New York, October 17.

Only the fact that the average well dressed woman is well cosseted saves her from a hopelessly slouchy look, in the loose, baggy, Zuave type of costume that has taken the fashionable world by storm this season. Waist lines are located anywhere from just below the shoulder to the curve of the hip while seemingly every effort is made to increase the girth at the waist in order to keep the straight line of the figure which makes for slenderness of effect. Blouses are loosely fitted and puffed out at the belt into still greater bulk, and skirts are almost all more or less full at the waist, increasingly full from thence to the knee, where the draperies are tightly drawn to narrowness at the ankle that makes slashes and panels a necessity for ordinary walking.

CONTRASTING PETTICOATS.

Petticoats show so much with the present foot line that they are of greater importance than are often relied upon to give the fashionable color contrast, that makes a plain toned suit effective. Fortunately, since so little material is now used, these garments can be had at very small prices, though people buy so many more of them than formerly that in the end the expenditure for silk skirts is not much diminished. Fur trimmings on satin petticoats is the newest wrinkle, employed only on the most expensive and elaborate skirts. Embroidered pique continues popular for practical wash skirts.

RUFFLE STYLES.

Ruffles and ruffles and more ruffles or "volants" is the Worth edict for winter get-ups, but these are usually anywhere except on the foot of the skirt in the two or three tiered models, where the whole skirt is formed of ruffles or shaped volants. The most popular place for the ruffle is from waist to knee, where they lend just the right fullness and flare, and often have their hems stiffened to produce the "lamp shade silhouette" as some one has dubbed this modish outline. Droopy ruffles make fichu draperies on waists, and hang away from slashes in sleeves. Upstanding ruffles frame the face with the popular low-cut blouse, and fill in the neck appropriately and becomingly when too severe lines need softening. Ruffles and volants of lace trimmed hats of velvet, or satin, and themselves make all of the hat except the crown, in many models.

HATS AND THEIR TRIMMINGS.

Velvet hats lead, and black is first favorite, but whatever the color, size or shape, of the headwear, a high up-standing trimming of feather or ribbon, or net towers up at the back in regular sky-rocket fashion. Usually these trimmings are slender as they are tall, with the tips expanding in "pine trees", "palm, or "paint brush" lines. The single, tall, ostrich plume finds its place in this fashion, and is very much used, though made feathers of various sorts are newer. Paradise continues modish and too expensive for any but a well filled purse.

Moire ribbon makes an effective trimming for a velvet hat, and is wired to stand out at any extreme angle that seems good to milliner and wearer.

Mercury wings pose on top of crowns or on the edge of upturned brims. Butterfly fantasies of lace, ostrich or other feathers poised on long wired stems covered with chenille or satin sway high above the hat.

The general line from back to front is shorter and there is a decided tendency to loop up the brims at the back, or build them close to the crowns at this point.

The poise of the hat is same, low on the head and tipped to hide the left ear and show the right side of the coiffure. This line is becomingly in many shapes with "Tam" crowns where the trimming is apt to be a bandeau like affair of fur or of contrasting coloring, and a fountain like spray of Gourach or Paradise, or some of the many feathers that suggest the Antennae of the butterfly.

POINTS THE WAY.

The Statement of This Hyndman Resident will Interest our Readers.

Our neighboring town Hyndman, points the way in the words of one of its most respected residents:

Mrs. D. E. Bartholamew, Water street, Hyndman, Pa., says: I was in poor health and suffered greatly from pains in my back and sides. I had chills and was often dizzy. Reading a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills, I began using them. They brought prompt relief and as I continued using them, I steadily improved. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many other people and I have never known a case where they have failed to prove of benefit. Doan's Kidney Pills made a complete and permanent cure in my case and I have had no need of a kidney medicine during the past several years. I willingly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills, as I know that they are deserving of all the praise given them.

Ask for Increase in Rates

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and chairman of the committee of railroads chosen by the eastern railroads to present their petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission for an increase in freight rates, the other members of which committee are Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania railroad and W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines, issued the following statement in Chicago:

The railroads, in the eastern territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, today filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission tariffs covering freight rates in official classification territory involving an increase of approximately five per cent. The tariffs as filed are to take effect on November 15th.

It is expected that the Interstate Commerce Commission will institute an inquiry and hearing with regard to these tariffs in the near future, when the railroads will present in detail to the Commission the reasons which made it necessary, in their opinion, to request the increase in rates.

Miners Killed by a Fall of Rock at Jenners.

Coroner Kimmell, today investigated the deaths of Tony Peddy and Joseph Steller, two miners killed one day last week by the fall of a large rock in the Jenners mines of Consolidation Coal company and decided that an inquest was not necessary, the affair being purely of an accidental nature.

Peddy and Steller had set a number of props in the room in which they were working, but the weight of the rock caused one of the props to slip and the huge mass, weighing many tons, came down on them, crushing both men almost to a pulp. Peddy was 24 years of age and two children. Steller was 22 years of age and unmarried.

For 58 years they have successfully demonstrated this leadership in the medium price field. This season's models possess the same skilled workmanship and the same superior wearing qualities of past years linked with important style refinements far in advance of anything we have heretofore done—clearly overtopping the medium price field and forcing comparison with garments selling at half again to double the prices.
