The H. C. Frick Coke Company has issued orders for the firing of 1500 additional coke ovens in the Connellsville and Lower Connellsville regions. The ovens will be fired Monday and Tuesday giving employment to 1,000 men. Altogether 2,500 new ovens have been fired by the Frick Company last week bringing its operations to about 5 per cent of capacity. The plants will operate five and six days a week instead of four and five days as they had been doing in the fall and in the earlier part of the winter.

Wilfred H. Schoff, secretary of the Commercial Museum, Philadelphia, has announced that Greece is in the American market for more than $2,000,000 worth of made-in-America commodities for immediate delivery, including 100,000 rifles, 100 tons of barbed wire for military purposes and large supplies of lumber. The inquiry for these materials pointed out that "the present European crisis makes the demand for these supplies imperative." The inquiry which also includes foodstuffs, army shoes and 1,000 tons of white vaseline for oiling guns.

That Germany has finally launched her threatened submarine war against British shipping, in order to isolate the British Isles and cut off the food and war supplies, is the conclusion following the sinking of four British merchant ships in the Irish sea and the English Channel in 48 hours. Consternation prevails in shipping circles and marine insurance rates are soaring. Following a conference at the Admiralty it was feared that a naval patrol around England, Scotland and Ireland would be extended and considerably strengthened. Warships will probably be sent as escorts to British merchant ships into port. Fears are felt for the Lusitania which is now bound from New York for Liverpool.

SUMMER MODELS IN WRAPS AND FIXINGS

New York, Feb. 1.—The fashionable shops on and near Fifth avenue have been doing a rushing business in summer clothes for wear at Palm Beach and other smart Southern resorts, where people habitually fit to warmer climates are installed in increasing numbers, since condition abroad make European resorts impossible.

Advance Models.

From selections made by these smart fitters, it is now easy to predict the trend of fashion, so that costly mistakes in early planning can be avoided. Short skirts of corduroy remain favorites for golf wear, skating and tobogganing, with certain tan and putty shades first favorites for use at the North, and white and lighter tints where tropical temperatures prevail. The smartest cuts in these heavy cords are gored at the side seams to fit snugly over the hip and have quite a bit of fullness under the strap belt at the back. The belt ends in yoke pieces at either side of the front closing. The buttons used down the front and on the yoke are covered with the cord.

Beach Cloth and Ratine.

Beach cloth makes a lighter skirt that has been enthusiastically received. This is cut in full circular style close at the top and very full at the hem, and is smartened by patch pockets at either side of the front, and by a high short turn-over belt at the back caught by smoked pearl buttons after the manner familiar in the children's Dickens suits. Ratine skirts in plaids and blocks are very similar in cut and finish, and blouses of wash silks, crepes and organdies to wear with these are constructed on decidedly tailorish lines, with little in the way of trimming except the hemstitching of revers and collar.

A New Model.

A very new blouse developed in linen and voile can be worn either fastened at the top with the high turn-over collar held by a velvet band, or open in high pointed neck the revers having touches of embroidery.

Sealing Wax Ornaments.

An old time fad has been revived in the making of sealing wax ornaments. Hat pins, belt-buckles, beads, slides combs and fancy hairpins are a few of the articles made attractive by being overlaid with sealing wax in various pure colors and combinations. The easiest and most satisfactory way to do this most successfully in enameling is to use old trinkets, or cheap ornaments as foundations, simply covering them with the melted wax. Combinations of green and blue, the peacock colors, are especially modish.

In one of them ost exclusive shops on Fifth avenue I saw a little gown that had several novel and attractive points of interest to the woman who likes to get her wardrobe ready in advance. Built of fine white cotton crepe this was embroidered in a graceful braiding pattern with a mixture of small jet and porcelain beads. The points in front and one the back which fell over the skirt about six inches below the belt line. A girde of black velvet ribbon run through buttonholed slits held these points in position and the bead embroideries made them very decorative.
