SALISBURY.

The wiser scarcely realized what they mean by "deforestation" until one day last week when he took a little ramble, with dog and gun over some of the woods that used to be a favorite hunting ground. Some of which he had not visited for eight or ten years and also what a change in those few years. I was utterly surprised, nonplussed, bewildered at the changes, wrought by the woodman and his axe and saw.

The wooded hills where the squirrel used to frolic; the shady dells where the little brook sheltered the wary trout and everything is now a barren expanse of desert, as it were as compared to what it was before the appearance of the saw mills and axe men on the scene. To make the devastation more complete, forest fires over spread some of the areas to garner as it were the few little sticks that were left to show that there was once a forest, there where at one time, the tall, proud hemlock towered his head over the giant oak. As I stood gazing on the scene, I thought how well the poet spoke, when he wrote,

Woodmen, spare the tree,
Touch not a single tree,
In youth it sheltered me,
And I'll protect it now.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment, Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney, & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful, it acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure.
