NEW JUSTICE NAMED

Oliver Wendell Holmes to Succeed Horace Gray.

mous Cambridge Author an Associate Member of United States Supreme Court.

The president has accepted the resignation of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Horace Gray, which has been in his hands for over a month. At the same time the president appointed Oliver Wendell Holmes, chief justice of the supreme court of Massachusetts, to the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Justice Gray.

Mr. Justice Gray had a stroke of paralysis last January. Since then he has had another stroke. He is a man of great size, with a natural tendency to apoplexy. He has not been on the bench since he was first stricken, and his resignation has been expected by all his friends for several months, though it has not been known to any except those who were closest to him and the president that the request for the appointment of his successor had already been made. Justice Gray had been on the supreme court bench longer than any other man now there except Justice Harlan.

The new justice, Mr. Holmes, was not himself an intimate friend of the president, but he was high in the estimation of the circle of Massachusetts politicians and statesmen with whom the president had been most identified. Senator Lodge and those who move with him in public affairs in and about Boston have always been known to regard Mr. Holmes as the leading jurist of his generation.

Mr. Justice Gray retired on his full salary, $10,000. Under the law he might have retired at any time during the last two years, as he is 74 years of age. There are three other men on the supreme bench whose privilege it is to retire voluntarily on full pay. They are Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan and Shiras. The patriotism

One of the most prominent lawyers practicing before the supreme court said not long ago that while the inevitable retirement of Mr. Justice Gray was to be deplored and regretted, it was a compensating advantage that new blood would be brought into the court. Horace Gray was appointed associate justice of the Supreme court by President Arthur, December 20, 1881, to succeed Justice Clifford. He was born in Boston, Mass., March 24, 1828, his grandfather, William Gray, being one of the most prosperous shipowners of his day, having had 60 or more ships at sea at one time. His uncle, Francis Calley Gray, gave largely to Harvard college, Gray hall being named after him. His father, Horace Gray, was one of the most substantial business men of Boston. Horace Gray was educated in Boston and at Harvard, and was admitted to the bar in 1851. In 1857 he formed a partnership with Judge Hoar. In August, 1864, he was appointed associate justice of the Massachusetts supreme court, and in September, 1873, became the chief justice. His decisions cover a wide range of subjects and form the basis of valuable original references in the Lord hath given you the city.

17. And the city shall be accurated, even it, and all that are herein, to the Lord: only Rahab the harlot shall live, she and all that are with her in the house, because she hid the messengers that we sent. 18. And ye, in any wise keep yourselves from the accursed thing, lest ye make yourselves accursed, when ye take of the accursed thing, and make the camp of Israel a curse, and trouble it. 19. But all the silver, and gold, and vessels of brass and iron, are consecrated unto the Lord: they shall come into the treasury of the Lo.d.

20. So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets: and it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, and the wall fell down flat, so that the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the city.

Press. NOTES AND COMMENTS.

An Unmilitary Delay.-When the inhabitants of Canaan heard of the time of unrest. It-" miraculous crossing of the Jordan, "their heart melted, neither was there spirit in them any more, because of the children of Israel" (5:1). It is a well-known military principle that the best of all times to strike an enemy is when he is paralyzed with fear. According to this, Joshua should have marched pet? without delay against Jericho. But at God's command he halted at Gilgal, that the Israelites might renew their covenant with Jehovah through the rite of circumcision, and that they might celebrate the passover. Our lesson shows that nothing was lost by this delay.

Keeping the Passover.-The inhabitants of Canaan were paralyzed with fear at the approach of the Hebrews, and at the marvelous way in which all obstacles vanished before them. There was absolutely no danger of attack, and so Joshua rested for a time at Gilgal, which was his headquarters throughout the conquest. During this time the rite of circumcision, which had been discontinued during the years of wandering, was reinstituted, and the passover anniversary of the flight from Egypt was observed for the first time in the land of promise. Notice that the miraculous supply of food was not continued after it became possible to obtain food in any other way. It was not God's purpose to encourage laziness.

Divine Instructions,-In seeing the "prince of the host of Jehovah." Joshua had his vision as Moses had great responsibility that had been laid upon Joshua he needed a special, personal assurance of Jehovah's actual leadership. He received it

The City Taken .- The order of march was (1) a company of armed men, (2) the seven priests with rams' horns, (3) the ark, (4) the rest of the host-the "rearward." The historian tells us that the siege of Jericho was very effective (6:1), and that its final fall was wrought by the hand of God alone, man's part being simply the movements described in the text. The account purposes to teach at least these four things: (1) Obedience. The Hebrews were armed men. They were "strong and of good courage." They must have been tempted to attack the city in the usual way, but they obeyed, exercising great self-control, for they were allowed to make no demonstration against the city except the solemn one divinely ordered. The fall of the city was the reward of obedience. (2) Faith. They were exhorted to be strong, and then at once commanded not to use that strength. They needed the strength, but they also needed to learn not to rely on it. Here the historian saw a lesson of trust in God. "By faith the walls of Jericho fell down." (3) Israel was God's chosen people. We are made to see the conquest from two points of view. First, God was taking the land of Canan for his people, Israel, and second, God was using which to inflict deserved punishment on a race whose existence, for the best interests of mankind at large, could no longer be tolerated. (4)

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

The love of God is the light of man. God's orders are not to be criticised, but are to be carried out. If the church triumphs, it will be

I have experienced a wonderful result in using Ripans Tabules I was seriously affected with indigestion and heartburn. A friend suggested trying Ripans, and I was surprised at the improvement. On making application a few years ago for policy of insurance I was refused on account of a weak heart, but the same company passed me recently, and I gave Ripans Tabules credit for the health I am enjoying. I can certainly recommend them to any one suffering with palpitation of the heart or indigestion.
