WEEDS

Consumption is a human weed flourishing best in weak lungs. Like other weeds it's easily destroyed while young; when old, sometimes impossible.

Strengthen the lungs as you would weak land and the weeds will disappear.

The best lung fertilizer is Scott's Emulsion. Salt pork is good too, but it is very hard to digest.

The time to treat consumption is when you begin trying to hide it from yourself. Others see it, you won't.

Don't wait until you can't deceive yourself any longer. Begin with the first thought to take Scott's Emulsion. If it isn't really consumption so much the better; you will soon forget it and be better for the treatment. If it is consumption you can't expect to be cured at once, but if you will begin in time and will be rigidly regular in your treatment you will win.

Scott's Emulsion, fresh air, rest all you can, eat all you can, that's the treatment and that's the best treatment.

We will send you a little of the Emulsion free.

Be sure that this picture in the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Untempted.
"I am glad to note," said the friend, "that gambling is a vice that has no temptation for you."

"None whatever," answered Senator Sorghum. "I am unable to find any excuse for a man's risking his money when there are so many sure things lying around begging for attention."
—Washington Star.

Preferred It Shallow.
Jeweler—The inscription you wish engraved on the inside of this ring, I understand, is "Ernest to Irene?"

Young Man (with embarrassment)—Yes, that's right. But—er—don't cut the "Irene" deep.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Such a Bargain.
"I wouldn't give two cents for a cigar like that!" he exclaimed, as he tried for the fourth time to light one.

"But I didn't, George," protested his tearful little wife. "I only gave 99 cents for 50 of them!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If a child urinates often, if the urine scalds the flesh, when the child reaches an age when he should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with led-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

CAN'T GO ON CHANGE.

Prince Francis of Teck Forbidden by King Edward to Engage in Brokerage Business.

Other English men and women of title may go into "trade" as much as they see fit—and they are going in for it more and more—but the members of the royal family will not do so if King Edward can prevent it. The king has just put a determined veto on the plan of the gallant and sporty Prince Francis of Teck, who wanted to accept the tempting offer made to him by a wealthy "city" firm to represent them on the London stock exchange.

PRINCE FRANCIS OF TECK (King Edward Won't Permit Him to Become a Stock Broker.)

The prince is the son of the late duke of Teck and, incidentally, the brother of the princess of Wales, who, in all probability, some day will be queen of England.

The firm of Gordon, Hill & Co. offered his highness $15,000 a year for his services. Then several other houses made still higher offers, and it began to look as if the prince could get about any salary he pleased if only he played the different bidders against each other skillfully enough. At this point, however, the king stepped in with the remark that Prince Francis' going on 'change was out of the question. His highness' position as the close relative of one of the most prominent members of the royal family would, Edward VII. pointed out, be a delicate one as matters stand at present; while, in the event of the princess of Wales becoming queen, it would be impossible. So the prince will not go into the city—which is rough luck, for he gets no appropriation from the royal till, and is a bit hard up, as his father was before him. His highness, who is now 33, has had a military career thus far, being now major of the First Dragoons. He was educated at Sandhurst, and has served in India, Egypt and Ireland. He saw part of the South African campaign as a captain in the remount department.

DOUBLE-BARRELED GUN.

Old Cannon That Was Made for the Confederate Army, But Never Used in War.

In one of the city squares of Athens, Ga., stands an interesting relic of the civil war—what is probably the only double-barreled cannon ever made. It was designed by a resident of Athens for use in the confederate service, the idea being to discharge a projectile from each barrel simultaneously, the projectiles to be connected by a chain. No chain was found to be sufficiently strong, however, to withstand the strain, and the weapon was never tested in actual warfare. The cannon is made of cast iron, says the Scientific American, and was molded at one of the local foundries. It is of three-inch caliber, having a diameter across the muzzles of eight inches, and across the barrels of 13 inches, while it is 55 inches in length. It is provided with what is familiarly known as a "touchhole" in the breech, connecting with both barrels, so that it could be discharged by igniting a fuse if desired. The idea of the inventor was to connect the balls by a chain several feet in length, the ends of the chain being fastened into each by staples. Chain-shot was often used in naval battles to carry away the rigging of an enemy. It was discharged once after being built, but unfortunately one barrel for some reason did not "go off." The force of the explosion of the other barrel tore the chain from the ball which remained, and gave a curved motion to the projectile. As a result of this accident, it was considered too dangerous to adopt for use, and was stored away, finally being discovered only a few years ago in a shed. It was then mounted upon its present carriage and placed in the park for an ornament.
