FATHER AND SON IN DISPUTE.

The litigation between Charles S. Vannear, aged 80 years, of Somerset, and his son, Lewis W. Vannear, of Jennertown, reveals one of the most serious breaks between father and son ever involved in an action instituted in the Somerset county courts.

Sometime ago the junior Vannear petitioned the court for the appointment of a guardian for his father, who, he alleged, was mentally incapacitated for the transaction of business on account of his advanced age, and was liable to be made the victim of designing persons. A hearing was held and the matter is still pending in court, the senior Vannear disputing the assertions of his son.

Subsequently Charles S. Vannear entered a judgment note of $523 against his son, and a writ and execution thereon were issued for the sale of the defendant's property. Lewis W. Vannear has filed a petition with the court asking that the judgment be opened and the writ stayed in order that he may enter a defense. He alleges that the note in question was given to his father as collateral security on another note on which his father is bail for him, and which is held by the County Trust company of Somerset. The junior Vannear claims that his father never gave him anything of value for the note, and that the note held by the bank has been reduced to $300 by payments by the defendant, and renewed, not being due under the renewal until January 15, 1914. The court stayed the writ.

THE ST. PAUL PUBLIC LIBRARY.

It has been quite a while since anything was said about this in these columns. Twenty-four persons are now enjoying the reading of the books. This is fine, that so many of the people of that community are taking advantage of these books. But the wonder is who more do not use this great privilege. Now that the library is there, and can be used without a bit of cost, why anyone should not take advantage of it is beyond understanding or explanation. Some people, however, will loudly bewail their disadvantages and lack of opportunities for improvement, and then when they can have advantages and privileges they won't use them. Human nature is a queer thing. How blind some people are to their own good.

BROUGHT SUIT AGAINST LANDLORD AT WINDBER.

Lawrence Schrott, of Windber, brought suit against John E. Hasson, proprietor of the Hasson House, to recover $20,000 damages alleged to have been sustained when the plaintiff fell through an iron trapdoor in the pavement in front of the hotel several months ago. Schrott claims that he broke his right leg and sustained other injuries, some of which were internal. He contends that the door in the pavement was in an unsafe condition. It was closed and he walked on it, his weight causing the door to break and hurling him to the cellar below.

Why Not Get a Guaranteed Glove?

IRELAND'S GUARANTEED GLOVES are bound to be well made or they couldn't be guaranteed. The leather is bound to be good, the workmanship must be good, the finish has to be right, for to guarantee any other sort of glove would be sheer business folly. So you see you get a stylish glove of very best quality when you buy Ireland's—and in each pair you get a signed guarantee bond that we will replace or repair them if they "prove defective in any way, rip at the seam or tear in the material, etc."

If the gloves go wrong the guarantee does your talking. The guarantee in each pair is absolute protection.
