Dear Sir:
I have examined your text book, entitled "Theory and Practice of Advertising" and find it very suggestive. It is the best of the kind I have seen. It cannot fail to be helpful to the beginner, and even to the experienced in the difficult art of advertising it conveys lessons which will be valuable. I am glad I became acquainted with it and am sure it will be gratefully received by all who wish to become more skillful in advertising.
Very truly yours,
J. WM. KNAPPENBERGER, President.
Look to Registrations.
All interested persons should note that time for registering voters for the fall elections expires on Wednesday, September 3rd. In applying for registration assessment of a tax should also be insisted on, especially by the young men between the ages of twenty-two and twenty-three. First voters that is young men, between twenty-one and twenty-two, voting on age are not required to pay tax, but ought to be registered. In fact every voter should see that he is registered before the evening of September 3rd. The last day for paying taxes is Friday, October 3rd.

Who Died First.
Chas. Fair and wife were killed last Thursday in an automobile accident in Paris. An interesting will case, in all probability, will be the result. Mr. Fair, during his lifetime after his marriage, gave large sums of money to his wife. She thus came to have quite a little fortune of her own. Her near relatives all live in the towns of Orange and Plainfield, New Jersey. They were in moderate means, but she established two brothers in business, providing grandly for her mother, and looked after others of her relatives who were not far removed from being in destitute circumstances. All the money and property which Mrs. Fair has in her own name she has by will bequeathed to these relatives. She has about $300,000 thus to make comfortable those who are fortunately related to her.
This is all very clear in the eyes of the law and there will be no litigation concerning Mrs. Fair's own money, but an interesting question arises as to who died before the other in the automobile accident, Mr. or Mrs. Fair. If it can be established that the husband preceded the wife in his departure from life, then Mrs. Fair became the sole heir, and she was named as his executrix. Just then, perhaps it may have been for only a minute or two, her wealth was increased from a few hundred thousand dollars to several million dollars, estimated from five to ten million dollars. Being the possessor of this great fortune might not have been able to quiet the pangs of death, or to have given any solace to her in the dying hour, but it means or does not mean great wealth to her relations in those New Jersey towns, whether she or her husband died just a few minutes before the other.
Letter to S. B. Simonton.
MIDDLEBURGH, PENN'A.
Dear Sir: You sell a good many things by the gallon. Being a decent man, you give full measure.
You know what we mean: you know that short weight and short measure are common among—well, we hope there are no short measures and weights in your town.
There are, though. Ribbons and laces and trimmings, sold by the "dozen," measure nine or ten yards. There is no complaint, because "they all do it." You have the same plague in your goods—nearly everything, canned or bottled, cheats in the quantity. Almost nobody gives full weight in a factory-package!
We are one of the almost nobodies. We sell paint, by the gallon, to paint your house; and our gallon is just the same size as yours that you measure vinegar with—231 cubic inches.
Good paint too—Devoe lead and zinc—wears twice as long as old-fashion painter's paint—lead and oil.
You own a house. That's why we are writing to you.
Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & Co.

Subscription Laws.
Many readers have from time to time requested information concerning newspaper subscription laws. Seven have been compiled from decisions of the United States court, and embody points that both many newspaper publishers. The seven are:
1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals the publisher may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the post-office to which they are directed they are responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former address, they are held responsible.
5. The courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office or removing and having them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
6. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it and the subscriber be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrearages, is sent to the publisher.
7. The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can arrest any one for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under the law the man who allows his subscription to run along for some time unpaid and then orders it discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused" and have a postal card sent notifying the publishers, leaves himself liable to arrest and fine, the same as for theft.
It will be seen that many disputed points are disposed of by these decisions, which are certainly only just. If a subscriber doesn't want to renew his subscription let him notify the publisher. The second decision given here will be a surprise to some publishers, who believe they must stop a delinquent subscriber's paper if ordered to. The delinquent must pay up if he desires to discontinue his subscription. Otherwise he is held responsible for as long as the paper is being sent to him, whether he takes it from the postoffice or not.—Newspaperdom.
A Good Start.
Last week a shipment of 150 copies of "Theory and Practice of Advertising" was made from this office to the American Business College, Allentown, Pa. The school will start a class of advertising September first, requiring every student of the school to take up the course. They have enrolled about 125 hold-over students and expect 25 new ones.
The school has an energetic manager in Prof. Dorney, the Principal, and he has thoroughly conceived the importance the subject of advertising has attained.
She Cleaned Up Her Desk.
Twenty years ago young Hiram Van Puntk wrote an impassioned letter to Miss Wilhelmina Deanhowls, a rising young woman, who wrote for the magazines, in which letter he avowed his love for her and offered his hand in marriage.
He received no reply.
A few days ago, however, Mr. Van Puntk, now an elderly man, with a wife and six children, was embarrassed at receiving the following letter:
CHELSEA, Aug. 19, 1902.
Mr. Hiram Van Puntk,
Dear Sir:—Replying to your note of January 11, 1882, which I accidentally mislaid at the time, as I was very busy, I have much pleasure in accepting your proposal of marriage.
Yours sincerely,
WILHELMINA DEANHOWLS.
She had just cleaned up her desk.
Fewer Gallons: Wears Longer.
