

SICK, WEAK, AILING WIFE

Dr. Greene's Nervura is the Remedy Sure to Make Her Well.

The man who has a sick wife has a great burden upon him, but his burden is light compared to that of his sick wife. She may not be sick abed, but she is ailing all the time; she is weak, nervous, irritable, and tired out. She is sleepless nights and wakes mornings feeling tired, without energy or ambition, discouraged, dragged out, and indescribably miserable. Her head aches, her back aches, she cannot eat, is constipated, melancholy, and so nervous at times that she feels as if she should fly. She feels just good for nothing and is tired all the time.

How quickly will the weight of her burden of disease be lifted if she will use that greatest boon to woman-kind, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy! How quickly it will relieve her weakness, her nervousness, her pains and aches, her hopeless depression of mind and heart, and how speedily it will restore her strength, renew her vitality, vigor, energy, power, and the pulsing life which means happiness for women! Dr. Greene's Nervura is indeed a blessing for weak, nervous, and despairing women, for its use means to them health, strength, hope, happiness, and life itself!

Mrs. James Roake, a well-known lady living at 145 Washington Street, Peckskill, N. Y., says:

"About five years ago I was taken very sick. After seven months I got over that, but have never been well since. I have suffered terribly with pains in the chest, back, kidneys, and head. There was a disagreeable feeling in the eyes and I would be very sick in the morning. My mind was always gloomy and I felt very low-spirited. I had terrible numb spells, and would have to be rubbed some time before I could get around. Some of these numb spells were so severe my friends thought I would not recover from them.

"I tried doctors and medicines, but got no better. Finally I began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, as my husband had been most miraculously cured by it. After using it a short time there was a most wonderful improvement.

"I continued to steadily gain in every respect until I was cured of all these terrible aches. This wonderful medicine had now cured my husband and myself of the most fearful suffering, but this was not all. I now want to tell about my little girl.

"She has never been well since she was born. No doctors have known just what ailed her. She was out of her mind most of the time and had constant pain in her side. She has had spasms continually, from six to seven a month.

"She is the smallest child for her age that can be found. All medicines could do nothing for her until I gave her Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and then she was cured in a short time. I cannot say enough in praise of this wonderful medicine, it has done so much for me and my family. I heartily advise everybody to take it."

Do not fail to try this wonderful Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. You should especially take it now, for everybody needs it at this season, this grandest of spring medicines. People have more confidence in it than in any and all other remedies, because it is the prescription of a famous regular physician and therefore perfectly adapted to cure, and because Dr. Greene, 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City, can be consulted at any time free of charge in regard to any case, whether you call or write.

Since long before the birth of St. Patrick people have "seen" snakes and crocodiles and myriads of other ugly and terrifying reptiles, and some have seen things outside of the reptilian family which made them shudder and shake at the knees; but it remained for Mr. William Hoyt, of this city, says the New York Sun, to be struck by one of the cars of the Metropolitan Street Railway company and received several injuries about the head and body; and the fact, as alleged, that he is now suffering from a peculiar mental condition described by his physician as "trolley mania" was disclosed in the supreme court, where Hoyt brought suit against the railroad company to recover $25,000 damages. Although, so far as we know, the term "trolley mania" originated in this case, phrases somewhat similar to it have been for some time employed to express a sort of fear or apprehension felt by many residents of New York whenever they attempt to cross streets traversed by trolley cars. It is indisputable that some persons, generally those from the suburbs, travel several blocks out of their way daily in order to avoid crossing a street in which the cars are run, and when necessity compels them to cross such thoroughfares they appear for some minutes to be in a dazed and nervous condition. Hoyt, it is said, fancies that everything in motion, from a wheelbarrow to an automobile, is a trolley car, and for trolley cars he is everlastingly on the watch. Trolley cars overtake him on the sidewalk and follow him home; they roll around the floor of his house like marbles; at night they go up on the roof, turn somersaults and come clanging down through the chimney, and, once on the inside, they play tag around his bed and vie with each other in running down frail and unwary pedestrians. The railroad company, it is said, has employed physicians for the purpose of determining whether trolley mania really is a new and prevalent disease. They will, no doubt, seek to ascertain how many persons, if any, have suffered from hallucinations similar to those described by Mr. Hoyt, and will endeavor to learn the specific and technical cause of the malady, and also the percentage of cases wherein it has shown grave and refractory tendencies. Trolley mania, if it actually exists, is not an affliction to be trifled with. It should receive the immediate and undivided professional attention of those who are best able to deal with it.

Home isn't what it used to be. "Say, Bill, yer mopin' like a sick dog. Wot's eatin' yu?" "Me woman's dead."

"Well, yu didn't do nothin' but cuss an' abuse her when she was alive." "Dat's de trouble—ain't nobody to cuss and 'buse now."—Judge.

POLITICS IN ENGLAND.

Lord Rosebery's Friends Will Try to Secure Control of Liberals Before Next Election.

King Edward's opening of parliament was an occasion of even greater pomp and ceremony than his last appearance in the house of lords, one of the most interesting sessions of recent years was begun.

