BRIEFLY stated, a drayman of this place, who was a competitive bidder with others of his calling in town, secured the job of hauling the fair carnival outfit from the switch to the fair grounds. Realizing his inadequacy as to horses and wagons, instead of asking for assistance of those who aid in the interests of the town, he turned to the contractor who is building the new state road, and the latter's teams assisted in the work. Is such action commendable?

JUDGE BEN LINDSEY of Denver, who has a world wide reputation as a vigorous denouncer of evil and whom all crooks fear, on his recent visit to Philadelphia gave the following as his opinion of Mr. Penrose:

"Unless Boies Penrose is driven from the United States Senate, the people of Pennsylvania can expect only the nullification of all progressive law, the utter disregard of human rights, and the tearing down of all standards for social, economic and industrial justice. Ohio defeated its Foraker; Illinois, its Lorimer, and now Pennsylvania should put Penrose on the political gibbet. Penrose represents the old order of things and the old coterie of special privilege. His election would be a disgrace to the state, and would be the same as telling every youth to go out and violate the law. It would be a sinister influence on our social life, because his election would be a triumph for boodlers, dive keepers, rum sellers and big crooks. The election of Gifford Pinchot would have far-reaching results. Pinchot is the honest, courageous type of man needed in public office. For ten years back the decent men of all parties have been fighting Penrose and his type. Pennsylvania should not slide back."

OUR contemporary local paper notes in its edition of last week that Rev. Goughnour expressed the fear in a recent sermon that some Meyersdale men would vote for Penrose. According to a friend who heard this same sermon this was not the only expression the Reverend made in this connection. His sermon was on the subject, "Caesar's Tribute and God's," in which he took the position that Caesar is representative of the State in modern times. He said that men are false to the State when they put party above principle, place their own selfish interests above public welfare, corrupt the ballot, prevent justice, seek to obtain legislation by bribery, or when they cheat or plunder the public treasury. Then he stated, that in view of these facts, any man who can gain the consent of his conscience to vote for Penrose or support his candidacy must hold his citizenship in very slight esteem, and does fail to "render unto Caesar as well as good sense. It is the sort of practical Christianity that is needed to pull Pennsylvania out of the horrible political corruption into which she has fallen. And we are ready to assert that it is the safest bet that both the most hypocritical of the Pharisees and the worst of the publicans and sinners will stand together solidly for the senior Senator, Mat. Quay's pupil, in the coming election. Better men who have been blinded into support of Penrose should get out of such company."

LATE RULINGS IN COUNTY COURT.

The court today refused a new trial in the case of J. C. Lowry against Austin Yutz, which was tried in civil court last spring. Lowry recovered $600 as his commission as his commission as agent in selling a $18,000 farm property for the defendant.

In an opinion filed one day last week Judge Ruppel dismissed a motion for a new trial in the damage case of W. A. Carolus of Black township, against the Consolidation Coal company, in which the plaintiff several months ago was awarded a verdict of $700 for damages to his farm resulting from the removal of the coal underlying the same by the defendant company. The court, however, reduces the amount of the verdict from $700 to $500, holding that the jury improperly considered the value of a spring of water in determining the extent of the plaintiff's damages.

Judge Ruppel has refused to continue the murder case, in which Henry C. Cramer of Kingwood, is charged with killing William H. Trimpey, about two months ago. Cramer's attorneys claimed that on account of exhaustive work in the higher courts recently they would be put to considerable inconvenience if the trial were to be taken up as scheduled on September 17th. Following the announcement of the court's decision District Attorney Virgil R. Saylor, Attorney Norman T. Boose, and County Detective Lester G. Wagner, representing the commonwealth, left for the scene of the murder with subpoenas for witnesses.

Attorneys Aaron C. and Frank A. Holbert, acting for the First National Bank of Bristol, Tenn., one day last week sued Nettie S. Armstrong, now E. K. Ream, for $5000, alleged to be due on a note signed November 2, 1909.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 13

THE TEN VIRGINS.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 25:1-13. GOLDEN TEXT—"Watch therefore for ye know neither the day nor the hour when the Son of Man cometh." Matt. 25:13.

