

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Special to The Commercial.

Official Washington will have something to do beside going to the ball games after the glorious fourth is past and gone. Congress will by that time have got down to a hard grind again, with the Senate dithering away at tariff bill and probably the House engaged with the banking and currency legislation.

There is little attempt to conceal the fact that Congress does not relish the task of revising the currency laws this summer. Washington is not famed for the salubrity of its summer climate. A temperature of 100 degrees is not uncommon here and the Congressmen are not keen about, remaining here during the dog days, but if the country expresses an anxiety that the financial system of the country be reformed at this session, Congress will bow to the verdict and buckle down to work.

SOCIOLOGICAL REFORMS.

It is interesting to see the White House giving inspiration to the workers in the field of humanity. Both the President and Mrs. Wilson are interested not only in making Washington a model city from an artistic standpoint and in its system of government, but in making it the best place in the country for the people who ordinarily enjoy but few of the advantages that come almost unasked to the rich. By personal investigation Mrs. Wilson has become acquainted with the distressing conditions prevailing among the many alley homes in Washington, and it is directly through her beneficent interest that congressmen are asking what they can do to improve the slums and wipe out conditions which make for disease and crime.

While Washington is studying this question, it may be well to submit that the San Diego Exposition there will be a practical illustration in 1915 of what a model city should be. The buildings now going up there will be permanent, fireproof, sanitary structures embodying the latest ideas and the most recent improvements.

The exposition itself will constitute a model municipality, so far as the physical features of it are concerned, with a perfect water and sewerage plant, complete lighting arrangement, an emergency hospital which has for months past been at the service of those building the exposition, a nursery for children, rest rooms for visitors, amusements and play grounds, in short everything that can be devised for the welfare, comfort and amusement of the public. The whole will be set in a set in a great garden with good roads, smooth paths, and a surprising profusion of flowers and ornamental shrubs and tree bordering velvety lawns. As a model city exhibit the San Diego Exposition will be well worth the consideration of all who are interested in city planning and in the elimination of slums from cities.

Treatment For Bee Diseases.

This is the time of the year when many letters are reaching Prof. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist, at Harrisburg, from bee-keepers of Pennsylvania, requesting aid in suppressing the diseases of bees that are destroying over one million dollars worth of property, and resulting in the loss of production of about the same value of property in the way of honey and wax in this State.

A correspondent from Tunhannock wrote to Dr. Surface that he had sixty-four colonies of bees, some of which were infested, and asked for State inspection service and a means of curing the disease. To this Prof. Surface replied as follows:

"While there is a law providing for such service in this state, yet at this time there has not been any money appropriated to defray the expenses of an inspector. I would consider it a very important subject. As president of the State Bee-keepers' Association I have been looking after this for some years and it seems to be now in sight. As soon as this money is available we can arrange to send someone into your district.

"It is not a difficult matter to clean up the disease without losing the brood if it is done with full care and complete understanding of the subject.

One of the best means is to catch and cage the queen; then shake the bees on starters and in three or four days take these starters away and give them full frames of foundation, and in a few days take these starters away and give them a young queen. Do not destroy the brood in the diseased combs, but pile them up on the weakest diseased colonies. This will save everything and will build up the weak colonies and cure the strong ones. It is a method of simple treatment, but, of course cannot be done unless bees are kept in modern frame hives and by modern methods."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. C. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 29

THE VICTORIES OF FAITH.

READING LESSON—Acts 7:9-16; Heb. 11:20-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—"This is the victory that hath overcome the world, even our faith." I John 5:4.

The reading lessons for today are a New Testament commentary upon the past quarter's work. The first lesson is taken from that marvelous defense of Stephen the first martyr. As he traces the history of the people of Israel, he shows God's continued activities and purposes from the hour he called Abraham until the holy one of Israel came to fill to their fulness all of these same activities and purposes. Stephen also shows us that alongside God's activities was the equally persistent disobedience of the people which culminated in the betrayal and murder of that holy one. In the portion selected he sets before us how Joseph is sold into Egypt, yet God was with him and delivered him; how the famine came and Jacob is thereby brought into Egypt only later to be carried back into the land of promise.

Teach Faith.
The second lesson is taken from that great catalogue of heroes as recorded in the Epistle to the Hebrews. Here we have set before us the fact that God's eternal purpose with man is ever that of faith. Isaac, Jacob and Joseph are here mentioned and the faith of each set before us.

Leaving out the Easter lesson we have covered a period of about 50 years, eight lessons dealing with Joseph, and four with Jacob.

Attention has been called to Joseph as one of the most remarkable types of Christ to be found in the Old Testament (see comments on lesson of April 27). As we have also suggested Jacob is not so grand a character as Abraham yet is much more like the average man.

It is interesting to go over these lessons and follow God's purposes and to observe how like Christ Joseph was.

IN LESSON I we behold Jacob at the instigation of his mother desiring his poor old father and being compelled to fly that he might save his life. He beheld thought she could execute God's purposes; but it is never right to do evil that good may result.

IN LESSON II Jehovah appeared before this conscience smitten refugee and again promised that the blessing, yes, his own divine purpose, would be worked out in Jacob's life. This is a lesson on the grace of God.

LESSON III sets Jacob before us after twenty-one years' service and separation from his brother Esau. This is a great lesson on God's desire and transforming power. He transforms Jacob to Israel a "prince" and softens the heart of Esau. Faith overcame and is strengthened and confirmed.

IN LESSON IV, we first behold Joseph particularly loved and favored and as bitterly hated; he was thrown into a pit to die but is taken up (typical of the resurrection) and sold into slavery. The development of envy and the persistent, delivering purpose of God are here presented in strong contrast.

LESSON V shows Joseph's entering that dark maze beyond which God was to highly exalt him. By faith he overcame that fierce temptation and his treatment of his fellow prisoner was God's useful agency though it seemed accidental and insignificant.

God's Continued Purpose.
LESSON VI is the completion of Lesson V. and in it we see Joseph seated in the place of power, able to save the country and also his brethren.

LESSON VII shows us God's continued purpose and the beginning of the fulfillment of his word that the descendants of Abraham were to dwell in captivity (Gen. 15:13).

LESSON VIII is a continuation of Joseph's dealings with his brothers in which their guilty consciences are still further pricked and God reveals to us his immutable purpose.

LESSON IX is a tender one of the meeting of Joseph and Benjamin while at the same time it suggests to us the certainty of the fact that we may "be sure your sin will find you out." Unless covered by his forgiving blood our sin is mercilessly upon our track.

IN LESSON X, we behold Joseph made known to his brethren and those in fear are urged to draw near. Joseph's faith in God saved him from arrogance and retaliation and inclined his heart to tenderness and love in his dealings with his brothers. Even as Joseph revealed himself to his brothers so will Christ reveal himself.

Joseph's provision for his fathers and his brethren, LESSON XI, is a rich suggestion of our father's bounty and care for all who are "in Christ Jesus." By faith Joseph who had come great in a strange land, identified with all of its power and splendor makes provision that when God's purpose shall be executed and the sons of Israel shall be delivered from Egypt, his bones shall be carried into the land of the people to whom he belonged and from whom he has so long been separated. Faith is the secret of victory. Joseph as a type teaches us the lesson of faith.
