Two bullets struck the buggy, and the professor had a close call for his life. The officers claim they shot into the air, but ent story.

Lesson in the International Series for December 8, 1901-Moses and Pharach.

THE LESSON TEXT. (Exodus 11:1-10.)
And the Lord said unto Moses, Yet will

I bring one plague more upon Pharaoh and upon Egypt; afterwards he will let you go hence: when he shall let you go, he shall surely thrust you out hence altogether. 2. Speak now in the ears of the people, and let every man borrow of his neighbor, and every woman of her neighbor, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold.

3. And the Lord gave the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians. Moreover the man Moses was very great in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharaoh's servants, and in the sight of the people.

4. And Moses said, Thus saith the Lord,

About midnight will I go out into the midst shall not hearken unto you; that my won-ders may be multiplied in the land of Greene's Ner-vurablood and Egypt.

10. And Moses and Aaren did all these wonders before Pharaoh; and the Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart, so that he would not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

GOLDEN TEXT.—The angel of his so I thought I presence saved them .- Is 63:0. NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The complete story of this most interesting period is found in chapters 5 to 11, inclusive. The events recorded took place B. C. 1491.

Conflict Begun (Ex. 5:1-7:13) .- The first demand on Pharaoh was reasonable, but would be granted only if Pharaoh recognized the authority of Jehovah. It was not intended to deceive him, but only to test him. The first result of the demand was not merely a contemptuous refusal, but an increase of Israel's burden.

The Plagues (Ex. 7:14-10:29). There were ten plagues in all, nine of which had passed when Moses had the interview with Pharaoh recorded in the lesson. The first was a defiling we are confronted by the hotel bill. of the sacred river Nile, on whose constancy and purity the comfort of amount, and cannot be increased ex-Egypt depends. The frogs of the sec- cept at great cost; railroad facilities ond plague were loathsome and noisy; the gnats or mosquitoes (rather than "lice") of the third plague were annoying on account of their sting; the flies of the fourth came in immense swarms, so that they interfered with health as well as with comfort. The fifth plague was an epidemic among cattle, which destroyed many of the beasts; while the boils of the sixth plague broke out upon both man and custs completed the work of destruc- tion and writes "it completely cured due to a strong wind bringing up a 227 lbs." It's positively guaranteed dusty cloud from the desert. Such for coughs, Colds and Lung troubles. storms are not unknown in Egypt. The plagues were sent to show that Jehovah is greater than all the gods of Egypt (12:12).

The Last Warning (Ex. 11:1-10) .-The last warning to Pharaoh was given by Moses under God's assurance that the end was at hand. The jewels which the Hebrews were to get were not to be "borrowed," in our modern sense of the word, but asked proaches the ball. for. The gifts would only partly make up for the years passed by the Hebrews in hard labor without pay. In spite of Moses' declaration to Pharach in 10:29, he seems to have taken to him warning of the last plague. Oriental families give more distinction to the oldest son than is common in America, not only in the distribution of property, but also by way of love and honor. The plague, touching all classes of society, and even cattle, was therefore the most terrible that could be concelved. Moses' "hot anger" against Pharaoh was justified, as was the similar wrath of Jesus against the Pharisees (Matt. 23), by long and obstinate opposition to the messages of God. In verse 10 occurs that standing puzsle, the words: "The Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart." To the Hebrew writer, to whom everything that happened was an act of God, these words are precisely similar to the words: "Pharaoh hardened his heart." The Lord had determined to free Israel; Pharaoh might yield or resist.

Police Justice Mahoney, of Chicago, gave a reproduction of the judgment of Solomon not long ago. Two Germans had had each other arrested on the charge of stealing a fine dachshund, which they both claimed. When they appeared for a hearing, each of the two men loudly claimed ownership of the canine and was willing to back up the assertion under oath. "One of you is mistaken," said the judge, finally. "I cannot decide this matter, but I will settle it by letting a policeman take the dog out and shoot him." "All right," said one of the claimants, waving his fist in his opponent's face, "just so this man doesn't get him." "No!

No! Don't kill the dog." shouted the Identification by Eyeballs. It has been suggested that the markings on eyeballs are a good means of identification. Some of them are prominent, especially on the upper half of the eye-that is, behind the top lid. Their course is generally zigzag, branching off at sharp angles similar to the lines seen in pictures of lightning. No two eyes are to be found in which the markings are identical; hence the means of distinguishing one person from another. After carefully registering the markings on certain eyes, some of which are illustrated, it is found that such markings are not, as might have been supposed, subject to any radical change. Now it is obvious that, by the aid of photography and various other means, we may make such copies of a person's eyes as would prove a certain and reliable guide to identification at any later date.-Chicago Trib-

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)

In the days of 'wild cat' money in the West, the Ames shovels were used as cur-rency. They were as stable as gold; their price did not vary a cent in twenty years. The very name of Oliver Ames & Son, was a synonym for honesty. It was current all over the world.

On the same principle Benson's Porous Plaster is the universal standard external remedy. To say it is a "good" plaster does not describe it; it is the best possible plaster. For every disease in which an external rem-edy is available, Benson's Plaster is used almost as a matter of course.

Benson's Plaster quickly relieves and cures where other modes of treatment are either exasperatingly slow or have no good effect whatever. Coughs, colds, lumbago, kidney trouble, rheumatism, lame back, etc., are at once benefited and soon cured. Capsicum, Strengthening and Belladonna

Before the industrial commission a manufacturer and dealer recently stated that in 1870 nine-tenths of the carpets and rugs sold in the United States were imported, and that ninetenths of the present domestic consumption is produced in this country. He might have added that rag carpets "like mother used to make" are not turned out in such profusion as they were 30 years ago.
