COFFEE SUBSTITUTES.

The love of coffee is an acquired taste. Perhaps nine-tenths of the families using it burn it almost to a coal, so that, in reality, any other burnt bitter would answer quite as well In fact, multitudes in the far West, removed from markets, have become accustomed to use burnt bread crusts as substitute, which certainly is not injurious, but it is a known fact that a cup of some mild, hot drink at meals is a positive benefit, while a glass of the purest cold water is as certainly an injury, especially to invalids and to all who do not have robust health.

The following substitutes for coffee have been collected, in all of which it is suggested first, that the substitute be mixed with the genuine articles, half-and-half; second, that in order to know what you are really drinking, roast and grind your own coffee. In this way only can you know that you are not imposed upon, or may not be drinking some cheap material, either filthy or poisonous.

1. It is said that three parts of Rio, with two parts of old Government Java, well prepared, is quite as good, if not superior, to that made of the latter alone.

2. WHEAT COFFEE .- Wheat coffee, made of a mixture of eight quarts of wheat to one pound of real coffee, is said to afford a beverage quite as agreeable as the unadulterated Rio, besides being much more wholesome.

3. RYE COPFEE .- Take a peck of rye and cover it with water, let it steep or boil until the grain swells or commences to burst, then drain or dry it. Roast to a deep brown color and prepare as other coffee, allowing twice the time for boiling. Wheat coffee probably could be made the same way.

4. ANOTHER .- Take some rye; first scald it: second dry it; third b.own it, and then mix it with one third coffee and two-thirds rye, and then you will have as good a cup of coffee as you ever drank.

5. SWEET POTATO COFFEE .- Take sweet potatoes, cut them fine enough to dry conven iently, and when dried, grind in a coffee-mill; dry them by the fire or stove, at this season of the year, or by the sun, when that will do it; grind and use one and a half teacupfuls for six persons, or mixed with coffee in such proportions as you like. Some omit half of gettin' her husband out of the way. the coffee, some more.

6. BARLEY COFFEE .- Take common barley, er the skinless, if it can be obtained, roast as you would coffee, and mix in such proportion as suits your taste. It is very good.

7. PEA COFFEE, -- It is probably known to many that a very large per cent of the ground coffee sold at the stores is common field peas, roasted and ground with the coffee. There are hundreds of thousands of bushels of peas annually used for that purpose. Those who are in the habit of purchasing ground coffee can do better to buy their own peas, burn and grind them and mix to suit themselves.

8. CARROT COFFEE.-It is recommended by an exchange. Cut up, dry and grind, and mix with coffee in quantities to suit the taste said to make excellent coffee.

10. Dandelion root, dried and slightly scorched, never burned.

11. CHICORY COFFEE. - Equal weights of chicory and coffee, dried and roasted in the usual manner. The chicory root is raised as easily as carrots, and in exactly the same manner. To prepare the root, wash it clean. slice it lengthwise in four to six pieces, according to size, cot in two inches lengths, dry and keep in a dry place until wanted. Chicory is largely used to adulterate coffee in this country, and especially in Europe, 25,000,000 of pounds being used in England and France alone.

12. Excelsion Coffee .- (Our own). -Half a cup of pure, new, farm-house milk, and is gone, what shall I do !" while almost boiling hot, add to it as much boiling water, and when sweetened to suit, eall it "coffee," and drink it down .- Hall's Journal.

HARNESS FOR OXEN.

A subscriber agrees with us that "to make exen draw by the neck is a refined sort of eruelty," but objects to our assertion that the true way for neat cattle to draw, is by the head. He says: " Although I admit that the power of the muscles is concentrated at the forehead,' (does not this settle the question? Ed.) still the strength of the neck and forehead do not warrant us in expecting so much of them-they were designed for other uses, not for us to contemplate now. The forehead has not breadth enough to allow it to be used satisfactorily. The draught would have a tendency, as the neck is so flexible, to draw the nose of the animal upward. If, however, the animal knows enough to obviate this difficulty by throwing his head downward, this would be an unpleasant position to work in. He has at all times to keep his head so that the line of draught will be at that angle where ex and weight are upon a level; it is this testimony in a yoke (of getting the neck and head down), that help to make the beast pant and blow on a hot day, at the rate they do.

If you place a leather collar upon his shoulders, and lot it fit nicely, you will at once see an improvement. He will carry his head up to a corresponding hight, where he can get plenty of fresh air, and prevent it interfering with his legs. His head is free to balance himself, and swing to metion of his body .-With his collar you would, of course, need traces and breeching for road work."

No doubt a properly made collar and harness would be a great improvement over the yoke now used. Experience, after all, must decide the point. Have any of our readers thoroughly tested the three methods?

