SEVERAL DISEASES OF FOWLS IN THE COUNTRY.

Excellent Little Remedies Given for Many Ills of the Poultry—Handy to Keep Around.

For cases of diarrhoea, a diet of boiled rice is excellent. A little vaseline placed on the tongue is excellent for pip.

An English cure for roup is three drops of camphor on a piece of bread.

Linseed meal will promote digestion and regulate the bowels. Citrine ointment is recommended for chickenpox.

One part cedar oil and two parts vaseline make an ointment, recommended in cases of sorehead or chickenpox.

A teaspoonful of fenugreek daily in the soft feed, for ten fowls, is excellent for digestion.

Chopped up pumpkin seed is said to be a good remedy for tape worms in poultry.

Another preventive of bowel trouble is a teaspoonful of Venetian red in a gallon of drinking water.

Bowel trouble in chicks is often checked by mixing a little granulated charcoal in the soft feed.

Nothing is better for a badly torn comb or wattles than to wash the sores with whiskey; after which coat with vaseline.

For constipation, ten drops of sulphate of magnesia to each pint of drinking water is recommended.

TO EXTRACT FOWL'S SINEWS

Operation is Not Easy at Best and is Extremely Difficult for Any Inexperienced Person.

For some ways of preparing a fowl it is advisable to remove the sinews of the bird, but this is an operation that is not easy at best and that is extremely difficult for an inexperienced person unless he or she might have one of the devices invented by a New Hampshire man. To a box attached to the wall are two claw arms, one of them stationary and the other yielding affixed by a strong spring. A horizontal arm that is hinged to the wall near the floor is attached by a chain to the spring claw arm. The chicken's leg is thrust up through the spring arm and the claw made fast to the stationary arm. Pressure of the foot on the horizontal arm below pulls the fowl down, but the sinews that lead from the claw into the leg are stripped cleanly from the flesh.

W. T. Jones, Meyersdale, Pa., says: "One of our family was feeling very bad about six months ago. His back ached terribly, he could't sleep and was so lame in the morning that he couldn't bend over to tie his shoes. He saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and got a box. This one box cured him. He always recommends Doan's Kidney Pills to his friends."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills the same that Mr. Jones recommends. Foster-Milburn Co. Prop., Buffalo, N. Y.

Hard Soap.

Soap that is allowed to dry and harden lasts twice as long as if used when fresh. Therefore, it is cheaper to buy in quantities and keep it in a dry place.
