

The North Branch Democrat.

HARVEY SICKLER, Proprietor.

"TO SPEAK HIS THOUGHTS IS EVERY FREEMAN'S RIGHT."—Thomas Jefferson.

TERMS: $2.00 PER ANNUM

NEW SERIES,

TUNKHANNOCK, PA., WEDNESDAY, AUG. 5, 1864.

VOL. 4 NO. 9

Weekly Democratic paper, devoted to Politics, News, the Arts and Sciences. Published every Wednesday, at Tunkhannock, Wyoming County, Pa. BY HARVEY SICKLER.

Terms: 1 copy 1 year, in advance $2.00; not paid within six months, $2.50 will be charged.

ADVERTISING.

10 lines or less, make one square	three weeks	four weeks	two months	three months	six months	one year
1 Square	1.00	1.25	2.25	2.87	3.00	5.00
2 do.	2.00	2.50	3.25	3.50	4.50	6.00
3 do.	3.00	3.75	4.75	5.50	7.00	9.00
4 do.	4.00	4.50	6.50	8.00	10.00	15.00
5 do.	5.00	5.50	8.00	10.00	12.00	17.00
6 do.	6.00	6.50	10.00	12.00	15.00	20.00
7 do.	7.00	7.50	12.00	15.00	18.00	25.00
8 do.	8.00	8.50	14.00	18.00	22.00	30.00
9 do.	9.00	9.50	16.00	20.00	25.00	35.00
1 do.	10.00	12.00	17.00	22.00	28.00	40.00

Business Cards of one square, with paper, $5.

JOB WORK

of all kinds neatly executed, and at prices to suit the times.

Business Notices.

GEO. S. TUTTON, ATTORNEY AT LAW. Tunkhannock, Pa. Office in Stark's Brick Block, Tioga street.

W. M. PIATT, ATTORNEY AT LAW. Office in Stark's Brick Block, Tioga St., Tunkhannock, Pa.

R. S. W. LITTLE, ATTORNEYS AT LAW. Office on Tioga street, Tunkhannock Pa.

H. S. COOPER, PHYSICIAN & SURGEON. Newton Centre, Luzerne County Pa.

LAND FOR FARMERS, AS A FERTILIZER. For sale at VERNON, Meshoppen, Sept. 18 1864.

J. V. SMITH, M. D., PHYSICIAN & SURGEON. Office on Bridge Street, next door to the Democrat Office, Tunkhannock, Pa.

DR. J. C. BECKER, PHYSICIAN & SURGEON. Would respectfully announce to the citizens of Wyoming that he has located at Tunkhannock, Pa. and will promptly attend to all calls in the line of his profession. Will be found at home on Saturdays.

WALL'S HOTEL, LATE AMERICAN HOUSE, TUNKHANNOCK, WYOMING CO., PA.

This establishment has recently been refitted and furnished in the latest style. Every attention will be given to the comfort and convenience of those who patronize the House.

T. B. WALL, Owner and Proprietor. Tunkhannock, September 11, 1861.

NORTH BRANCH HOTEL, MESHOPPEN, WYOMING COUNTY, PA.

Wm. H. CORTRIGHT, Proprietor.

HAVING to leave the proprietorship of the above Hotel, the undersigned will spare no effort to render the house an agreeable place of sojourn for all who may favor it with their custom.

Wm. H. CORTRIGHT. June, 3rd, 1863

Means Hotel, TOWANDA, PA.

D. B. BARTLET, PROPRIETOR.

The MEANS HOTEL, one of the LARGEST and BEST ARRANGED Hotels in the country, is fitted up in the most modern and improved style, and no pains are spared to make it a pleasant and agreeable stopping-place for all.

M. GILMAN, DENTIST.

M. GILMAN, has permanently located in Tunkhannock, Pa., and respectfully tenders his professional services to the citizens of this place and adjoining country.

ALL WORK WARRANTED TO GIVE SATISFACTION. Office over Tutton's Law Office, near the Post Office. Dec. 11, 1864.

A GENTLEMAN, cured of Nervous Debility, Incompetency, Premature Decay and Youthful Errors, by a desire to benefit others, will be happy to furnish to all who need it, (free of charge), the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy used in his case. Those wishing to profit by it, and possess a Valuable Remedy, will receive the same, by return mail, (carefully sealed), by addressing JOHN B. OGDEN, No. 60 Nassau Street, New York.

