The engagement has been announced of Miss Marie R. Lambert of Somerset, to Edward P. Lippincott of Philadelphia.

Francis P. Schriver of Addison died at the County Home last week, aged eighty-eight years. He is survived by several adult children.

Mrs. Carl Heckman, who pursued the study of law in the office of John G. Ogle at Somerset, has received word that she has passed successfully the examination of the State board, which will admit her to practice in any of the courts of Pennsylvania.

Calvin Lohr, a laboring man who was married and lived near Husband, was run over and killed sometime Tuesday night of last week on the Quenamahoning Branch railroad, between Somerset and his home. His wife and six young children survive.

The continued drought has caused a scarcity of water at a number of places in Somerset county. At Hooversville, it has been necessary to close several of the mines. Over at Stoyestown, the water company has been able to supply water from its reservoir only at short intervals.

Wilsoncreek mines, of which Harry Phillips is superintendent, have resumed full operation following a weekly four days' schedule of work. A night shift has been put on in the new workings there to meet the increased demand for coal in Europe, where mining has been practically suspended by the belligerent nations.

Apples are so plentiful in some parts of Somerset county that farmers and stockmen are having great trouble in providing pasture for their cows. Eating apples has the effect of drying up the milk and injuring the cows, but there are apples literally everywhere and it is impossible to keep the cows from them. In one herd of 52 cattle recently, 37 of the animals were found on apples and were found lying in ravines and on the hillsides in a helpless condition.

What is Going on in This Part of The State

Windber is having quite a big building boom and all classes of mechanics are busily engaged.

Frostburg has the unenviable representation of having forty-two saloons to a population of about 8,000. Where is the town in this country or any other which can beat that record?

James McIntyre, of Robertsville, Huntingdon county, has purchased from F. E. Colvin, Esq., of Bedford the furniture of the Commercial Hotel, at Hyndman and leased the building, which will be open to the public October 1st.

William Ellen, driver for the Standard Oil company at Hopewell, wife helping to unload a car of coal at that place recently, suddenly fell over and when picked up by companions was found to be dead. He was aged 57 years and is survived by his wife and five children.

On the occasion of Penrose's recent visit to Allegheny and nearby counties the machine managers sent out a request to the people to put Penrose's picture in front of their places of business. Nearly every saloon-keeper had a Penrose placard in his window. They were practically the only ones, who obeyed the request.

Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh, Penrose-Pelf candidate for governor, will not be one of the speakers on Educational day during the Old Home week in Brownsville. Indignation reached such a point that the people refused to stand for his appearance and at a result the executive committee decided to cancel Dr. Brumbaugh's invitation.

After months of preparation and experiment, the officials of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company have issued orders for the resumption of operation at the Old Meadow plant in Scottsdale in a few days and with it, the use of "coke breeze"—a waste product of the Connellsville region, but fuel for driving the mill engines. The Old Meadow was shut down last May, and since then new boilers have been installed and much new machinery added. The boiler plant was designed so that fine powdered coke could be burned.

Several weeks ago a child died in Everett from what was thought by some to have been stomach trouble but by others, as a result of vaccination. At present a child near that town is quite ill, the symptoms being identical with those of the child who died, it is now believed from lockjaw superinduced by vaccination. Both children were vaccinated by different Everett physicians and the Board of Health of that town is now making an investigation as to the vaccine used.

Secretary Charles O'Neil, of District No. 2, United Mine Workers of America, says that many of the mines which had been idle or running on short time are now opening up for heavy orders. He estimates that all but about 3,000 of the miners in this district are now employed, whereas about 10,000 were idle only a few weeks ago. Orders have been received by the Ebensburg Coal company, with mines at Colver, that will keep the operations working at full pressure at least till next spring. Many new houses and public buildings are being erected in the hamlet, which has every appearance of a boom town.

Holding a part of a human foot in his mouth a small puppy owned by Otis Wagner, ran through the streets of Clyde, Indiana county recently. The dog had been in the woods north of Clyde, and it is supposed to be the foot of Mrs. Edward Olowe, familiarly known as "Mother" Olowe, who has been missing from her home since August 30th. Mrs. Olowe was aged 95 years and grave fears have been entertained as to her whereabouts. The foot brought to town by the puppy was bare and contained all the toes and was in a fairly good state of preservation and had apparently been cut off, as the cut was a clean cut.