A parable is "an earthly story with a heavenly meaning." An analogy is "a likeness." This story is a parable. It is to illustrate the vigilant, expectant attitude of faith. Heb. 6:28; II Tim. 4:8. Leaving the temple, Jesus drew the disciples' attention to its buildings and predicted its destruction. Proceeding to the Mount of Olives, his disciples ask him, "Tell us, when shall these things be? And what shall be the sign of thy coming, and the end of the world?" In reply Jesus gave the disciples his Olivet discourse and prophecies found in chapters 24 and 25. To fully comprehend this parable we ought to review all of this teaching. The discourse as a whole falls into these parts (1) 24:1-44 deals with Israel as a nation; (2) 24:45-25:30 deals with the church as being responsible for the king during the period between his two advents; and (3) 25:31-46 deals with the judgment of the nations when the Son of Man comes in his glory. It will be seen then that this lesson comes in the second part and is one of three parables concerning the responsibility of the church. Jesus is the bridegroom, John 3:28, 29, and sets forth the love of Christ for the church, Eph. 5:25, 28, 30-32.

Two Classes. I. "While the bridegroom tarried" vv. 1-5. The first and strongest idea of this section is that he, Jesus, the bridegroom, is coming again. Among those who wait are two classes, the wise and the foolish, though both were right intentioned. The lamps symbolize Christian profession, Luke 12:35; II Tim. 3:5, and the oil that which is essential to give us power whereby we maintain our profession, Acts 10:38; I John 2:20-27. The foolish virgins were superficial and had not enough to maintain their professions. The wise virgins had enough oil; so also may the believer have the abiding spirit of Christ's presence wherein to maintain his Christian profession. Waiting they all nodded (slumbered) and others evidently lay down (slept). The wise virgins could afford to rest as they had all things ready. If they had been seen and rendered aid to those who were in the sorry plight of not being ready. The parable was a test of the faith and patience of both the wise and the foolish as both awaited the "fulness of time" when he should appear.

The Great Question. II. Behold the bridegroom cometh" vv. 6-13. All are awakened by this midnight cry. The hour was one when he was least expected, and the church of today needs to be awakened to a realizing sense of this truth. Both the wise and the foolish have to meet him, but the wise were the only ones whose lights could shine and show the way into the banqueting room. They all outwardly appear alike even to the very point of separation. The church of God individually and collectively, has yet to sense the danger to it and to others if its light for any reason be not continuous. This cry was a call to "meet him" and we all need to ask ourselves, "are we ready to meet him?" The hour was too late to make needful preparation to meet him. In their emergency they turned to the five wise ones but the wisdom of one cannot supply the deficiency or the foolishness of others (v. 9). There is no Scripture to support the teaching that one man's merit is applicable to another except the merit of the God-man Jesus as applied to sinful humanity. Hence the wise sent their supply to the original source of supply for all, and as they went "the bridegroom came." So will it be with all who put off too long the securing of the Holy Spirit in their lives.

"They that were ready" went in, they that were not ready when they came found the door "shut." To attend a marriage feast is highly esteemed everywhere, but it is a privilege that is worthy of careful preparation. Remember that Jesus is here showing the attitude towards himself of those who profess to be devoted to him during the period of his absence, and who expect his return as king. That being so, we need to remind ourselves of the laws of the kingdom as he gave them. Jesus knows those that are his, John 10:27; II Tim. 2:19; I Cor. 8:3, but such are not those who make a mere outward profession of faith and lack the abiding presence and power of the Holy Spirit. The day of separation between the true and the false is surely coming, a time when the real, genuine, Spirit-filled Christians will rejoice "at his coming."

The lesson for us is "Watch." Because we do not know the day nor the hour when he will come, therefore, "watch." This word does not mean simply to look or to gaze but to keep awake, to be vigilant.

THE CENT-A-WORD COLUMN.

This space is to be devoted to small ads of any kind,—lost, found, want, for rent, for sale, any honorable use at all, and the charge will be just one penny for each word. For example, Jno Jay has a cook stove he wishes to offer for sale and he words it like this:—"For Sale, Good cookstove, John Jay." The ad would cost the said John Jay just six cents, no more for each time he would have it inserted.
