A temporary floor was placed on one corner of the foundation on which the church organ, the choir and the visiting ministers were comfortably seated.

The services were opened with a selection by the choir and a prayer by Rev. W. W. Morris. The choir then ably rendered a beautiful anthem entitled, "Rest From Your Labors" following turns itself. Education and these are, respectively, means and end. But to attain this poise, balance, faculty for seeing beauty, you must bring something to education, for the benefits derived from it are proportional to the strength of character of the person taught. Strong minds and characters, like healthy bodies, are often portions of an inheritance. All strong characters must have been fundamentally, so from the beginning, for no titled, "Rest From Your Labors" followed with a reading by Rev. E. S. Hassler, of St. Paul.