USE NO OTHER!—BUCHANAN'S SPECIFIC PILLS are the only Reliable Remedy for all Diseases of the Seminal, Urinary and Nervous Systems. Try one box, and be cured. ONE DOLLAR A BOX. One box will perfect a cure, or money is refunded. Sent by mail on receipt of price.

JAMES S. BUTLER, Station D. Bible House, New York. General Agent.

Auditor Notice.

The undersigned having been appointed by the Court of Common Pleas of Wyoming County an Auditor to distribute the fund arising from the Sheriff's sale of the Real Estate of James W. Garey, will attend to that duty, at his office in Tunkhannock, Borough on Saturdays, August 13th, A. D. 1864 at 10 o'clock A. M., at which time and place all persons are required to present their claims or be deemed as coming in upon said fund.

Aug 10th 1864. Harvey Sickler.

ADDRESS OF THE STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PENNSYLVANIA.

A prescribed duty, as well as long established usage, impels us to address you in regard to the questions involved in the several elections now at hand. In discharging this duty, we shall speak plainly and candidly what we know to be the truth.

In this, the fairest, richest, and (until lately) the most favored land of all the earth; here, where the last footprints of civilization had been planted; in this land alone of all the Christian nations of the world—the fell spirit of war is now raging. Our proud and unexampled career of prosperity as a nation has been thus rudely checked; our industry, that is not devoted to the purpose of a destructive war, has become paralyzed; our financial concerns have been thrown into utter confusion and debasement; we have henceforth—probably forever—to stagger under a load of debt greater, and under taxation more onerous, than that of any other nation on the globe; confidence in the stability of our institutions is everywhere sadly diminished; all fine gloomy forebodings as to the future, alarm, embarrassment, and distress have taken the place of the happy peace confidence, security, good order, and contentment we so lately enjoyed.

Nor can hope find a resting place in contemplating the men who now control our Government and administer its laws; and it turns sickened and sadly away from the audacity, arrogance and tyranny it finds in high places, even in the very citadel of the nation. Socialists in government; atheists in religion; men who are free lovers in one sphere, and free thieves in another; ringleaders in politics, and scoffers at every well-settled principle of public right and private virtue, now sway the destinies of this Republic, and are crushing out the very life of American freedom.

For three long, fearful years have the best blood and sternest efforts of our people been freely given in a civil war which has no parallel in the history of the world. When this war commenced, the Democratic party in the North, as such, was prostrate under recent defeat, which resulted from its own unfortunate divisions. But what a grand and inspiring spectacle was presented on hearing the first thunder of rebellious arms! Political and partisan feelings, even in that hour of party humiliation, were all laid upon the altar of the country, and the sun of Heaven never shone upon a people more united, resolute and determined than those of the North were States at the period we refer to.

Whatever might have been the views of the Northern Democracy in regard to the causes which ultimately engendered this unhappy strife; however much in their inmost souls they deplored the mad and reckless career of Abolitionism; however deep was their detestation of the course of those partisans, who had been for years sweeping up all the low, lurking elements of bigotry and fanaticism, and directing their vilest efforts against the rights, interests, and institutions of the Southern people—still, the attempt of a portion of that people in consequence, to break down the authority of the Constitution over the whole country, and destroy the Federal compact, was a criminal act which could not be tolerated or justified. The amplest remedies for the wrongs complained of were not only within hope, but at hand. Two millions of voters had just recorded their ballots in a general popular election against Abraham Lincoln and his policy. There was, besides, a Democratic majority in one, if not both branches of Congress, which would render him powerless to inflict any permanent evil on the country.

The right of secession, claimed by the South as the remedy for their grievances, is a political heresy, condemned by Madison with his latest breath, and by many others of our ablest statesmen in all sections of the Union. Call the Constitution a compact, if you will—as does Jefferson in the Kentucky resolutions of '98—but it is a compact of States, made with each other as such, having no right of secession "dissolved or constituted in the bond." The Union thus formed was in its nature, if not in terms, perpetual. Secession then, in view of the compact, is simply revolution; and the breaking up of the Union our fathers had bequeathed us, was under all the circumstances we have detailed, and the thousand other considerations and consequences which must crowd every intelligent and patriotic mind, not only treason at law, but against the best hopes of mankind. We could not then—cannot now—and never will consent to it.

