An impressive lesson is taught under the guise of a homely anecdote by A Parable from the Youth's Companion: When John Daiton came back from the asylum where he had gone to place his wife, his neighbor, Perry, met him at the station and went home with him, that he might Lot enter the empty house alone. The for a long time. "There's something old man was stunned and dazed. "I don't know what ailed Mary," he said, dully. "You see how clean and snug this house is? She always kept things hygienic value. "Fear," says this med-10. Up before dawn, milking and bak-

She hadn't complained of sickness for 40 years. Then, all at once, she began talking of an iron band around her jaws and queer pains in her head." "She seldom went into town, did she?" asked Perry. "Never, hardly. I'm not much of a hand for gadding about to no purpose. She used to want to go in to church Sundays, but I didn't just like to hitch up when there was no work to do. But I wish now I'd done that for Mary." "She didn't visit much with the neighbors, either, did she?" asked Perry. "No. That was my doing, too. When the day's work is done, I want to put on my slippers and rest, and then to bed, and not go skirmishing about or having a lot of company in." He was silent awhile. "I don't know what ailed Mary," he spend a few days with her parents said again. "She would sit looking at hour, and then cry and cry, yet always saying she had no trouble. And she got weaker every day, and then her mind went altogether. She didn't know me, nor even her own name." "She will be cured in that sanitarium," said Perry, cheerfully, "and come home well in the spring." He watched then said: "Do you know, Dalton, some years ago my wife and daughter got peevish and irritable. I thought the steady work and loneliness were telling on them. So I got that parlor organ, and paid for a year's lessons for Susy. We had music and singing every evening, and the young folks would gather in with their reading clubs. Then I took two or three papers; my wife is a main hand for guessing the riddles. And once a year week." "Yes." said Dalton, dryly. James W. Steely was a visitor "You spent a lot of money, I've heard." It's bringing me in good interest. They sat in silence awhile. Then Perry put his hand on the old man's knee, Mr. Lash's two boys of Lewis - "When she comes back, if she ever does tatoes. You plant the best kind in good ground, and they yield splendid crops for a year or two. Then they begin to dwindle and rot." "Of course the ground runs out. They need new soil."

Courage, according to health, has a ent-if I ever have the chance."

"Yes. You plant them in a different

ing and washing. Same thing done at | real paper, "weakers the heart action, the same hour year in and year out. induces congestion, invites indigestion, produces poison through decomposing foods, and is thus the mother of auto-poisoning, which either directly causes or greatly aids in the production of quite 90 per cent, of all our diseases." It looks as if there were good physiological reasons for the ability of brave men to go unscathed through pest hospitals as Napoleon did, and as physicians are doing all the time. It is well to keep in mind, in considering this matter, that there is a wide difference between courage and foolhardiness.

Before a smoke-consuming plant was put in operation the New York post office had a six-horse-power steam plant that consumed 24 tons of hard coal in a day. The present 12horse-power plant consumes only 18 tons of soft coal in a day, and the coal is about two dollars a ton cheaper. Of course if this building can burn soft coal, create no nuisance, and save money, other buildings can do the same. But at the bottom of many other troubles besides the smoke nuisance is the apparent inability of some people to grasp the fact that it pays to be decent.

Twenty years ago the term "midshipman," to designate the young man at the naval academy was abandoned, and the meaningless "naval cadet" was substituted for it. Now, by the naval appropriation act passed just before adjournment, the old form is restored. Every lover of Cooper and Capt. Marryat and Clark Russell and other romancers of the sea will be glad to welcome back the good old title of midshipman.

The most expensive belt of the season is lowa's rain belt, which has cost the state $6,000,000. The Milwaukee Sentinel is responsible for this.

Another woman dead from headache powders, reports the Indianapolis News. These seem to be almost as deadly as the gun that is not loaded.

The advantage of fasting for intellectual work is being exemplified Food Versus the by a professor of the West Virginia Intellect. university, who

Dalton did not speak quarter. It is the professor's idea that the less food there is in the in it," he said, finally. "I'll do differstomach the more blood can be drawn to the brain and that its action should be superior in every way to that of a man who is clogged with one professor's lectures daily becoming more brilliant while his weight decreases. One can imagine that the farther he gets away from a beefsteak the nearer he gets to infinite wisdom, until, when he arrives at the thirtieth day of his fast, the thinking world will be simply dazzled by the intellectual outburst. If this is demonstrated, all we need to do to produce a "Thanatopsis" or a "Gray's Elegy" is to take a commonplace poet and place him in a cell for thirty days on a diet of filtered water. In this connection the extraordinary fruitfulness of Mark Twain's mind which has been noticeable of late years may be attributed to the fact, which he himself, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, made known while on his visit to Missouri, that he doesn't permit himself but one meal a day. It may be proven before long that literary men eat too much. When they limit their daily provender to one cracker and a prune we shall see a return to the golden age of literature.

Don't fidget. That means power going to waste. The one who paces Fidgety People Cut a room restlessly, or drums his fing-

Little Figure. ers, or twirls his hat, is using strength aimlessly. None of us have any surplus. If we are making our lives count as we should, we have ways of utilizing every ounce of energy, physical or mental. Fidgety people never inspire confidence. Strength should be controlled. In an emergency we turn instinctively to one who is steady, composed, deliberate. The friend who is fidgety and fussy, says Young People, may have as good brains and. as warm a heart as the other, but somehow it never occurs to us to lean on him in our need. Don't fidget. Practice sitting quietly in your chair without either twirling your fingers or swinging your feet. Learn to wait without pacing the room like a captured animal in a cage. The harder it seems, the more necessary is the lesson.

If one believed all that is said of public men, he would conclude that government was never so corrupt as it is now; but if one looks back for a century or so he will discover that the standard of public morals is higher to-day than ever before. Sir Robert Walpole thought that every man had his price, because he could buy all the votes he needed to carry bills through parliament. Indeed, in the eighteenth century votes in parliament were openly bought and sold. All that is changed. Now, neither a member of parliament nor a congressman would be allowed to retain his seat after it was proved that he had taken a bribe.

The art of retracting without taking anything back-if the bull may be allowed-seems to be understood in Japan. A young orator at a political meeting called a public official a thief. A policeman on duty gravely rose and addressed a remark in a low tone to the speaker, who thereupon said: "The chief of police requests me to retract the words which I have just spoken. Although the word of a sage should never reenter, let us make a concession; let us take back the word and keep the idea." Great applause and cries of "Bravo!" greeted the orator's escape from his dilemma.

Another honest man has been found. This time he is an employe of one of Chicago's elevated roads. He found a pocketbook containing over $40,000 in money and securities. The owner proved to be a Chicago woman, whose profound generosity was excited to such an extent that she rewarded the finder with the magnificent sum of ten cents. The important food. It will be interesting to watch | question is: What will he do with the soney. comps he will invest it in steel trust stock or July corn, or possibly turn philanthropist and build a home for wealthy women who cannot afford to be generous.
