DAIRY FACTS

RIPENING CREAM ON A FARM

Many Fail to Grasp Principles Underlying Qualities of Good Flavor and Desirable Aroma.

(By G. E. FREVERT, Idaho Experiment Station.)

There is perhaps no other factor in farm butter making that causes more trouble than the lack of proper ripening or souring of the cream. On many farms the ripening is done with no other purposes in view than that of causing the cream to churn more easily.

The object in ripening cream should be to cause the cream to churn more readily, and to produce desirable flavor and aroma. That cream will churn more readily when sour is a fact well known to any one who has had experience in making butter. However, when it comes to the production of good flavor and aroma in the butter, many fail to grasp the principle underlying the production of these good qualities. The main reason why butter fat commands a higher price on the market than other fats is that it has a peculiarly desirable flavor and aroma which cannot be exactly reproduced in other fats. For this reason it is desirable and profitable to develop these qualities in butter to the highest possible degree.

In order to produce desirable flavor it is very essential that the milk and cream be handled under sanitary conditions.

To introduce filth into the cream is to introduce not only the bad flavors which that filth contains, but also germs which will tend to develop some kind of a bad flavor in the cream.

The germs or ferments which produce a clean sour taste in the cream are the ones that will produce a good flavor in the butter. The addition of a small amount of clean-tasting sour skim milk or butter milk to the cream about six or eight hours before churning will introduce desirable germs which will sour the cream and at the same time produce desirable flavors in the butter.

GATE IS VERY SATISFACTORY

Iowa Man Has One That Has Never Sagged and is Good as New After Several Years' Service.

Mr. C. A. Wren of Lucas county, Iowa, sends Iowa Homestead an illustration of a gate that he has had in use on his farm for a number of years and which has never sagged and is as good as new. He says this gate will last twenty years if made right. Stock cannot jump over it nor get their heads through it. It is made of best one-inch hard pine dressed and painted, with the boards mortised in 3/4 white oak pieces and bolted. It is so heavy that it requires two men to hang it, but when hung it is so light that a child can open and close it with ease. According to Mr. Wren's

Gate Never Sags.

description it requires forty bolts and three large, sixteen-inch hinges. No nails are used in its construction. It should be hung on a large post set at least four and one-half feet in the ground with stone around it and dirt well tamped to hold it solid.

SUPERIOR VALUE OF ALFALFA

Evidence That Plant Furnishes as Near Perfect Ration as Anything Known to Agriculture.

Evidence accumulates daily of the superior value of alfalfa in the production of both milk and beef. A California Guernsey is reported as producing 444 pounds of butter fat in one year on a ration of alfalfa pasture and hay exclusively, the major portion of the alfalfa fed being hay. It is certain that this Guernsey was a good producer and capable of using her feed economically.

However, regardless of the ability of the cow to convert feed into milk, it is apparent that alfalfa hay and alfalfa as pasture comes as near constituting perfect ration for the dairy cow as anything known to agriculture. In the compounding of dairy rations it has long been regarded as necessary that a variety of feeds be used.

This is in order to increase the palatability and to prevent the animal from tiring of the feed. The fact that an exclusive ration of alfalfa will produce such results as reported in the case of this Guernsey is evidence that alfalfa alone is highly palatable and that it can be used successfully as an exclusive feed.

Give Cows a Rest.

It is well, when possible, to give a cow from six to eight weeks' rest between her periods of lactation, but if it is impossible to dry her off it is better to continue milking than to attempt to force her dry.

Fashions and Fads.

Young women are wearing scarfs and muffs of beaver and squirrel.

In neckwear, the soft, simple, low-neck styles will predominate.

Exceedingly fashionable are the drop ornaments of every variety.

Very new are the hats of tan straw trimmed with a touch of fur.

The girle ends of evening gowns are finished with long bead tassels.

The newest handbags are of silk and should match the suit in color.

The jaunty outing hat is trimmed with broad, full feather quills.

Barbaric necklaces of colored beads and odd-shaped lozenges are a fad.

There are more velvet costumes worn on the street than any other sort.

The fashionable coiffure is adorned with a flat band of pearls or brilliants.

It looks as though the long waistcoat of rich material were going to be a permanent member of the fashionable woman's wardrobe.

There is a closely knitted silk sweater which fits the body snugly and is very comfortable under the coat when walking or skating.

Snuffels, Col., A. J. Walsh was badly done up with rheumatism and sent for Foley Kidney Pills which was the only thing that would cure him. George Potter, of Pontiac, Mo., was down on his back with kidney and bladder trouble and Foley Kidney Pills made him well and able to work. It is a splendid medicine and always helps. Just try it.