In this spirit of determined loyalty to the Constitution and the Laws, the Democracy of the North, with scarcely an exception, relying upon the pledges given by President Lincoln, yielded him their ready and efficient support. What were some of those pledges? First, in his oath of office: "I will support the Constitution of the United States, so help me God." Then in his Inaugural Address, and with his solemn adjuration fresh upon his lips, he said:

"I do but quote from one of my speeches when I declare that 'I have no purpose, directly or indirectly to interfere with the institution of slavery in the States where it exists. I believe I have no lawful right to do so, and I have no inclination to do so.'—Those who nominated and elected me did so, with full knowledge that I made this and similar declarations and have never recanted them. I now reiterate these sentiments; and in doing so, I only press upon the public attention the most conclusive evidence of which the case is susceptible, that the property peace and security of no section are to be in any wise endangered by the now incoming Administration. I add too, that all the protection which, consistently with the Constitution and the laws, can be given, will be cheerfully given to all the States, when lawfully demanded, for whatsoever cause—as cheerfully to one section as to another.

"These repeated public pledges brought voluntarily to the standard raised in behalf of the Union, hundreds of thousands of as brave men as ever breathed a bayonet. The armies thus raised were precipitated on the South with varied fortunes of victory and defeat; and war, civil war—always the most bloody of all human strifes—has ever since raged over some of the fairest portions of that unhappy region.

But the long cherished schemes of fanaticism for the extinction of African servitude could not be given up. No matter if Massachusetts, sixty or seventy years since, did sell slave to the people of the Southern States under the guarantees of a Constitution which she helped to form—still, Massachusetts, meddles, both in Congress and out of it, now determined, since they could not "trail," they would "read" (the seal from off the bond.) The gallant "three thousand clergymen of New England"—(worthy disciples of the Prince of Peace!)—rallied to a man, in the new crusade of fanaticism, and wrought, side by side, with infidels, who have for years been in the daily habit of sneering at the Christian's faith, ridiculing the Christian's Bible and blaspheming the Christian's God!

The fears of our timid and facile President were worked upon, as well as his vanity and desire of re-election, by the extreme and radical members of his party, and the emancipation and confiscation measures were forced upon him, and made a part of his policy in the conduct of the war. Every effort of the friends of peace put forth in Congress was defeated. The hostility of the Abolition leaders to secession in the South—to employ the words of the lamented Douglas—"was stronger than their fidelity to the Constitution." They believed that a disruption of the Union would draw after it, as an inevitable consequence, civil war, servile insurrection, and finally, through these, an utter extinction of slavery in all the Southern States; and, it would seem, they acted even on this terrible belief.

Look at the record; On the 18th day of December, 1860, Senator Crittenden, of Kentucky, the bosom friend of Henry Clay in his life time, introduced into the Senate of the United States a series of resolutions, as a basis of settlement between the two sections of the Union. The secession of South Carolina took place on the day of the same month, and her members of Congress retired from their places. We are thus particular in reference to this subject, because our opponents, through their Central Committee in this State, have introduced it into a late address to you; and there is a specious effort made in that address to turn aside from the Republicans, the just obloquy and reproach which the defeat of Senator Crittenden's proposition was fastened upon.

The offered compromise would, in terms, have sealed more than three-fourths of all our territorial domain against slavery forever—placing about 900,000 miles under the provisions of the Ordinance of 1787, more recently known as the "Wilmot Proviso"—leaving the remaining 300,000 miles subject to whatever laws those who settled upon it might establish for themselves, whenever they became a State. All the other features of the proposed compromise were nothing but reaffirmances of the plainest powers and provisions of the Constitution, save, possibly, the fair and equitable stipulation that slavery should not be abolished in the District of Columbia, as long as it existed in Maryland and Virginia, the two States which had ceded that District to the General Government.

