The Schoolmaster of Advertising.

Printers' Ink published weekly is the established authority of advertising magazines and gives the best food for thought to those who wish to reach out for business.

It deals with the cold hard facts—those that are indispensable for a successful advertising campaign.

It teaches the novice to avoid waste in advertising appropriations and to secure the most desirable results with as small a sum as possible.

Printers' Ink is called the "Little Schoolmaster of Advertising," because it was the pioneer in the field of successful work.

It stands to-day as a text book on the subject of advertising, and it is so broad-gauged that no good ideas will be rejected.

Printers' Ink is published every Wednesday at 10 Spruce Street, New York. Send five dollars for a year's Subscription or 10 cents for a sample copy.

FLOOD DAMAGE IS HEAVY

Reports From Most River Points Say Water Has Receded.

COAL MINES ARE STILL CLOSED

Many Towns Are Recovering Normal Conditions and Resuming Business. In New Jersey Many Are Homeless, and Thousands Forced to be Idle.

Philadelphia, March 3.—The Schuylkill river was again within its banks and close to its normal condition last night. Today the railroads which skirt the shores of this river resumed operations. Service to Pottsville and Reading over both the Pennsylvania and Reading railroads from this city is again in full operation. The destruction wrought by the storm was so great that many industrial establishments along the river's banks will be unable to resume work for several days.

All reports from up-river points carry the information that great damage was done. The various towns, now that the water has receded, are rapidly recovering their normal condition. Electric light plants, street railways and water companies are resuming work as best they can. The big iron works at Pottstown, which suffered considerably from the swollen waters, partially resumed operations today, as did also numerous other industrial plants located along the upper Schuylkill.

At Pottsville rail fell heavily all day, which resulted in again sending the river up slightly at that point, but no further damage is apprehended. Not one coal mine in Schuylkill county resumed operations today. Most of the mines were flooded by swollen mountain streams.

Susquehanna Receding.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 4.—The Susquehanna has been at flood height longer than ever known here, and this city has suffered great damage. Last night the waters were receding at Sunbury, Milton and Williamsport, but there was a great flood reported at Wilkesbarre.

South Harrisburg below Paxton street is still flooded, and all the lower end mills and furnaces have been forced to suspend. The Pennsylvania Steel Works are shut down, and the water has damaged the mines in the Lykens Valley. The Pennsylvania railroad is still unable to run trains between Harrisburg and Middletown.

THE FLOOD IN JERSEY

Passaic River Has Fallen and the Worst is Over.

Paterson, N. J., March 4.—The great flood that has inundated a large part of the mill section of Paterson, subsided, and it is believed that the worst is over. The damage was very great. It is estimated that the loss wrought by the flood is as large as that by the fire, while it is stated there is little or no insurance to cover it. Many more families have been rendered homeless by the flood than were made so by the fire. The work of getting those imprisoned in the upper stories of houses in the flooded district went on yesterday. Those who refused to be taken out in boats were supplied with food and other needed articles. At the armory the scene resembles that on the day after the fire. All the cemeteries are flooded and all burials have had to be postponed. Arrangements are being made to use the old vaults in the abandoned Sandy Hill Cemetery for the storage of bodies.

Passaic, N. J., March 4.—Six unknown men were drowned at Outwater bridge, two miles from Passaic. They were trying to keep debris from the structure, which was weak, when a heavy flow of water struck the bridge and carried it away. The men cried for help, but no one could save them. In the Dundee district, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth streets have been deserted. This is the thickly settled section of the city, and all the families living there have been driven from their homes. It is said that in Wallington at least 300 houses have been made uninhabitable. Business in Passaic is at a standstill. The newspapers have been compelled to shut down owing to lack of gas and electricity, and for the same reason many stores are closed.

Newark, N. J., March 4.—The Passaic river has fallen rapidly at this point and the city has suffered little damage. Belleville was hit harder than Newark. The plants of the Sherdman Rubber company and the Atlas Machine Works and the Eck Dynamo and Motor Works were all closed, the water surrounding them to a depth of three or four feet.

Prince Declines Canadian Honors.

Ottawa, Ont., March 4.—The government has been notified that Prince Henry has declined to be received on the Canadian side of Niagara Falls with military honors. The prince says that he visits Canada merely as a private citizen, with the object of having a good view of the Falls and wishes to spend the time quietly. This means that the salute, the guard of honor and the escort will be dispensed with. No doubt Lord Minto will send a representative to meet the prince.

President Will Visit Charleston.

