Cruel-The very refinement of cruelty ! To leave a person in such a state of awful suspense as a wishy-washy dish-water correspondent in the last week's nigger equality organ has left us for a whole mortal seven days and seven nights, by savagely. saying that 'In our (his) next we shall pay our respects to the editor of the N. B. Democrat."

How are you, Mr. nigger-worshipping, child-whipping Blood - hound of Zion ?

Arrest of Counterfeiters .-- The detective police have arrested and imprisoned at Buffalo, N. Y. one Andrews and his associates, whom they caught in the act of making a counterfeit of Aver's Cathartic Pills. Their Detection was accomplished at the instance of Messrs J. C. AYER & Co. of Lowell, Mass., who have shown a commendable energy and promptitude in protecting the public from imposition through spurious imitations of their invaluable medicines.

Doct. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, Cherry Pectoral and Pills have come to be staple necessities with the community, and the imposition upon the sick of spurious, worthless, if not injurious tabrications of them is in fact the consummation of villainy. We hope the scoundrels will get their due, and in the keeping they now are, they are pretty sure of it --- [Police Gazette.

For the Democrat.

ONE OF THE FACTS

Reported for last weeks Republican, but in consequence of a delicacy, (discovered by the editor of that paper, since the publication of the article to which this refers,) which suggested modifications imcompatable with the proper completion of this chapter, we have withdrawn it, and requested its publication in the Democrat.

THE WRITER.

"The earth has been shaken, the elements torn, The mountain has labored, Dam phool is reborn.

He died, thought Doesticks, but if so he has certainly resurrected, and appears now in a new role that becomes him wonderfully well. His little mind, wherein dwelleth such dire revenge, is inflated extraordinarily, and innumerable woes betide him who dares to ope his unregenerated lips without a " by your leave sir."

That 'home thrust' which this "citizen" so readily appropriates to himself, and which evidently probed to the centre, the fountain of his scurrillous imagination, was a general remark, thrown out without a thought of any personalities--necessarily so, because we were entirely ignorant as to who the "gray headed" father of that illigitimate production might be; in fact we supposed him to be rather now, and the animal appears in all his naked deformity. He issues his bulls, with all the volubility of a Borgia and in language that would reflect no discredit upon a Billingsgate fish woman.

That the people of our town, particularly its youth, should be required to look for moral guidance and instruct 10u, to a thing whose mind is so deeply imbued with the malice and vindictiveness manifested by him, is indeed a "proper matter for inves tigation," for if he succeeds in incorporating a like disposition into the minds of those over whom he exercises supervision, it will not be strange if we should continue to find children "whose families fail to control them." While here, let us briefly examine the "matter" he speaks of as "proper for investigation," to wit: influencing the minds of jurors in favor of parties accused of offences. We have always understood that the law presumed parties accused, to be innocent until proven guilty. Impartial jurors go into the box Ewith that legal presumption resting upon them, or at least should do so, and should be prepared under their oath, to give the accused the benefit of all reasonable dorbts as to their guilt. We have a "reasonable doubt" that this self-constituted champion and reformer would not so "hear and determine," for it is a notorious fact that revenge prompts his acts, and not an honest, sincere desire to do good. Admitting then for present purposes that we did intimate or attempt to convey the idea that a certain accused party, is innocent of the offences alleged against him (which we did not, and Destick's respected friend cannot find it in our record) the "investigation" like the threat, would be folly consummated. The truth is, as the readers of the Republican well know, this "most righteous judge," this soft-voiced hypocrite, this more than "a second Daniel come to judgment," in his wholesale efforts to roll an avalanche of guilt and destruction over every man whose opinions does not coincide with his own, inaugurated the proceeding he so savagely reprobates; and if there is any legal consequences involved, he would find himself in the position of that certain other ancient individual whose

APMY OFTHE POTOMAC. BY WILLIAM SWINTON. THE STANDARD HISTORY OF THE GRAND ARMY. The greatest Work on the War.

Universally endorsed by army officers and the press, THE AUTHOR

SAYS :--

"I design in this volume to record what that Army did and suffered in ten campaigns and two score

I shall have to celebrate the unswerving loyalty of this army, that of times when the bond of military echesion failed, held it, unshaken of fortune, to a duty self-imposed. I shall have to follow it through a checkered ex-

I shall have to follow it through a checkered ex-perience, in a tale commingled of great misfortunes, great follies and great glories; but from first to last it will appear that, amid many buffets of fortunes. through "winter and rough weather," the Army of the Patomae never gave up but made a good fight, and finally reached the goal of this dense there will be no other here than the

Of this drama there will be no other hero than the Army of the Potomae itself; for it would seem that in this war of the People it was decreed there should in this war of the People it was decreed there should arise no imperial presence to become the central fig-ure and cynosure of men's eyes. Napoleon, in an outburst of haughty eloquence, exclaims that in the great armies of history the Commander was every-thing. This proud apotheosis has no application for the Army of the Potomac. And one must think – seeing it never hadin great, and generally had med-iocre commanders—it w s that it might be said, that wherever it won it weed not to conjust lut bought wherever it won it owed not to genius. Lut bought with its blood."

This is the only History of the "Grand Army," and no one who has borne a part youthful than otherwise But the lion's skin is off in its conflicts, or is interested in its grand achievements, should be without it.

But we will state for his gratification, that at the time those articles were published, there was not a "juryman" in the county.

The compliments which you have tendered through us, to that "member of the bar," will no doubt be remembered and appreciated by him, as a causeless and unwarranted war declared by you, against one, who we believe has at all times heretofore been your friend. Such, however, need excite no surprise for it is in perfect keeping with the code of piety, which appears to govern your intercourse with all your fellows, whether friends or foes.

If this notable censor will permit us to essist him in his commendable efforts to find characters to villify and defame, we would suggest that by going back a little, he might find an officer of the law, of whom it was alleged that his oath rested very lightly upon his conscience; that under certain circumstances the rights of parties were not altogether secure in his hands -- he might find a member of the church whose dogged, sullen vindictiveness, furnished occasion for the wish "that he could be traded off for a good man." There are many others he might find, but having confidence in his perse verance we have no doubt but he will succeed without our farther assistance. And now my antiquated "friend to whom the shadows of fifteen years" extend, hav . ing given you a few of the titles that you have convinced us belong to you --- having suggested a few "matters" for that prayerful "investigation" which your charity. humility and meekness dispose s you to give them, and having pursued this quixotic digression quite as long as necessary we leave you finally. If you desire to continue to nurse your favorite bantling, blackguardism, you must either do so alone, or appeal to the tender charities of those who have heretofore felt your pulse, made a diognosis of your disease and understand its nature perfectly, they are no doubt ready and willing to attend you again. We expected when we commenced these records that dogs would snarl and bark at our heels, and we have not been disappointed. As each respective sing hole has been disturbed, each respective and some times respectable owner has commenced pitching his filth and garbare at us, but--as has been previously remarked --- We still live.
