Mr. MAHON'S RECORD.

The re-election of Hon. Thaddeus M. Mahon, of which there can be no doubt, will be a logical outcome and recognition of his faithful and efficient service in the halls of congress. Coming up from the people, he is a man of the people with an established professional ability and probity commanding the respect of all. In sympathy with all classes, generous to the poor, accessible to all who need his help, thoroughly devoted to the interests of his constituents, he deserves the support of people he so ably represents.

From the start, as in the legislature thirty years ago, Mr. Mahon has held a commanding position on the floor of congress and as a member of the various committees to which he has been assigned. Identified with the agricultural, industrial and commercial life of his district, he is in touch with its needs and conditions, and in a position to have them recognized. The recognized friend and advocate of the veteran, no one has labored more effectually in the interest of his comrades of the civil war, or of the soldiers of the Spanish-American war.

Mr. Mahon's famous speech on Pensions gave him prominence in Grand Army circles everywhere. It was one of twelve, and the only one on pensions, that was selected by the Republican Congressional Committee for general circulation by the National Committee in the Presidential campaign of 1896. He has voted for every public and private pension bill. In his own Congressional district he had over 1800 claims of pensioners called up and advanced. Many pensioners who were stricken from the list during the Cleveland administration he has had restored.

Upon all legislation relating to the public welfare Mr. Mahon's vote and championship have been on the right side in the interest of the people. When others wavered he stood by McKinley and his war measures. He has voted for all tariff legislation and to repeal the war taxes. He has voted for all legislation in the interest of labor, the farmer, the manufacturer and workingman, and in debate in their behalf has frequently been heard from forcibly and eloquently contending for measures promotive of their advancement.

Mr. Mahon's service on some of the important committees of the house and as chairman of War Claims committee is marked by the same vigilance which has attended his entire career as Congressman. It has given him a standing with colleagues which has had much to do with the shaping of wise legislation. No man in the Pennsylvania delegation wields a more salutary influence. His knowledge of the departments and popularity with their heads have made his service of value to his state and constituents. The new member gladly avails himself of the assistance of the member of 18th (now 17th) district in his tour of the departments. Some one has said and he evidently knew whereof he spoke. "To send a man to congress for a single term, or maybe two, and expect him to benefit his constituents, or do credit for himself, is very much like sending a green boy to school during a single winter, and then expect him to display abilities that will qualify him to take place of the head of a great university."

Marked characteristics of Mr. Mahon's career, from the avail to the halls of Congress, have been a will and purpose to go straight at things. In much of the work undertaken by him, he accomplishes promptly that which would baffle other men. As has been said of our member "There is a rugged honesty about Mahon that carries him the respect of his strongest enemies. He is a fair fighter, as his record in many a skirmish in the house shows, but his blows are not little love taps. When a youth he learned the trade of blacksmith, and his style of argument is yet largely that of the sledgehammers. Talbert, of South Carolina, the great objector to pension legislation, has discovered how hard he can hit.

As with other men in public life, Mr. Mahon has had a fair share of enemies and detractors, but there is the unanswerable fact to all of duty well and faithfully performed. His nominations for Congress have come to him with unanimity, and his election in every instance by unequalled majorities. His public and private life are irreproachable, and he has been faithful to every trust confided to him.

As was shown in recent issues of the "Opinion" the Republican newspapers, reflecting the sentiments of the masses in the Seventeenth district, are a unit for Mr. Mahon's return to Congress. The voters, to whom his standing and industry as a member of Congress are so well known, should see to it that his election is assured by a rousing majority—Chambersburg Opinion.
