Gambling in Inora.

Although the natives of India do not play the stock market, they have adopted a form of gambling unique in itself, and one which the cotton market reports are responsible for. Every day five quotations are cabled from New York, announcing the cotton situation. The natives quite a long time ago conceived this to be a direct invitation to them to establish a simple, but none the less absorbing, form of gambling. The gambling consists simply in guessing what the five figures would amount to, and the man getting nearest to the right amount, of course, wins. So fascinating did this game prove that the authorities became greatly annoyed by the indulgence of the poorer class of natives in it.

Success.

At a luncheon in New York the topic under discussion was the arrest of Mayor Lunn and the Rev. Algernon S. Crapsey of Schenectady for street speaking during the Little Falls strike.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., without praising or blaming either the two men or the strike that they advocated, gave utterance to an epigram that every young business man would do well to paste above his desk.

"Success," said Mr. Rockefeller, "knows no eight-hour law."
