HERESY OF CAIN MUST BE OVERCOME

THAT minister who recently came into prominence because of alleged heretical views gave an answer to his critics that he knew of only one heresy of Cain. "Am I my brother's keeper?" Failure to appreciate and to meet the obligations of brotherhood he esteems to be the one heresy of the day. In this position he may be contrasted with the editor of a leading religious publication, who, in making a worthy appeal for aid for superannuated ministers, asked if it would not be well to shoot them rather than let them live in penury and then answered his question himself by an appeal to certain noted magnates to come to their assistance, alleging that if it were not for the preachers and religion the workers would rise up and destroy or take the big plants of the country. Conditions for human living should be such that there would be no incentive for men to rise up and seize the possessions of others or to destroy the plants of the big producers. If the heresy of Cain were not the heresy of the times there would be no vast labor unrest, no political graft, none of the mammoth propositions of plunder and violence.

It is almost giving indorsement to the heresy of Cain to hold that the men who have made big fortunes through this heresy should be called upon to support in their old age the preachers who proclaim the living word against it. The heresy of Cain is one to be met by the love of Jesus. The clash of words, the rallying of class against class, the overturning of society by the forces of unrest—these are things that are foreign to the spirit of the divine master, who gave forth the beatitudes and the golden rule.

The True Spirit. The spirit of one who said to Jesus: "If I have defrauded any man I will restore to him fourfold," is that in which men of large means should go about doing good. It is the spirit in which they should answer the query of St. Paul, "How can they hear without a preacher, and how can they preach unless he be sent?" The word needs nothing more than testimony to the power of the life that confutes the articles of greed and that opens the breath of all life in hope and joy to the masses of men. Millions under the influence of the practical precepts of business and politics are asking the question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" and the scepticism with regard to social responsibilities thus set forth is accountable for the total effects of wrong and oppression in society. This is the tenet of murder and rapine, it is the tenet of avarice and envy, it is the tenet of lawlessness and iconoclasm. The work of the tiller of the soil is regarded by the Lord with pleasure, such as that with which he viewed the sacrifice of fruits made to him by Abel. The work of the hewer of wood and the drawer of water is looked upon by the Lord with pleasure, because in the sweat of the brow men should eat bread while they draw with joy water from the wells of salvation.

Era of Heresy Passing. What a wonderful rate of progress the world is making toward the redemption of the earth from sordidness and greed! The reign of terror in industrial pursuits is passing. The reign of a widened sense of social obligation, ranging from the highest to the lowest, is at hand. The era of the heresy of Cain is passing. The era of the consecration of mankind to the only known bond of permanency between them is arising. "Am I my brother's keeper?" asks the cynic, and the words that cover up his misdeeds are hurled back at him in the presence of the one who taught his principles to preach that men should bear one another's burdens.

No one need feel pessimistic. Even the underpaid preachers are coming to their own. It may not be that they ever will be relieved from the condition of their service, the prime condition of poverty of spirit. They will, however, have the range of their work widened and the ox that treadeth out the grain will not always be muzzled by the men whose hearts should be open to make restitution for all that they have absorbed from others, the lack of which has darkened those other lives. Men of big and little wealth need the gospel of restitution preached them, for selfishness and greed are vices of degree, and all men have the spirit of Cain until they come under the power of the spirit of Christ. The one great social heresy is being exposed to the light, and its condemnation is the light that lighteneth every man coming into the world.—Baltimore American.

Education. It is not so long ago that illiteracy was very common and no disgrace. It is not very much longer since scarcely anybody except the priests could read. It was only yesterday that compulsory education became the accepted practice over a large part of civilization.—Rev. F. S. Luther, Episcopalian, Hartford, Conn.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube is inflamed you have a rumbling or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
