VOL. XXXVIII. DEC. 12, 1901. NUMBER 49

THERE seems to be every indication that the naval battle of Santiago will be fought over again, this time on the floor of Congress.

Mr. Schwab will have to revise his remarks about the uselessness of a college education since the announcement has been made that the Yale football team cleared $70,000 the past season.

Queer Wilhelmina has forgiven her husband and she wants the royal family to overlook his rudeness. Although the general public does not exactly know the cause of the family trouble it is agreed that if the Queen has forgiven him the reading public will try to.

STUDENT MOTORMAN.

Plucky Young Greek Who Recently Graduated from Yale Proves Himself a Hero.

Constantine Demster Stephanove, the plucky young Greek who, after seven years' hard work, has won his degree of master of arts from Yale, was the hero of a thrilling episode on the morning on which he won his bachelor's degree.

Stephanove has been working his own way through college.

During the past year he has been a motorman on one of the New Haven trolley lines and has attended lectures whenever his business would permit.

LIFTED HER FROM THE GROUND.

One morning not long ago, as his car was bowling along the street at a pretty fast rate of speed, a little child who was playing on one of the pavements, started for the other side of the street, apparently without seeing the on-rushing car.

Stephanove clanged his bell with all his might and the child, instead of heeding it as a warning, gave one frightened look at the car and stood stock still in the middle of the track, paralyzed with fear.

Immediately Stephanove applied the brakes with all their force. The car jolted and bumped and slowed down, but the motorman and the horrified spectators saw that it could not be stopped before it reached the child.

But Stephanove did not lose his head for an instant.

Letting go of the brake and the motor, he leaned far over the front of the car and just in the nick of time caught the frightened little form in his arms and lifting it from the ground held it there until the car stopped.

There was a loud shout of relief from the spectators, and Stephanove has been a hero ever since.

He takes his honors modestly.

To him it does not seem remarkable that he should work like a day laborer for seven years in order to obtain the education of a gentleman.

Fifteen years ago Joseph Haaga arrived in Buttes county, Kan., with five cents in his pocket. He went to work for a farmer, with whom he remained five years, saving something from his wages each year. At the end of that time he started farming on his own account. To-day he owns 500 acres of land and has it stocked with a fine herd of cattle.

A manufacturer of farm machinery told a gathering of farmers that if he treated the machinery in his factory as they treated that which he made for them, he would soon be a bankrupt. The waste involved in leaving implements exposed to the weather accounts for much of that which is classed as agricultural loss. In immense establishments, or in large business enterprises the operations of which extend over a wide territory, what might be called petty economies are followed. Minute care for slight details makes an important difference in dividends. The managers cannot afford to be wasteful. The extravagance of the individual is often in violent contrast with corporate prudence.

Mr. Croker pays a large tribute to the New York newspapers when he says that "the newspapers did it." The people of New York should undoubtedly be grateful for the rescue of the city from the jaws of Tammany by the agencies of the decent papers of the city.

ONE-TWENTIETH of the population of Germany is unemployed and considering the large number of Germans in the standing army of that country the number of people who do not earn a living by toil is alarmingly large.

EVERY man who loves a horse—and there are many of them—will look with disfavor upon a project to ride a horse from New York to Chicago in a week. It is useless to wear out a dumb brute's hoofs and legs and it will reflect no glory on the rider.

THE correspondents who have attempted to interview President Roosevelt seem to be in the position of a man who tries to stop an express train by waving his hat at the engineer. The engineer blows the cattle whistle and the train whizzes by.

They Cordially Agreed.

"Yes, sir, the newspapers of this country by their extended publication of sensational crimes and incidents are doing an incalculable amount of injury."

"That's right. The people shouldn't be permitted to read such details. The less they know about crime and criminals the better."

"I entirely agree with you. May I ask the nature of your business?"

"I'm a green goods man."

"And I am a dealer in gold bricks, Shake."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Help Wanted—Male. Mrs. Hauskeep—Goodness! This meat is absolutely raw. The new cook is wretched; she never cooks anything half enough.

Mr. Hauskeep—Don't blame her. She's only a woman.

Mrs. Hauskeep—What has that to do with it?

Mr. Hauskeep—Well, "woman's work is never done," you know. — Boston Traveler.

They Will Hold More.

"Do you ever wish you were a girl?" asked the visitor who was waiting in the reception-room.

"Only at Christmas time," answered the boy, who was lingering in the doorway.