Washington, March 4.—A delegation of prominent citizens of Charleston, S. C., had a conference with President Roosevelt yesterday in regard to his attending the Charleston Exposition. The President told the delegation that if nothing intervened to prevent he would take great pleasure in visiting Charleston and the exposition late in the present month.

CHICAGO GREET'S PRINCE

Royal Guest Welcomed by Cheers of Thousands.

ATTENDED A CHORAL FESTIVAL

Magnificent Decorations Greeted Prince Henry Throughout Chicago. Wild Enthusiasm Displayed at the Choral Festival—The Great Ball.

Chicago, March 4.—A glare of red fire that could be seen for miles, the blaze of hundreds of torches, the sparkle of myriads of electric lights and the cheers of tens of thousands of people made up the first taste of Chicago's hospitality that was given Prince Henry of Prussia upon his arrival in this city last evening.

His train arrived at the depot of the Chicago and Alton railway at 6:30 o'clock, and from there, after he had been formally welcomed by Mayor Harrison and the members of the reception committee, Prince Henry rode through streets packed with a dense multitude, whose cheers compelled the distinguished visitor to bow continually to right and left.

No more flattering welcome could have been extended to any visitor, and it came not so much from the officials of the city as from its citizens. The route to the Auditorium Hotel was gayly decorated with bunting, the American and German flags being entwined. Many of the buildings had upon their fronts elaborate devices made up of hundreds of electric lights. There were "Welcomes" by the dozen, there were eagles and flags and there were strings of gay-colored lights almost without number. No hint of the electric light decorations was given to the prince until after his carriage had passed over Jackson Boulevard bridge and was descending the gentle slope that leads toward Michigan avenue. Then almost in the same second the lights were turned on, and what had been but one second before a lane between dark, towering buildings was an avenue of dazzling light. The torch-bearers, who were German veteran soldiers, lit their torches at almost the same instant, and from end to end of the boulevard between the bridge and Michigan avenue, two-thirds of a mile away, there was an instantaneous blaze of red fire from both sides of the street.

It was shortly after 8 o'clock when the prince and his suite entered their carriages at the Auditorium Hotel for their drive to the armory to attend a choral festival. As the prince entered the hall the great orchestra of more than 100 pieces burst forth in the national anthem of Germany. While this was being played the prince and suite were escorted to the balcony on the second floor, that had been reserved for them.

The orchestra struck up "The Star Spangled Banner." Instantly every man and woman in the hall was standing, the prince and the members of his suite rising also. The first notes of the song were utterly lost in the wild cry of delight that rang out as the song was heard. This died away in an instant, and then with a force that seemed to shake the very roof itself, the entire audience followed the orchestra with the words of the song. It was shortly after 10 o'clock when the prince and the members of his suite rose from their seats and, escorted by the members of the committee, left the balcony for their carriages.

The chief event of the day of Prince Henry in Chicago was the grand ball held last night at the Auditorium. It was one of the most significant social events ever witnessed in this city, surpassing even the great ball given in honor of Admiral Dewey two years ago. The decorations of the huge ball room were beyond anything attempted in the Auditorium before. In the general scheme the German and American colors were freely mingled, and formed the basis of the principal designs. Nautical effects prevailed to a great extent. The unit for repetition was a boat's prow and masthead, flanked on either side by panels bearing eagles and flags, and by the banners of America and Germany.

The entrance of the prince into the hall was marked with the strictest formality, and the presentation to Mrs. Harrison, his official hostess, was made in a manner as quiet as it was dignified. As soon as the distinguished visitors had been presented to the ladies selected for their escort, the prince took Mrs. Harrison to the head of the line and immediately began to promenade around the ball room, stopping when he reached the front of the royal box.

Crushed to Death in Elevator Shaft.

Philadelphia, March 4.—John Betts, 30 years old, of 6319 Baynton street, Germantown, an artist, met a horrible death by falling eleven stories down the elevator shaft in the Real Estate Title and Trust Building, at Broad and Chestnut streets, yesterday. He was crushed almost beyond recognition. The mangled body was taken to the morgue, where it was later identified by his brother. He was a son of Charles M. Betts, head of the wholesale lumber firm of Charles M. Betts & Co. Mr. Betts, the father, is a veteran of the civil war and well advanced in years. When he heard of his son's tragic death he was prostrated and fainted in his office.

Linemen Strike For Shorter Hours.

Bethlehem, Pa., March 4.—Ninety linemen employed between here and Easton by the telephone and telegraph companies struck yesterday for a nine-hour day and time and half time for Sundays when called out for over time. The strike was ordered from the union headquarters at Harrisburg.