On the 15th of January, 1861, Senator Clarke, a leading Republican, moved to amend the Crittenden proposition by striking out all of the material provisions—certainly all that contained the olive-branch of peace, and inserting a single resolution breathing war threats toward the South. This amendment was carried by a vote of twenty five in favor of all Republicans, against twenty three Democratic votes. But, says the address of the Republican Committee—"six Southern Senators refused to vote at all on the proposed amendment; and then, with a degree of cool assurance remarkable even in these times, it goes on to tell the people of Pennsylvania "that had these six Southern men voted against the Clark amendment, it would have been defeated, and the Crittenden Compromise might have been taken up and carried by the same majority." General Cameron, who puts forth this Address, cannot be very proud of his own share in this record, or he would not have kept out of view the fact that he himself voted for this very Clark amendment, and the same day moved a reconsideration; and then, when this question was called up only three days afterwards, he voted against his own notion to reconsider. It was carried, however, with the aid of at least two (Johnson and Slidell) of the "six" named, and the Compromise was again in statu quo before the Senate. It was finally taken up on the 3d of March, and defeated—many of the Southern Senators having withdrawn from the Senate in the interim, their States having seceded from the Union.

Now, General Cameron, who issued the Address, knows just as well as did Senator Cameron, who sustained the Clark amendment, that it required a two thirds vote to give vitality to the Crittenden Compromise. He knows, too, that every Republican vote, including his own, in the Senate, was given against the measure, in effect, from first to last. He knows further, that the Republican Senators refused Senator Biglar's proposal to submit this question to a vote of the people as instructive of Congress. He knows also, that Mr. Clemens, of Virginia, on the 17th of February, before that State adopted secession, endeavored, in the House of Representatives at Washington, to obtain a similar arrangement in that body to test the question of compromise before the people, and it was voted down by 112 Republicans against 80 Democrats—every Republican in the House voting in the negative. They did not dare to trust the people, the legitimate source of power, on this question!

At the hazard of furnishing unnecessary proof, on this point, we beg attention to the clear and explicit evidence of Senator Pugh, a contemporary of the author of the Address, in the Senate of the United States. In the course of his speech in the Senate, in March, 1861, he says:

"The Crittenden proposition has been endorsed by the almost unanimous vote of the Legislature of Kentucky. It has been endorsed by the noble old Commonwealth of Virginia. It has been petitioned for by a larger number of the electors of the United States than any proposition that was ever before Congress. I believe in my heart to-day that it would carry an overwhelming majority of the people of my State, and of nearly every State in the Union. Before the Senators from the State of Mississippi left the chamber I heard one of them, who assumes at least to be President of the Southern Confederacy, propose to accept it, and maintain the Union, if that proposition could receive the vote it ought to receive from the other side of the chamber. Therefore, all of your propositions, all of your amendments, knowing as I do, and knowing that the historian will write it down—at any time before the first of January, a two thirds vote for the Crittenden resolutions in this chamber would have saved every State in the Union except South Carolina. Georgia would be here by her representatives, and Louisiana—how two great States—which at least would have broken the whole column of Secession—Globe, page 1300.

Upon the same point, of the same day, the clear voice of the patriotic Douglas, bore testimony as follows:

"The Senator (Mr. Pugh) has said that if the Crittenden proposition could have been passed early in the session, it would have saved all the States except South Carolina. I firmly believe this. While the Crittenden proposition was in accordance with my cherished views I avowed my readiness and eagerness to accept it in order to save the Union, if we could unite upon it. I can confirm the Senator's declaration that Senator Davis himself when on the Committee of Thirteen, was ready at all times to compromise on the Crittenden proposition. I will go further, and say that Mr. Toombs was also—Globe page 1861.

How preposterous at this day then, this attempt of one of the leading actors in that eventful drama thus to stifle conscience, and so seek to rescue his co-conspirators from the recorded verdict of history, and the deserved and inevitable condemnation of a betrayed people!

The controlling spirits of the Republican party never meant peace—never sought peace from first to last, at any time or in any form, save upon the one drear and devilish condition of turning loose upon our land three and a half millions of black semi barbarians under the specious pretence of freedom; while in reality, it was only to tear so many of these poor creatures away from their homes of comparative happiness and peace, to find starvation, misery and death in an inhospitable clime.

President Lincoln has but recently declared, in very definite terms, he will listen to no proposition for peace which does not include this African millennium, notwithstanding those plain constitutional prohibitions of all right on the part of the General Government thus to intervene, which he himself with the oath of office fresh upon his lips, declared he "had no legal right and no intention" to disregard.

