RAREST OF MONKEYS.

As Far as the Face is Concerned, He Resembles Man More Than Any Other Animal.

The zoological garden of Berlin just now boasts of possessing a rare monkey, the only animal of the kind in captivity in Europe. It is known as the silk ape of Kilmanscharo, C. G. Schillings, the leader of the recent German East Africa expedition. The Kilmanscharo silk monkey, as far as the face is concerned, resembles a human being more than any other of the animal species. Eyes, face, nose and mouth betray a remarkably intelligent expression. The eyes have not the staring, insame look of the beast, but regard one with contemplative calm. The most beautiful feature of the animal is its hair. The main fur is of a darkish brown, as soft as seal skin, but the face is surrounded with a white silk beard and he has a long gray silk mane and a large and bushy white silk tail.

The specimen in the Berlin zoological garden exhibits a morose, melancholy temperament whenever he is left in his cage without a monkey for a companion. This is a difficult task for the animal keeper, as most monkeys are malicious and pugnacious and the Kilmanscharo silk monkey is of a sweet, affectionate temperament. One companion was found which died a few weeks ago and now the Berlin zoo authorities are searching high and low for one to take its place.

TAILORS USE CAMERA.

Perfectly Fitting Clothes Assured by Photographic Measuring System Recently Invented.

You can be measured for a suit of clothes by photography now, if you care to have it done in that way. A Wisconsin man patented the process, which promises to be a boon to tailors, relieving them of much labor, and at the same time securing a degree of accuracy in measurements that is quite out of the question when the ordinary method is employed.

All you have to do is to stand close behind a screen of a peculiar kind, while the tailor puts his own head under a black cloth and focuses a camera upon you. The screen, which, mind you, is between yourself and the camera, is simply a wooden frame with wires strung tightly across it, at equal distances and parallel, so as to form a series of squares.

Necessarily, the resulting photograph is cut up by thin black lines into a network of squares, and your measurements are indicated by the number of squares and portions of squares occupied by your body in the picture. With half a dozen such photographs taken of yourself, in different attitudes, it is a simple problem in mathematics to calculate your dimensions all ways.

To make sure that such salient points as the armpits are correctly indicated in the photograph, the inventor has devised a sort of harness that holds the clothing close to the body—thus avoiding the necessity of stripping.

It may be that before long this ingenious plan will be applied to the measuring of women for tailor-made suits and other garments. Thus, says the New York Herald, one of the difficulties of the dressmaking business will be largely done away with, and there will be fewer wrinkles in the brows of properly gowned maids and matrons.

A Haec Suspicion.

Guest (in cheap restaurant)—That's queer. I ordered three dishes, and you are out of all. Waiter—It's very late, sah. Guest (suspiciously)—Not saving 'em for yourself, eh? Waiter (haughtily)—I don't eat 'em, sah!—N. Y. Weekly.

LIVELY CAMPAIGNING

Canvass For Governorship Keeps Party Workers Active.

COUNTIES GETTING INTO LINE

Three Aspirants Are Now in the Field For Second Place on the Ticket and Each of Them is Quite Hopeful.

(Special Correspondence.) Philadelphia, May 20.—These are busy times with the active Republican workers throughout the state.

Primary elections are being held for the selection of delegates to the Republican state convention and a most aggressive canvass for the nominations to be made at Harrisburg on June 11th next is attracting widespread attention.

The three leading candidates for the governorship, Attorney General John P. Elkin, former Lieutenant Governor L. A. Watres and Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker, each has a host of friends at work and most strenuous campaigning is being resorted to in the struggle for delegates.

Up to date it is "any man's race," but developments within the next ten days may alter the conditions and give an opportunity to make a fairly reliable prediction as to the probable winner.

ELKIN PUSHING AHEAD.

Mr. Elkin's friends have reason to be pleased with the headway he has made during the last week. In a contest before the people with the name of each candidate, Elkin and Watres, printed on the ballot, he defeated Mr. Watres in the Northumberland county primaries by an overwhelming majority. The Elkin men were on the aggressive from the outset and planned their campaign carefully and thoroughly. Mr. Elkin visited the county and made an address to the voters. When it became manifest that the Elkin men were going to win Mr. Watres concluded not to make a speech in that county, although he may accept invitations to go elsewhere before all the delegate elections shall be held.

There was a hotly contested struggle in Schuylkill county in which Mr. Elkin's friends claim to have won five out of the eight delegates. Their opponents will not concede more than four to Elkin. In Dauphin county the Elkinites will get six of the seven delegates. They also got three in Armstrong and one in Forest.

The return judges in Mercer county held a meeting during the week and adopted resolutions instructing the three delegates to the state convention from that county to vote for Mr. Elkin. The county convention had previously simply endorsed Mr. Elkin's candidacy, without "instructing" the delegates.

WORKING FOR PENNYPACKER.

Members of the bar and other admirers of Judge Pennypacker have taken hold of his campaign in Philadelphia and are flooding the state with literature sounding his praises and urging his nomination for governor. A public meeting of leading citizens of the Quaker City is booked for this week and strong resolutions commending his candidacy have been prepared and will no doubt be adopted. Judge Pennypacker is generally respected by his fellow citizens of Philadelphia, regardless of their political affiliations. He is looked upon as a most excellent judge and a brainy man. He has certainly reason to feel proud of the endorsements he has received from representative and influential citizens of his home county. A committee, which has charge of the campaign in his behalf, will canvass every county in the state in his interest before the state convention shall be held.

