fome Timely Hints About the Use of Bandages After the Horse Has Done Hard Work.

Bandages applied loosely over a blood vessels and absorbents in and ing and stiffness, says the Horse Breeder. If allowed to remain on longer they have the opposite effect from what is desired. After the bandages have been on for one hour, they should be removed and each leg briskly hand-rubbed for five minutes. This will do more good, by exciting the absorbents to act, than four hours' pressure on bandages, which will do more harm than good. Bandaging the legs would not prevent laminitis. That is the result of a predisposition to rheumatism and also from not properly cooling the horse out. It is not necessary to walk a horse out after being jogged, only after a work-out.

After a horse has been given a fast work-out or fast heat in a race and he is very warm and perspiring freely you must cool his head off at once by , sponge and cold water, so as to change the current of blood away from the brain, otherwise he might have a hemorrhage from a rupture of the small blood vessels in the head. If, after the finish of a heat, the horse does not perspire freely he must be sponged all over with hot water, covered with blankets, and be walked until he sweats very freely, and great care must be exercised in cooling him out. The surface of the body must always be kept very warm and dried very slowly. He may have plenty of cold water, but very little at a time, and while being cooled out a little hay also. He must not be fed grain until Le is perfectly cool.

HANDY WAGON RACK.

Indispensable on Farms Where Much Hay or Green Fodder Has to Be Handled.

In handling grain, hay or green corn fodder, a low rack, similar to the one portrayed, is a great saver of time and labor. One man standing on the ground and simply drawing the corn toward himself, can lay it upon the table of the cutting machine without stooping, or raising it up simply to lay it down again. The top of the rack is 7x14 feet with 6-foot standards. The stringers are 4x6 inches and 19 to 20 feet long. They are hung from the front axle by means of a lengthened king bolt provided with a nut and washer. From the hind axle they are suspended by 3/4-inch rods with nuts and washers below and hooks above to go over the axle. The stringers should be 20 inches apart in front and 32 inches behind. A short wrench keeps the hound from tipping up. I find this rack very convenient. short a turn can be made with this as with a 16-foot rack .-- E. J. Fear, in N. E. Homestead.

DIPPING FOR PARASITES.

There Is No Other Successful Way o Removing Troublesome Pests from Sheep.

Parasites of all kinds are not only injurious to the wool of sheep, but to the health of the animals as well, and dipping to destroy them should be resorted to wherever and whenever they are present at shearing time. There is no other way to remove the troublesome pests except by repeating dipping, and sometimes it requires a good many to accomplish the desired end. Ticks will worry the thin, weak sheep more than the strong ones, and they seem to congregate on them in such numbers as to cause their death. Sometimes the ticks appear on the sheep shortly after dipping, and the impression is made that the dipping did not free them from the parasites; but this is a mistake. The trouble was that the ticks were in the sheds or stables where the sheep were kept, and by putting the animals back in their infested quarters the ticks soon covered them again. The living quarters of the sheep must also be treated with the solution by spraying and washing and in this way we protect the animals from a future invasion. A second dipping should follow the first about ten days later, and the living quarters should also receive a second spraying. Sometimes where the parasites are very numerous a third dipping and spraying may pay.-Boston Budget.

Tuberculosis Among Swine.

A little observation as to the ages and kinds of swine in which this disease is found most frequently shows the greatest number in sows which have farrowed one or more litters of pigs. It seems that when young pigs are infected the disease runs a rather rapid course, more so than in the aged animals, and when so infected they do not grow as do the uninfected swine, and they do not put on fat; "You don't mind my talking so much, they are thin and lanky. The owner discovering that they are not thriving as they should, concludes that it does not pay to continue feeding them, markets them at once, and they are to be found in slaughter houses, sometimes 30, 40 or more in one bunch or lot .- Dr. Stewert, in Farmers' Review.