If we were to credit the ravings of the chief advisers of the President, or, at least, those who seem to influence him, most fully Sumner, Beecher and Phillips—human reason has been making such rapid progress in these latter days, that the haven of human perfection must be near at hand. But alas! when we look hopefully for the blessed gale which is to bear us onward in its course, we hear nothing but the loud breath of the tempest; see nothing all around us but the angry and troubled sea, everywhere sparkling with foam and surging in its madness; and we are tempted to ask, can this indeed be the wind and the storm fulfilling his word?

These men are mistaken and mad, or traitors of the dearest dye, deserving a traitor's darkest doom. This equality of the lock and whip races which they are seeking to establish in this country is an absurd and idle dream, which a brief contrast of the progress and peculiarities must dispel from a every thoughtful mind.

A little more than two centuries since when our fathers first planted a few farms of our race at scattered points along the North American coast, the whole number of that race in the old world did not exceed six millions. England, Scotland and Wales then numbered fewer inhabitants than New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio do now. Mark the progress: in North America at this time (including a wholesome Celtic infusion,) there are at least thirty millions, and in the whole world (confessing thereto also the same infusion) from eighty to ninety millions of people, substantially Anglo Saxon in their origin. We are everywhere thus displacing the more sluggish races, or hemming them in on every side; and at this current rate of increase, in one hundred and fifty years from this time, will run up to eight hundred millions of human beings—all speaking the same language, rejoicing in the same high intellectual culture, and exhibiting the same inherent and inalienable characteristics!

On the other hand, the African race has never, anywhere, given any proof of its capacity for a self sustained civilization. Since the sun first shone on that continent it has remained in the same state of mental gloom, cruel, brutal, voluptuous, and indolent by nature, the African has never advanced a single step beyond his own savage original—Slavery has ever been, and to this hour continues to be, his normal condition, throughout every clime he can call his own! And yet they have had as many opportunities of improvement as the inhabitants of Asia or Europe. Along the shores of the Mediterranean was once concentrated the Literature and Science of the world. Carthage, the rival of imperial Rome in all the arts of commerce and civilization, existed for many years on the African border. The Saracens, the most polished race of their time founded and maintained for centuries a contiguous empire. Still, for all this, the African has continued to crawl on through his long night of barbarism and thus, in all human probability, he will continue forever. Tell us not that his want of progress in civilization is the result of long established bondage. So, for centuries, was our own race bound to the earth under various modifications of predial vassalage. But the white soul expanded, and mounted above all its barthens and trammels, and finally, in this country, reached the full fruition of republican freedom.

We grant this mental inferiority of the African (we forbear, in the spirit of sobriety, any physical contumelious or contrast)—does not give a dominant race the right to convey him from his own brightened land to a foreign bondage, even under the forms of a purchase from his African master. But this natural inferiority must be considered by the statesman in framing laws, and adopting Constitutions for human government. In Pennsylvania we have always affirmed this inferiority in our fundamental laws; and the same has been in almost all the free States of the Union—generally excluding the African from the right of suffrage. This necessity of duly regarding the law of races, is thus forcibly commented upon by Lamartine (a scholar and a statesman, always in favor of man's largest liberty) in a recent work:

"The more I have traveled, the more I am convinced that races of men form the great secret of men and manners. Man is not so capable of education as philosophers imagine. The influence of Government and laws has less power, radically, than is supposed, over the manners and instincts of any people. While the primitive constitution and blood of the race have always their influence, and maintain themselves thousands of years afterwards in the physical formation and habits of a particular family or tribe. Human nature flows in rivers, and streams in the vast ocean of humanity; but its waters mingle but slowly—sometimes they never mingle, and it emerges again, like the Rhone from the Lake of Geneva, with its own taste and color. Here is, indeed, an abyss of thought and meditation, and at the same time a grand secret for legislation. As long as they keep the spirit of the race in view they succeed; but they fail when they strive against this natural predisposition; nature is stronger than they are."

But why thus enlarge upon a topic which has undergone so much, and such frequent discussion? Why—because this idea of working out negro equality on the part of our opponents is the very basis of our present political struggle. Let no man be mistaken. This is really the leading issue at the present moment between the two parties. To carry out, his idea has come at last to be the ruling if not the sole purpose of the war which is now deluging the land with fraternal blood! For this, the Constitution and the reserved rights of the States and the people have been unthinkingly trampled under foot; for this, both imperious and imperial edicts, such as would send to the block any monarch in England, have been issued by the President, and sought to be enforced; for this, Secretary Seward's boast to Lord Lyons—"I can touch my office bell at any moment, and order to be arrested any citizen of this country"—has been all too frequently realized!