Mr. Watres bagged another delegate last week, when the county committee of Monroe county met and elected one of his supporters as state delegate. Friends of Elkin in Monroe attempted to have a resolution adopted instructing this delegate to vote for the Indiana county candidate, but the resolution was defeated. In Crawford county the supporters of Dr. Flood, who aspires to the lieutenant governorship, won the delegates to the state convention without opposition. The county committee had previously met and adopted resolutions giving Dr. Flood the privilege of naming his own candidates for state delegates. Dr. Flood will make a canvass among the delegates from the western counties with a view to having their united support in his candidacy for second place on the ticket. He will be confronted by the admirers of former Senator William M. Brown, of Lawrence, who is also after the backing of the western delegates for the lieutenant governorship.

While these two aspirants for Lieutenant Governor Gobin's shoes are working the west, a new candidate has been trotted out in the east. Mayor Lewis, of Allentown, with the Lehigh delegation at his back, now wants to be lieutenant governor. His home county newspapers have begun to boom him and some of his admirers have made a pilgrimage to Harrisburg to confer with party leaders there in his interest.

There will be strong delegations of citizens from different parts of Lehigh county, as well as Flood shouters from Crawford, and Brown boomers from Lawrence, to work up interest in the lieutenant governorship fight in the convention throngs at Harrisburg.

Major Brown, of Erie, who aspires to the office of secretary of internal affairs, starts out with his home county delegation, ready for him and he has a number of other delegations committed to him. General Schall was endorsed for this honor by the Montgomery delegation, which also went on record in favor of Judge Pennypacker for governor. It is apparently too soon to venture a prediction as to the likely winner for this office.

Senator Quay, who was elected a delegate to the state convention in Beaver county last week, has not yet publicly indicated his favorite for the governorship.

CORPORATIONS PAY

Popular Policy of Taxation Followed in Pennsylvania.

MANY MILLIONS ARE COLLECTED

Senator Penrose Praised by Farmers and Attorney General Elkin Gives an Opinion Against the Beef Trust.

(Special Correspondence.)

Harrisburg, May 20.—The annual report of the auditor general of Pennsylvania, advance copies of which have just been issued, shows that the state finances are in excellent condition and that the Republican organization of the state has occasion to be proud of the record of officials who are charged with the responsibility of collecting its taxes and guarding its funds.

The liberal appropriations made to the public schools and to the hospitals and charitable institutions of the commonwealth have for years been a source of strength to the Republican party, for the people know that money thus expended reaches the masses, benefits the poor, and entitles those responsible for a policy which directs these expenditures to full credit for honesty of purpose and a broad public spirit.

LIBERAL APPROPRIATIONS MADE

The itemized statements of expenditures show that the enormous sum of $13,643,549.72 was expended during the year 1901 for the common schools, for hospitals and asylums for the insane, for soldiers' orphans' schools, for the protection of property and the public peace in the maintenance of the National Guard, for the purchase of lands for the development of the forests of the state, and for other kindred purposes. The general expenses of the state government are placed at $2,825,849.32. The balance in the treasury November 30 last was: General fund, $2,719,956.12, and in the sinking fund, $4,988,066.06.

CORPORATIONS PAY BIG TAXES.

While the bulk of the monies collected by the state, as indicated above, goes directly to the people, it is noteworthy that under the policy adopted by the Republican leaders of the state, most of the taxes collected come from the corporations.

The auditor general's report shows that of the total revenues of the state, amounting to $17,727,432.46, more than half was collected from corporations. There were collected from national banks, $539,021.08; from trust companies, $509,956.08; from foreign insurance companies, $803,446.24, and from other corporations, $81,714,849.15. There was also collected from licenses for the sale of oleomargarine and renovated butter and other licenses and from miscellaneous sources $765,229.20. The state collected "from or through counties" $6,714,770.11, or nearly seven millions less than the amount directly spent in the several counties for schools, charitable and other purposes, for the direct benefit of the people.

MORE PRAISE FOR PENROSE.

Senator Penrose continues to receive congratulatory messages from farmers' organizations for his work in helping to pass the Henry oleomargarine bill. Among the latest of these is from the West Grove Farmers' Clubs, of Chester county. These resolutions read:

Whereas, We learn with pleasure that at a recent meeting of the West Grove Farmers' Club a vote of thanks was unanimously extended our junior senator, Hon. Boies Penrose, for his active efforts in securing the successful passage of the Groat Anti-Oleo Bill; be it therefore Resolved, That we commend the action of this club as an evidence of its fairmindedness and honest desire to give Mr. Penrose the credit due his faithful effort in furthering their interests.

AFTER THE BEEF TRUST.

Attorney General Elkin is after the beef trust. He has given an opinion to Dairy and Food Commissioner Cope in which he states that it is the duty of the commissioner under the pure food act of 1895 to enforce the law prohibiting the sale of meats in Pennsylvania, adulterated or preserved with preservatives.

The opinion was asked for by the Philadelphia Live Stock Association, and grew out of Commissioner Cope's action in issuing an order allowing persons engaged in the sale of meat, in which preservatives are used, until August 1 to withdraw their products from the Pennsylvania market.

General Elkin advises Commissioner Cope that it is his duty if he finds preserved meats or any other food products in this state containing substances which depreciate or injuriously affect the "quality, strength or purity of the same," or which contains "diseased, decomposed, putrid, infected or tainted" substances, to see that the law is enforced against the persons making the sale of the same.

Vast Cave in Montana.

Montana's latest natural wonder is a vast cave, which has just been discovered about 50 miles east of Butte. A large river with a cataract of about 100 feet was explored for a distance of several miles without finding its source or outlet. A few articles of stone and copper utensils and some bones were picked up in one of the large apartments explored.