CURING WARTS ON CATTLE .- A correspondent of Moor's Rural New Yorker says: " I have known several very bad cases cured by the application of tar. I will warrant it not to hurt the creature, and I think it will effect

Mise and Otherwise.

MRS. JONES ON THE WAR.

Two Opinions.

"O, dear me, what is this country coming to, when men stand at the street corners all day long, to talk about the 'state of the nation?' Can't work, because business is dull, can't chop wood, because they've got to look after the affairs of the republic! If Ebenezer would go and fight I wouldn't say a wordit's a man's business to fight, particularly when he isn't good for anything else! but I'm not going to have him round under my feet from morning to night, with his nose in the newspapers - and I won't stand this firing at the back fence, and going through the word exercise in my kitchen! Stays at bome to protect me, does he? I just wish the enemy would attack us, and we'd see who would do the protecting! I'm not afraid of the enemy-I'd let 'em know what a Yankee woman can do. and I'll warrant they wouldn't want to find out a second time. Yes-of course Ebenezer Jones' heart is bleeding for his country, but his stomach ain't, that I know very well. Don't see but that he wants his three meals a day, just the same as ever! I do wish that man had a spark of patriotism about him!

Terrible thing this war is! There isn't a bit of comfort in walking on Broadway with a new dress-nobody looks at you, as long as there is a soldier anywhere in view, and prav when isn't there? Ebenezer goes about with holes in all his toes and elbows, because I am busy knitting stockings and making flanels for the soldiers. If Ebenezer wants whole stockings let him volunteer! That's the way

"I was over to tea at Mrs. Hemlock's last night-she says the house is quite peaceable now since all her men folks have gone to the wars. I suspect she's rather in hopes Hemlock won't come back again-a miserable, drinkin', good-for-nothing fellow! catch him gettin shot-there isn't a bullet in all the Confederate army that could hit him by any possibility. No such good luck for the Hemlocks. If he does come home killed, I wonder if Mrs. Hemlock will get a pension. I think she ought to pension the United States for

There's one good thing about the war-after men get knocked round in camp a year or two, and sewed, and cooked, and washed for themselves, they will know what a woman has to do. They'll appreciate us a little better. Wouldn't I like to see 'em on washing day! Wouldn't I like to taste of the puddings and pies they'll make? Wouldn't I laugh to see their patched elbows, and shirt buttons sewed on every which way?

"I wish Ebenezer would volunteer! I don't know of anybody that needs a little banging around more than he does. Gracious knows I would be glad to have a minute's peace, once in a while. Everybody else's husband has volunteered, and I don't know why on earth Ebenezer is hanging about the kitch-9. CHESTNUT COFFEE. - Chestnuts, also, are en fire yet. But I'll pack him off this very day-see if I don't !"

> "What's that you're saying, Ebenezer Jones? You've enlisted? Oh! oh! to think that I should live to see this day ! Den't go, Ebenezer, dear, don't! For your poor wife's sake, don't do any such thing! I've often said that I wished you to go! Well, I know it, but a w-o-o-man don't always mean what she says, and it will break my heart if you go Oh dear! oh dear! I just wish I was dead! What's the use of a woman's living any long- A er, when her husband has gone off to be shot by those good-for-nothing Confederates !-Such a useful man as Ebenezer always was about the house. What shall I do when he

WON'T HAVE the THIINGS AROUND.

A capital story is told us of an old farmer in the northern part of this county, who had been "saving up" to take up a mortgage of $2,000 held against him by a man nearer the sea shore. The farmer had saved up all the money in gold, fearing to trust the banks in these war times. Week before last, he lugged down his gold and paid it over, when the following coloquy ensued:

"Why, you, don't mean to give this $2,000 n gold, do you?" said the lender.

"Yes, certainly," said the farmer. "I was afraid of the pesky banks, so I've been saving up the morey, in yellow boys, for this long time."

"All right," responded the lender, "only I thought you didn't take the papers."

"Take the papers! No sir, not I. They have gone on so since the war's been a going, that I won't have the d-lish things around. But the money is all right, isn't it?"

"Yes, all right, $2,000 in gold. All right.

Here's your note and mortgage." And well he might call it all right, as the premium on gold that day was 22 per cent., and his gold was not only worth the face of his bond, but $440 besides, enough to have paid for his county newspapers for himself and posterity for at least three centuries. It pays to take the papers .- Norwalk (Conn.) Gaz-

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicing is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much criming nain and revulsion in the system as to mere els. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain, unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, petite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula tweness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood, Irregularities; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required. They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel. Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appe-tite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their tite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their nither to been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine. Being sugar-wrapped, they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.
