In the lesson for two weeks ago Paul was a prisoner at Caesarea, where he had been confined for two years. He had appealed his case to the emperor, and was waiting to be sent to Rome for trial. In this lesson the voyage

In studying this voyage, remember ng that he was a prisoner, think what kind of a man Paul must have been to have gained such influence on board the ship. Paul was one of a number being sent to Rome under guard at this time. At Myra the convoy of prisoners was transferred to one of the Alexandrian grain ships bound for Rome. The ship encountered head winds most of the time.

"The Fast" (day of Atonement) was late in September or early in October, according to the year. During the winter, navigation was discontinued entirely. Note several things in verses 9-12 showing that a meeting was held The mild and the immediate effect of to discuss what was best to do. Paul Swamp-Root is seen realized. from Euros, the east wind, and Aquilo, the north wind. Compare our expression, a "northeaster" "The boat" (v. 16) was the small boat towed behind the ship. For "lowered the gear," we & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and should say "shortened sail." "The Syrtis" was the much dreaded quicksand along the African coast.

The storm had lasted near weeks. Officers and crew had given Glass grown strawberries must shamselves up for list and were doing nothing when Paul came to the reserve and calm, clear-handed and confident, succeeded in rallying the men to renewed effort. Notice how The box is not for cuils, but for the Paul seems to stand head and shoulders above all the rest on the ship. How do you account for it?

It was now a question of where to run the raisin crop of the state for 1902 is the ship aground, and in order to 100,000,000 pounds and the largest but choose as favorable a place as possible it was necessary to have daylight. Paul's vigilance prevented the fesertion of the crew, without whom is would have been hard to beach the ship successfully.

Picture to yourself the scene on the ship in the dusk of the morning, especially the part Paul played and the heartrending effect of his words and example. "Throwing out the wheat: The lighter the ship was the closer could she run to shore before striking bottom. "Loosing the bands of the rudders:" The "rudders" were two normous ears worked by hand from the stern. They had been pulled out of the water for fear the waves would break them. The revised version is more accurate here than the common. Note the differences, specially in verse "Where two seas met;" This was probably a bar such as often runs beween two neighboring islands. Ramsay believes that finding this was a piece of extraordinary good fortune.

"Kill the prisoners:" If a Roman oldler could not produce his prisoner when called for, he forfeited his life. Was Paul's influence on this voyage due simply to his strong personality and good judgment, or was it largely due to the fact that he was a man of you suppose Paul's shipmates carried out into the world with them, as a voyage?
