

As Well as Men
Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Every trouble preys upon the mind, disease and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If a child suffers from kidney trouble, it is best to seek the best physician. If the child is still young, he should be able to benefit from the treatment. It is yet difficult to determine the cause of kidney trouble, and the first would be towards the treatment of important organs. This unpleasant condition is due to a diseased condition of the heart and bladder and not to a habit as people suppose.

Men as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and need the same great remedy. And the immediate effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It is sold in fifty-cent bottles by mail. Home of Swamp Root. About it, including many of the ends of testimonial letters received from cured. In writing Dr. Klimmer, Binghamton, N. every few inches to hold the bottom of the wire tightly to the ground. If the netting is used as division fences between yards, and there are male birds in the different yards, it will be necessary to have a number of boards at the bottom to keep them from fighting each other.

All this can be very easily obviated, however, by building a lath fence, such as is represented in the accompanying illustrations; and as it is not at all difficult of construction and will give a good appearance to any poultry house, especially when a division fence is desired between two yards to keep cockerels from fighting.—Fred O. Sibley, in Ohio Farmer.

TO CURE EGG-EATING.

Positive Reformation Has Followed the Method Here Outlined by an Eastern Farmer.

Almost every one has had trouble with hens eating eggs. Any one who has learned much from it will be glad to learn any way to prevent or cure it. A poultryman of experience says:

There is nothing more provoking and more unprofitable than a flock of hens which have acquired the habit of eating their eggs. This is a habit more easily prevented than cured. Give the hens plenty of exercise with a variety of food. Gather the eggs frequently, provide sufficient resting places and keep one or more porcelain eggs upon the floor of the house. Dark nests are advisable, and a meat diet is excellent.

To cure the habit provide dark nests and add meat to the food. Remove the end from several eggs and pour out the contents. Make a mixture of flour, ground mustard and red pepper, adding a little water to hold the material together. Fill the shells and place upon the floor of the henhouse. The hens will make a wild scramble for these prepared eggs, will gobble down some of their contents, and will soon be gasping with open beaks. Follow up this treatment until the hens refuse to touch an egg. It seems and perhaps is somewhat severe, but no permanent ill effects will follow. The hens will soon learn that eggs are not so palatable as they regarded them, and will desist from the bad habit. Positive cures have followed this method.

The Hog on American Soil.

In an account of the introduction of swine into America it is stated that they were brought by Columbus to Hispaniola in 1493, and to Florida in 1538 by De Soto; they were brought to Nova Scotia and Newfoundland in 1533 by the French, and into Canada in 1608. In 1609 they were brought into Virginia by English adventurers, and 18 years afterwards it is recorded that their numbers had so increased that the settlement at Jamestown had to be surrounded with palisades to keep them from attacking the Indians.
