

Song and Story

The Way of Life.
I used to think I knew I knew,
But now, I must confess,
The more I know I know I know,
I know I know the less.

"He who planteth a tree is a servant of God,
He provideth a kindness for many generations,
And faces that he hath not seen shall bless him." —Henry Van Dyke.

This is what life means to me: a place where a Father deals differently unto His children, but with all in love; a place where true joys do not hang on material pegs, and where all the time the fact that God our father is on His throne lines every cloud with gold. —W. T. Grenfell.

A Time for Rejoicing
This singular announcement was to be seen recently outside a certain place of worship:

"This evening the Rev. Mr. X. will preach his farewell sermon and the choir will render a thanksgiving hymn especially composed for the occasion."

The Fisherman's Prayer.
Oh, suffer me to land a fish,
So large that even I,
In talking of it afterwards,
May never have to lie.—The Rambler.

The small daughter of a practicing physician, who evidently has an eye to business, told her mother, in no uncertain terms that she must call at once on their new neighbor.

"And, why must I call on her?" asked the mother, amused at the child's positiveness.

"Well, in the first place," explained the little lady, "they've got three of the scrawniest kids, and the mother herself doesn't look very strong."

The New Sin
A San Francisco man tells this one: In a police court of my town a policeman rose to make a charge against his prisoner.
"What's this fellow charged with?" demanded the magistrate.
"Bigotry, judge," said the officer; "he's got three wives."

A Modern Battle
A military attaché said at a Washington luncheon:
"Modern warfare has no picturesqueness, no beauty. A wounded soldier at Charleroi was asked to describe his impressions of a modern battle. He eased his face bandages and replied:
"A modern battle! What's it like? Well, first you hear a din of a noise and then the nurse says, "Try and take a swallow of this."—Washington Star.

MAKE THE ROADS BEAUTIFUL AS WELL AS SAFE.
Many citizens are not aware that there are laws in Pennsylvania which prohibit the erection of unsightly signs, posters and other forms of advertisements along the public roads. On State highways, the State Highway Department has issued orders that all of these advertisements be removed.

Why not go a step further and on the "State-wide Good Roads Day," Wednesday, May 25, cause these relics of a past age to be torn down on the county roads? They have no business there and few people like to see them. THE PROPER PLACE TO ADVERTISE IS IN THE NEWSPAPERS. There is no reason why the beauties of nature should be distorted in this way. Let every county organization, which is working to improve the highways on the "State-wide Good Roads Day," aim to beautify these roads as well as to put them in passable condition.

The petition of the White Oak Light, Heat & Power Company to restrain the Borough of Holsopple from installing a street lighting system, was heard before the Public Service Commission recently at Harrisburg. The light company was represented by Attorney Clarence L. Shaver, of Somerset, and Attorney Davis, of Johnstown. The borough's side was presented by Chas. W. Walker, Esq. of Somerset and Frank P. Barnhart, of Johnstown. A decision will be handed down later, only the arguments having been heard on Friday.

The strawberry crop said to be the best in many years, is now on the way and soon we will be partaking of the luscious berry.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

Oakland, the last wet spot in Garrett County, Md., became dry, May 1 and the saloon men disposed of everything by that time. It is estimated thousands of dollars went into the liquor dealers' tills that week, crowds coming from nearby points in West Virginia.

The Lutherans of Boswell, have about decided to build a new church on the site of the present house of worship. The edifice is far too small; the membership having increased greatly as the result of a recent revival. The pastor is Rev. Elmer Rice.