"Why do you wish it then?"

"Because of the stockings they wear," was the prompt reply. — Chicago Post.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

Wanted Her to Vanish.

Conjurer (pointing to a large cabinet)—New, ladies and gentlemen, allow me to exhibit my concluding trick. I would ask any lady in the company to step on the stage and stand in this cupboard. I will then close the door. When I open it again the lady will have vanished without leaving a trace behind.

Gentleman in Front Seat (address to his wife)—I say, old woman, do me a favor and step up.—Tit-Bits.

Lacks Business Judgment.

"Binks isn't much of a business man, is he?"

"Well, I should say not. Why, he shows that in his family life."

"How?"

"He has accumulated a bigger stock than he can comfortably handle with the amount of capital he has."

"Stock of what?"

"Children. He has six."—Chicago Post.

In Strict Confidence.

Sweet Girl Graduate—And do you really love me?

Handsome Commercial Traveler—With my whole soul.

Sweet Girl (doubtfully)—How am I to know that you are telling the truth?

Handsome Commercial Traveler (earnestly)—I am not selling goods now.—Tit-Bits.

If of the Right Timber.

"Josiah," asked Mrs. Chugwater, looking up from a paper she was reading, "why does a medical student have to 'go before a board'?"

"So he can hang out a shingle, I suppose," replied Mr. Chugwater.

"What do you want to bother me about a thing like that for?"—Chicago Tribune.

COMPARATIVE COMFORT.

With His Head in a Hornet's Nest This Soldier Was Safe from the Enemy's Fire.

"I was in Chickamauga park a short while ago," said an old veteran who had been discussing the reunion at Memphis, to a New Orleans Times-Democrat man, "and I was impressed with the number of old veterans who still hang around the hills that have been made memorable in the country's history by the fierce battle that was fought there in the '60's. There is something pathetic about it to me.

"They are typical of the character of the man who followed the fortunes of the lost cause. But many of them are full of good stories, and I recall one story told me by an old confederate now running a livery stable in Chattanooga. He is fond of telling it on himself. It was during one of the preliminary skirmishes at Chickamauga.

"The federal troops had reached the top of the hill, and the confederates had been forced down on the other side. They hid behind stumps of trees, fell over behind logs and sought other places of concealment in their effort to escape Yankee bullets. 'I fell over behind a log, with my face down,' said the Chattanooga liveryman, 'and I could hear the Yankee bullets whistling over my head or burying themselves in the log behind which I was hiding.

"In hugging up close to the log I had shoved my face in a hornet's nest. The hornets covered my face and head, and I lay there picking them off one at a time until I found an opportunity to escape. Soon after that I met a ragged looking soldier, and he said: 'Orrat goodness, Jim, what an oozle in the matter with your face?' I told him I had shoved it into a hornet's nest while dodging Yankee bullets. 'You must have suffered awfully,' he said. 'No,' I replied, 'I never experienced a more delicious feeling in my life,' and really I never enjoyed anything so much as I did the sting of those hornets." The old liveryman chuckled over the story, and he doubt he really felt that the hornet's nest was a pleasure resort under the circumstances."

DEMOCRATIC EDITORS OF NEB.

THE Democratic editors of Nebraska are going to hold a grand and solemn meeting for the purpose of crying over spilled milk and of forming "an association for more perfect offensive and defensive work." We don't know how offensive they were in the last campaign, but their defence was easily smashed by the Republicans. The very able part of the Nebraska State Journal thus inundates the proposed meeting with his fancy:

"With words that are sweet as the finest molasses,

They'll taffy the toller and add to his fears;

They'll show such a grief for the downtrodden masses

A tub would scarce hold more than half of their tears.

Twixt hours of talking and seconds of thinking,

'Twixt sophistry solemn and logic sublime,

'Twixt very light eating and heavyweight drinking.

The boys ought to have a hell-roaring old time."

That's the sort of time they need. Sweet is pleasure after pain.

Don't Sneeze.

Sneezing, snuffling, excessive blowing of nose congested air passages, watering of eyes and all the other disagreeable symptoms attendant upon colds in the head, influenza, catarrh hay fever and similar diseases are instantly banished by the use of Clark's Antiseptic Cream. One application gives relief in the worst cases in ten seconds and permanently cures in a very short time. The greatest discovery ever made. Sold under a guarantee. Large tube postpaid for 25c.
