SPARKS ELEGTRIC.

A vacuum cleaning street car is in Strassburg, Germany.

Passenger cars are now kept spick and span with electric vacuum cleaners.

The Swiss railway is to have several of the most powerful electric locomotives in Europe.

The outlying stations in northern Siberia are now in wireless communication with Viadivostok.

Electric flash signs for advertising purpose have been installed on the sides of electric trucks.

It is anticipated that Berlin, Germany, will soon be in wireless speaking distance with New York.

Storm warnings are now sent to sea by wireless so that vessels may be prepared for violent changes in the weather.

The pulmotor, an electrical device for resuscitating persons overcome by gas, electricity or drowning, has already saved hundreds of lives.

The Hamburg-American steamships are to be equipped with 80,000 candle power searchlights similar to those in use on the German warships.

The New York Edison Company supplies current to 180,000 meters. It nightly lights the equivalent to ten million incandescent lamps.

The average man dissipates about 25 kilowatt-hours of energy a day in motion, muscular action, mental exertion and heat radiation. This is equivalent to a continuous expenditure at the rate of about one-hundred watts or the rating of a 1-8 horse power motor. In spite of his high body temperature—98.6 degrees Fahrenheit—and large radiating surface, man's heat losses are surprisingly small—about fifty watthours an hour, or about one-half of the total energy expenditure. As a heating device the average man is thus about equal to a 16 candle-power carbon filament lamp.

WANTS DAMAGES.

John L. Kendall, on Tuesday, instituted a damage suit against Andrew Horchner to recover $10,000, for an injured right eye alleged to have been sustained in a fight on December 17, 1912. The plaintiff alleges that his eye was permanently injured and the sight almost destroyed. The parties live near Sand Patch.

W. M. Ry's. Great Achievement.

Handling over 60,000 veterans without an accident or serious delay was the record established by the Western Maryland Railway Company during the encampment which recently came to an end at Gettysburg. Between the first and fifth of July, that number of surviving soldiers, who faced each other on the famous battlefield, were brought from all states in the Union to the scene of the bloody conflict of fifty years ago and taken to their homes in comfort and safety.

Never before in the history of railroading in the United States has there been such a successful movement of veterans as occurred during the past few days at Gettysburg. And never again, perhaps, will the like take place in this country, or even in the world. Of course, large crowds have been handled by railroads in past years. There have been extensive movements of soldiers which, in a measure, taxed the capacity of carriers in rendering the proper transportation service; as, for instance, when the United States Government assembled thousands of regulars and volunteers in Southern camps at the outbreak of the Spanish War in 1896. There have also been army maneuvers, which called for the transportation of troops from various states, and which required preparation on the part of the railroads.

But these are hardly fair comparisons when the great assemblage at Gettysburg, for the fiftieth anniversary of the battle which practically settled the conflict between the North and the South, is considered. These veterans were men, the majority of whom had reached the allotted three score and ten years of life, and it required unusual care and preparation for their safe movement. It was the time for testing the mettle of the railroads and the Western Maryland, may it be said, met the situation in a manner which was highly satisfactory to the veterans and particularly gratifying to the officials of the company.

In addition to the veterans, the Western Maryland handled thousands of visitors during encampment week, who made the trip from Washington, Baltimore, and other nearby cities. It was estimated that at least 20,000 persons, not including the veterans, were at the camp during the first three days.

LUMBER FOR SALE.

SOMERSET CHAUTAUQUA.

The Somerset county Chautauqua will be held in Edgewood Grove, Somerset, from August 3rd to 10th inclusive. The Chautauqua will abound with instruction, entertainment and recreation, in one of the most beautiful spots in Western Pennsylvania.

Packing the Trunk.

See that the top of the talcum powder can is tightly closed. Take as few bottles as are needed, and see that the necessary ones are well wrapped in soiled clothes, the kimono, or some other soft material. Wrap shoes individually in soiled clothes or newspapers. This saves space.

Place books flatly on the bottom of the trunk.

Collars may be folded together in paper if a collar bag is not owned.

Clean handkerchiefs should be placed between laundered clothes if a handkerchief box is not in the belongings.

If the tray is heavily packed, be sure that it is well supported.

Posters or other papers to be preserved in smooth condition may be laid on the bottom of the trunk.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA Over the State

Tuption.—Ellen, wife of William Christian, was thrown in front of a hay rake she was operating on the Zimmerman farm. The prongs of the rake caught her and rolled her around and around, and the fact that much hay was in the rake saved her life. She was badly bruised.

Lewisburg.—Hugh Summers, 42, and Thomas Black, his brother-in-law, aged about 40, were arrested at Burnham, this county, on the charge of making and passing counterfeit coins. Summers entered a store in this place and passed a counterfeit $5 gold piece. The merchant got suspicious of the looks of the coin and when taken to a banker was pronounced not genuine. The authorities at Washington, after it was found that several bogus coins of this kind had been passed in town, were communicated with and a secret service detective was sent there. Moulds for both $5 and $10 gold pieces were found, the men were lodged in jail here.

Pittsburgh.—Eleven-year-old Ella Kovack, daughter of Alex Kovack, Northside, was drowned in the Ohio river, at the foot of Spruce Street. The girl with several companions had been picking coal along the railroad tracks. After filling their baskets, Ella went to the river bank where she began washing her face and hands. The little girl lost her balance and slipped from the bank which at that point is steep. Her companions became frightened and ran for help, but the girl sank before aid came.

Philadelphia.—The late J. Milton Colton, a wealthy banker of this city, has devised a portion of his estate to the cemetery of the Presbyterian church at Abington, Pa. Mr. Colton gives the church $80,000 for the employment of a special sexton, who shall keep the cemetery open from sunrise to sunset in order that those who wish to mourn may do so every day in peace and solitude.

Beaver Falls.—Despondent because he was compelled to work on the farm July 4, Arthur Bowers, aged 15, shot himself through the breast with a rifle. At first the shooting was believed accidental, but later a blood-stained note found in the pocket of the youth told the reason for the act. Lebanon.—Fire from a railway engine set fire to a 12-acre wheat field on the Ezra Kreider farm at Fairland, midway between here and Anville, and farmers and others in the vicinity turned out in large numbers to save the fiercely burning grain. A wide patch was burned through the tract but most of the wheat was saved. Had the flames swept the whole field a frame church on the other side of a road might have been taken fire.

Summit Hill.—Thinking she was treating her baby to some candy, Mrs. Peter Morgusky gave morphine to her year-old son, who died shortly afterward in the Panther Creek Valley hospital.

Manch Chunk.—Judge Heydt issued a charter for the incorporating Bowmanstown into a borough.

Reading.—Returning from Leesport shortly before midnight, Guy Reiff, aged 22 years, son of Lot W. Reiff, the Democratic leader of Berks county; Isaac Beck, Harry Schlegel and W. C. Bergner, of this city, were badly injured when the touring car driven by Mr. Reiff went over the side of the road into a ditch, crashing through a fence, tearing down 15 posts and taking with it a telegraph pole. Beck is in the Reading hospital at the point of death, suffering from a double fracture of the skull and internal injuries. The others are badly injured. The cause of the accident is unknown. The party had been camping near Berkeley.

South Bethlehem.—The school board reorganized by electing Dr. R. J. Yost, secretary, and John Donegan, treasurer, the latter having held the position for more than 35 years.