The extent to which the party supporting the President are willing to go in negro affiliation, finds a memorable illustration in the proposition made by Secretary Cameron, one of the several occupants of the place of Secretary of War under President Lincoln.

He boldly proposed, in his first and last annual communication, to free, and then to arm the whole black population of the South, and turn them against their white masters in a work of indiscriminate butchery! This truly infernal suggestion was not adopted by the President when first proposed, but it has since been acted upon in more instances than one.

We have charged the party at present in power, fellow citizens, with tyranny and usurpation. We now go further, and solemnly assert our belief, that there is a deliberate design to change the character, if not the form of our government. The leading paper in the support of the Administration openly advocates a modification which will place greater powers in the hands of the President; and if their advice should be adopted by the people, in a short time the chains will be firmly riveted, and our liberties completely subverted. The Philadelphia Press not long since remarked:

"Another principle must certainly be embodied in our reorganized form of government. The men who shape the legislation of this country when the war is past, must remember that what we want is power and strength. The problem will be to combine the forms of Republican Government with the powers of a Monarchical Government."

About the same time, as if by concern, we find in the North American:

"This war has already shown the absurdity of a Government with limited powers; it has shown that the power of every Government ought to be and must be unlimited."

Such doctrines as these would have met with rebuke even at the hands of the elder Adams; but they wore the natural precursors of the "war power" which has been made to override the most explicit doctrines of the Constitution. The very wrongs, in fact, complained of by our fathers, and enumerated in their declaration against the English monarch, have been revived upon us. This Administration has willfully sworn bound pledges, and sought "pretexts of innovation upon the established principles of the Government;" "it has fostered a spirit of encroachment which tends to consolidate all the departments of the Government in one, and thus create, whatever the forms may be, a real despotism." It has rendered the "the military superior to the civil power." It has superseded in a reign of lawless force the security prescribed by law against seizure and imprisonment "without due process of law." It has verily created a multitude of new offices, and sent among its servants of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance."

By an impious Conscriptio facta, he has intrusted its agents among the people, backed by bayonets and clothed with discretionary powers over the liberties, if not the lives of our citizens. It has quartered large armies of troops amongst us. "It has imposed taxes on us without our consent." Finally, its chosen and purchased advocates are now clamorous for a stronger Government, that "our charters may be taken away our most valuable it was abolished, and the powers of our Government altered fundamentally." These, we submit, fellow citizens, are all of them features fairly exhibited, of that "stronger Government," which our forefathers, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world, eighty years ago, pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor" to put aside forever.

We have before spoken, fellow-citizens, of the depressed condition of the country. The mountain of debt which has been piled up so recklessly, cannot be less than three (three) hundred millions of dollars, when all is fully counted. Of this Pennsylvania's share will be at least one-tenth of the whole, or $300,000,000. The annual interest upon this sum is (more easily estimated than paid) will be about eighteen millions of dollars. This, added to the annual interest of our former debt, makes an aggregate of interest now and hereafter, to be borne by the people of this Commonwealth, stated in round numbers, of twenty millions of dollars! We cannot brighten this picture of the stern reality, which an inexorable arithmetical calculation gives. Some make even a deeper debt and a darker prospect than others.

Taxation always falls heaviest upon labor; it will now grind the poor to the very earth. And yet the mock philanthropists of the day are increasing the taxation, and urging on a system of measures, which, under the pretense of ameliorating the condition of the African, will if carried on much longer, practically enslave the laboring white man and starve his family. And besides this, the forcible abolition of bondage at the South should succeed, it will only be to bring the white working men and women of the North in competition in the same paths of labor with the African they have been taxed and beggared to bring here, and support amongst us!

The favored capitalist, who has money to lend to the Administration, gets his bonds upon which there is no taxation; and thus is increased the burdens of the laboring and middle classes. But we forbear to pursue this melancholy train of facts and consequences, and turn to the more grateful consideration of how we can do something for the correction of these evils.

It must be plain fellow-citizens, that only those who are disinterested can do any good.