Gowns to Travel In.

Now that the traveling days are here it behooves every woman to see that there is something more substantial in her Summer wardrobe than frills and bellows.

For the woman who eschews long skirts, and there are many who do, a traveling suit is a necessity; and while short skirts are the most serviceable, yet, since to some minds the aversion to short skirts is insurmountable, round skirts are eminently correct to travel in.

But no sensible woman will make such a mistake as to harbor the theory that anything, so long as it is comfortable and serviceable, will do for a traveling frock, and ruthlessly sacrifice all becoming to the practical. Her traveling costume should be severe, appropriate and eminently chic and becoming. She will go to a good tailor and have it well made, if the thing is within possibilities, but if she must go to an inferior maker and the latter, she will have it fitted over a correct model of corset, giving the grace and figure so requisite for the present style of dress. The C | R a la Sprite corset is especially recommended by dressmakers, not only for its modish form but because the cheapest corset is made as well cut and gives as good a fit as the most expensive.

The braid-trimmed, tailor-made, in the illustration worn with a white Forsythe waist is an excellent model for traveling.

Now as to shirt waists—popularity and general use do not always kill an effective fashion, and no woman can be attractively dressed who possesses not a swell linen or madras shirt waists, but like the tailor-made gown, material and trimmings are secondary considerations, and it is the cut and finish that makes or mars the shirt waist. So let shirt waists, however few, be made by those up in shirt waist cult. Let them be built in cotton and linen ones, whose subtle points are too subtle for the unpracticed to grasp, but which, combined, make up the perfect whole. The least sophisticated may realize, and she who aims at a modish appearance will not miss her goal.

RELIANCE TO DEFEND CUP

Mr. Iselin's Yacht Selected to Meet Shamrock III.

TRIAL SPINS ARE DISCONTINUED

From Showing of Three Boats Reliance is Fairly Entitled to Defend Cup, as She Has Lost Few Races on Time Allowance.

Newport, R. I., July 28.—After yesterday's race between the Reliance, Constitution and Columbia, in which the former boat again demonstrated her superiority over the other two, the challenge committee of the New York Yacht Club selected the Reliance as the defender of the America's Cup.

It was also decided to discontinue the trial races. There were present at the meeting Commodore Bourne and Messrs. Forbes, Cormack and Robinson of the cup committee, C. Oliver Iselin, managing owner of the Reliance; J. D. Morgan of the Columbia and August Belmont of the Constitution.

Messrs. Morgan and Belmont were perfectly satisfied with the choice of the committee. After the committee had announced its selection they heartily congratulated Mr. Iselin and wished him the best of luck.

From the showing of the three boats during the season the Reliance is fairly entitled to be the defending vessel. In every race she has crossed the finish line ahead, and has not lost few events on time allowance. It is probable that the defender will proceed to Bristol for a thorough overhauling and then go to New Rochelle.

The three yachts raced over a leeward and windward course yesterday. There was a puffy northwester of about 15 miles strength blowing when the starting signal was given at 11:30. All three boats carried their smallest club topsails and the Reliance wore the mainsail that she carried in the early races along the sound.

The Reliance was first to cross the line. She broke out a small balloonier as the gun was fired and had a boom out wide to starboard. A small spinnaker was broken out to port at once but it did not draw. The Constitution crossed soon after, and the Columbia followed a couple of seconds behind the handicap gun at 11:32. Summary:

	Start.	Finish.
Reliance	11:30:00	5:04:00
Constitution	11:30:23	5:06:42
Columbia	11:32:00	5:10:12

BOYS TUNNEL OUT OF JAIL IN

New York Officials Are Greatly Surprised Escape of Three

New York, July 27.—Three sons of ruffians of the lower east side, Randall's island, connected and through the 15 feet high wall surrounding the building, and five succeeded in getting to the liberty of the island, where they were finally arrested and taken back to the island. Two had almost reached the Manhattan shore when they were captured. Two were drowned in the East river, and another was caught by the current and carried to Hell Gate, where he was picked up by a boat and taken to Ward's Island, and still another was found sitting in a corn field outside the House of Refuge. Nearly the entire force of the keepers of the island was looking for the five boys who escaped.

The escape was made by means of a wooden shed which had been built as a tool house and store house against the inside of the wall surrounding the House of Refuge. It contained a lot of diggers' tools, such as picks, crowbars and other instruments that the boys put into use.