Before the conclusion of the present session the whole status of the liberal party is likely to be altered and Lord Rosebery's future determined. Present indications point to a split which no middle-road pronouncements can heal, and in which Sir Edward Grey, R. W. H. Asquith, Sir H. H. Fowler, R. W. Perks, R. B. Haldane and other imperialists, together with a few unionists, will flock to Lord Rosebery's standard and initiate an organization with the hope of securing control of all the liberal elements prior to the next general election.

Temporarily this diversion of the opposition will greatly facilitate the government's programme, the chief item of which is a sweeping reform of parliamentary procedure. The hopeless delay and confusion which at present characterizes all legislative efforts at Westminster have reached a point where parliament has become ridiculous in the eyes of the country.

In the drastic recasting of the procedure many methods employed in the United States congress will either be adopted or given a trial in modified form.

The chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, will doubtless get all the additional war supplies he requires, though special measures will be necessary to raise them, and this will give Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's section of the opposition a full opportunity for criticizing the government's policy in South Africa.

Some sanguine prophets also believe the war will be sufficiently near its end to enable the government to put before the nation, during the session, detailed plans for the settlement of South Africa. This belief, however, does not appear to be shared by the war office.

IMPROVING A BARN.

Roof Window That Gives a Chance to Unload Hay Into the Loft from the Outside.

There are thousands of barns like the original of that shown in the cut scattered throughout the country, the roof space in which is but little, if at all, utilized, largely for the reason that the roof space is inaccessible. A barn was recently seen by the writer in which this difficulty was solved by the insertion of a roof window similar to that shown in the cut. This gives a chance to unload hay into the loft from the outside, either by hand or by a hay fork, and whereas the loft before was dark and poorly ventilated, it is now light and airy. The style of window that is shown is much better than the pitched roof dormer window that is sometimes put upon roofs.

THE IMPROVED BARN.

The style shown admits of having a large square window in front—especially useful if a hay fork is to be used.

The advantage of this changing a barn is that the loft can be floored over and the hay and straw stored in the second story, utilizing the space clear to the ridge pole. This leaves the first floor clear for a silo and quarters for the stock, giving more room for the latter, and affording a warmer barn, since many buildings are kept cold almost wholly because of the big empty space in the top—heated air always rising because lighter than cold air. With a window in each end of the barn above, and the new window in front, the loft will be as light as the first floor, while in summer this means of ventilation, with the loft floor to separate the upper part of the barn from the lower, will cause the lower part of the barn, where the stock is confined at night, to be much cooler than it otherwise could be.—N. Y. Tribune.

THEY NEVER COMPLAIN.

But That is No Sign That Horses Do Not Feel the Neglect to Which They Are Subjected.

Horses are the most abused of animals; not only because they happen to be the most used and the most useful, but also, and perhaps even more, because nature, for some mysterious reason, has denied them the power of audibly expressing pain, such as is possessed by the cat or the dog. Under extraordinary circumstances, says The Road, they have indeed been known to overcome the impediment. The extremity of terror, as when they have been attacked by savage beasts or the sudden shock of agonizing pain, as when they have been horribly wounded on the battlefield, has sometimes extorted from them a piercing, dolorous, almost human scream, which nobody who has heard it can easily forget. Most horses which die in pain expire in silence, or utter merely a moan or whine.

The galled jade may wince, but utters no cry. The cart horses of our busy cities make no audible complaint under the lash of the whip, the strain of an overload, or the stupid jerking of the reins by the ignorant drivers. It cannot be that they lack the will, but they have been denied the power. A few exceptional instances no more affect the general truth of this rule than the case of Balaam's ass provides a proof that all asses (of the four legged variety, be it understood), possess the power of speech. Practically their dumbness is absolute.

Feeding Corn to Hogs.

It is hard to understand why hog growers of the west are rushing hogs to market half finished. The price of hogs is about $6.40 to $6.50 per 100 live weight, and that of corn 55 cents a bushel. Experience has shown that a bushel of corn makes about 11 pounds of gain, live weight, when fed to hogs. That would make the corn worth about 70 cents a bushel when so fed. It doesn't cost the difference between 55 cents and 71½ cents a bushel to market corn fed hogs, by a good deal. Otherwise also it is a mistake to rush hogs to market half finished, as it breaks down the market, both because of quality and quantity.—Indiana Farmer.

Make the Collar Fit Well.

A sweat pad is undesirable if a well-fitting collar can be secured, says Farm and Fireside. It is warm and it springs the collar out of shape. A hard, smooth leather surface is probably as good as anything for the shoulders. The fitting is best done by soaking the collar and then pounding any place or places that unevenness of the shoulder may demand. The shape of the hames has much to do with the fitting of the collar.

Exercise the Brood Mare.

The brood mare should have regular exercise, but it should never be carried to the point of fatigue.

has been said by the mothers of many other boys and girls, regarding the wonderful curative and strengthening qualities of

Dr. Miles' Nervine

HASTING, NEB.
"Our little boy, Harry, had spasms for 3 years and we feared the disease would affect his mind. Though we doctored continually he grew worse and had ten spasms in one week. Our attention was directed to Dr. Miles' Nervine and we began its use. When he had taken the fourth bottle the spasms disappeared and he has not had one for five years. His health now is perfect."
