The Corset for the Season

THERE is a marked difference between this season's corset and the models of previous seasons. If you will try to wear a former season's corset with a new dress you will instantly see the difference.

This general change is very noticeable in HENDERSON CORSETS.

The new HENDERSON models are styled and constructed to bring out every detail of the important fashion changes that distinguish this season's modes. When you wear the right HENDERSON CORSET—the model that has been individually designed for your figure—your contour will show the stylish, natural effect which is now the correct fashion.

WHY NOT?

If it can be shown, as is well known, that a man in order to gain a seat on the judicial bench bound himself by promises to decide questions in favor of certain interests, and when on the bench discriminates against his opponents and in favor of his supporters, and when his friends with his knowledge promise favors in court on certain financial conditions, ought not such a judge to be impeached? Why not? The time was when it was thought that judges could not be reached for improper procedure, and that money could save anyone arraigned before the bar of justice. But the decision of the United States Senate in the Archbold case shows that judges are not above the reach of the law, and when it can be shown that a judge is so fettered by pre-election alliances that he is not free to act according to the law, equity and justice, for the good of the people and the protection of the good name of the judiciary ought not the case to be brought before the proper tribunal for investigation by impeachment proceedings? If not, why not? CON.

PRAYERS AND ACTIONS.

According to the following conversation which took place in a Pennsylvania town between a laboring man and a politician, actions do not always accord with prayers.

The laboring man said, "Mr. Jones, I see that Judge—granted liquor licenses quite freely in his county."

"Yes, I believe so," replied Jones. "Well, I am very much surprised."

"Why?"

"I will tell you. You see I used to live in that town, and that man was my Sunday-school teacher, and one Sunday, just before license court was to have been held by the then judge, he prayed most earnestly that the Lord might put it into the heart of the judge to refuse all liquor licenses and drive the cursed business out of the county. That prayer made an impression on me and I never forgot it, and so when I heard that my Sunday-school teacher was made judge I of course thought, now license must go. But he did just what the other judge did. He did not act as he prayed. Why is it?"

"Oh," said Mr. Jones, "I could easily explain that, but I do not want to say anything about it—at least not now yet."

CHARGES FRAUD.

Alleging that his step-mother is endeavoring to defraud him, James Hudson, of Portage, Cambria county, through his attorneys, Frank P. Martin, of Johnstown, and Norman T. Boose, of Somerset, has filed a petition in the Orphans' Court of Somerset county asking the court to vacate an order of sale issued in the estate of his father, Thomas Hudson, late of Windber. Judge Ruppel has awarded a rule on petitioner's step-mother to show cause why the order of sale should not be nullified.

Thomas Hudson died at Windber, July 27, 1910, leaving a will in which he bequeathed a life interest in his real estate to his wife, Eliza, or as long as she shall remain his widow, with power to sell the property in case she became in absolute need. Under the will James Hudson, the petitioner, is to inherit the real estate at the death of his step-mother.

Eliza Hudson some time ago secured an order from the court and sold one of her husband's properties to the Rev. E. W. Rishel, of Windber, for $1,100, setting forth in her petition for the order that she was in absolute need of the necessities of life, and that her husband's personal property was sold for only $254 which she claimed as her exemption.

The testator's son claims that the statements made by his step-mother are not true; that she is not and could not be in want; that at the death of Thomas Hudson his wife had at least $1,100 in her possession and in August 1911, wanted to invest this amount with Joseph Allgood, of Windber, and that in addition to the $1,100 in cash she has an income of $15 per month from rents for real estate.

It is further alleged that the purchase price of $1,100 is not a sufficient price for the property proposed to be sold; that the same is worth at least $1,400, and that Eliza Hudson is endeavoring to defraud James Hudson of his interest in the estate of his father.

THE GREAT MONEY-MAKER.

Due to the fact that the great demand for crude oil exceeds the supply there is no form of investment at the present time which affords greater money-making possibilities than the oil industry. Great fortunes have been quickly made by oil, and the opportunities were never greater than now. The Oklahoma Oil Co. has three producing wells and two more are to be brought in this week. An investment in this company is not only safe but may make enormous profits. The company is incorporated under the strict laws of the State of Oklahoma and is managed by capable and responsible men.
